ROSENWALD HAS BRIDE

Philanthropist Weds Widow

Sears, Roebuck & Co. Head and St. Paul Woman on Son Honeymoon

Children of Both Present at Ceremony in Son's Home Near Philadelphia

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (Exclusive) Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist and chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and his bride, the former Mrs. Adelaide Rau of St. Paul and Chicago, are on their honeymoon at midnight, according to the accompaniments of the beaming of photographers' flashlights and the cheers of well-wishers and their friends.

They sailed in the finest suite of the British liner Saturnia for Egypt on a voyage which is expected to last until about April 1.

The sailing followed by only a few hours the surprise marriage of the Chicago financier and multi-millionaire philanthropist to the mother-in-law of his eldest son, Lessing Rosenwald at the latter's home in Abington Township, near Philadelphia.

MARRIAGE SECRET

The marriage of the couple had been planned for several days but efforts to escape publicity manifested by both families declined to release information until the ceremony had been performed.

The home for the marriage was that of the Montgomery countryhouse at Norristown, Pa., long before the wedding. Mr. Rosenwald, his age set 67, and Mrs. Rau gave hers as 60. Her husband died in 1918. Mr. Rosenwald's first wife, Mrs. Augusta Nusbaum Rosenwald, died in the same home in Chicago last April.

Miss Rosenwald, accompanied by members of the wedding party, arrived in New York from Chicago shortly after 7 o'clock last night and went at once to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, where there was a dinner party with entertainment and dancing. Rosenwald is now 53 years old and has two daughters by a former marriage.

WELCOME GREETED

At the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald and members of their party went to the pier and found their fellow-passengers on the ship, a large, prominent New Yorkers, waiting at the railings to greet them.

A battery of still and motion-picture cameramen also was massed at the gangplank directly over the unloading platform. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald stepped, smiling, to the gangplank and

Colorful Ceremony Makes Belgian Girl Prospective Queen of United Italy

Pope Blesses Bridal Couple; Crowned Heads and High Dignitaries See Rites

ROME, Jan. 8. (AP)—Princess Marie Jose of Belgium became the wife of Crown Prince Humbert and the prospective Queen of Italy this morning at a marriage ceremony resplendent with color and pageantry in the Pauline chapel of the Quirinal Palace.

Three kings and two queens, two former kings and three former queens, and twenty-eight princes and twenty-six princesses crowded into the chapel with a host of eminent political, social and military personages from many countries.

After the ceremony the young royal bridal couple drove to the Vatican, where Pope Pius XI received them, gave them the pontifical blessing and wished them happiness throughout their lives. It was the first time in the history of the papacy that a Pope has received and blessed a future King and Queen of united Italy.

SPECIAL RITUAL USED

Crown Prince Humbert, 26 years of age, and Princess Marie Jose, 23, were married by Cardinal Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, according to the ritual reserved for royalty.

On one side of them in the chapel stood the assembled kings, queens and princes, and on the other side Premier Mussolini, Marshal Petain of France and the military chiefs of Italy.

The royal wedding procession entered the Hall of the Royal Guards, adjoining the Pauline chapel, at 10:35 a.m., thirty-five minutes late for the ceremony.

Princess Marie Jose, accompanied by her father, King Albert of Belgium, came at the head of the royal group, and was followed by Belgian and Italian officers.

CROWN PRINCE NEXT

Then came Crown Prince Humbert and his mother, Queen Helena of Italy, followed by King Victor Emanuel with Queen Elizabeth of Belgium.

The procession passed through a crowd of 1000 guests in the Hall of the Royal Guards. Among them were members of the Italian and Belgian aristocracies, state officials and members of the Diplomatic Corps. The men were in full uniform or full dress, and the women wore gowns in pastel shades, veils and tiaras.

The party then entered the Pauline chapel, where the highest rank-

THREE ILL WITH RARE SICKNESS

Two Women and Man in Annapolis Believed to Have "Parrot Fever"

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Three patients being treated at Emergency Hospital here are suffering with a disease which their physician, Dr. J. Willis Martin, believes is the comparatively rare "parrot fever," it was said at the hospital today.

The patients are Mrs. Simon S. Martin, wife of the secretary of the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce; her daughter, Mrs. Edith M. Kalmey, and the latter's husband, Lee W. Kalmey, proprietor of an automobile service station here.

It was reported the family bought a parrot in a Baltimore store shortly before Christmas and that the bird became ill and died Christmas Day.

Dr. Martin described the illness as resembling typhoid pneumonia, but said his patients did not respond as he thought they should to treatment.

Man Who Lent Hoover Coat Held by Police

DETROIT, Jan. 8. (AP)—The man who lent President Hoover his raincoat today faced charges of passing a worthless $40 check. He is Donald Henderson, who supplied a coat for the President when the latter came into the Detroit City Hall dripping wet last October. Henderson told police he lost his money in the stock-market crash.

In his pocket was a letter from the President, another from Henry Ford and a Christmas card from the President and Mrs. Hoover, all inspired by the raincoat incident, which occurred during Thomas A. Edison's Golden Jubilee of Light.

Death-Dealing Mount Pelee in Renewed Threat

FORT DE FRANCE (Martinique) Jan. 8. (AP)—Mt. Pelee, redoubtable West Indian volcano, which destroyed the city of Saint Pierre with terrible loss of life in 1902, has been spasmodically erupting since Sunday.

The volcano has flung out clouds of ashes that fell from the northeastern to the southern parts of the island. Flashes of light and fire often have been visible by night and by day. A heavy cloud of smoke hangs constantly over the crater and sometimes completely hides the mountain.

Mrs. Hoover's Cold Unabated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Hoover today remained indoors at the White House because of a severe cold from which she has been suffering for two weeks.

Last night she did not accompany the President to the dinner given by Vice-President Curtis or to the reception at the Woman's Congressional Club.

It was said at the White House today it is problematical whether Mrs. Hoover will attend the reception to the judiciary tomorrow night.

Taft Showing Improvement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Chief Justice Taft was described as "very comfortable" today at Garfield Hospital.

He is there for relief of a bladder ailment. No visitors were permitted to see him except Mrs. Taft and his associates on the Supreme Court bench, but he is reported showing marked improvement in his nervous condition and it is predicted he will leave the hospital the latter part of this week for Asheville, N. C., for a rest.

Smallpox-Ridden Ship Asks Help

HONOLULU, Jan. 8. (AP)—With smallpox aboard, the freighter Golden Sun, en route from Manila and Hongkong to San Francisco, radioed an appeal here today for medical aid and vaccine to be sent to her at sea.

AMERICAN ENVOY WILL QUIT POST AT PRAGUE

PRAGUE (Czecho-Slovakia) Jan. 8. (AP)—Louis Einstein, United States Minister at Prague, will quit his post at the end of January. He will await a new appointment while visiting his daughter in London.

HOTEL COMPANY HEAD DROWNS IN DUCK BLIND

SALISBURY (Md.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Harry Busick, president of the Lord Baltimore Hotel Company in Baltimore, was drowned today in a duck blind while hunting near Vienna, Md.

OAKLAND WOMAN KILLED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Rafelle Vallier, Oakland, was killed here today when the automobile in which she was riding, driven by her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Irving, Sacramento, collided with a car driven by Mrs. F. J. Meiss, this city.

MIDWEST IN GRASP OF ICE ONCE MORE

Snow and Sleet Tie Up Air Traffic and Delay Ground Transport in Wide Area

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 8. (AP)—Snow and sleet pelted the Middle West and Rocky Mountain regions today, halting air traffic and delaying ground transportation, as winter extended its blustery reign.

Unsettled weather conditions prevailed down to the Gulf of Mexico, Southern States reporting rain and fog in the face of descending temperatures.

Air transportation generally was tied up through the Middle West and even the Army's squadron of "snow birds," which had planned to take off for the Pacific Northwest on a cold-weather practice flight, was held to the ground by ice which formed on the planes at Selfridge Field, Mich.

At Miles City, Mont., the mercury dropped to 16 deg. below zero. Subzero readings were general in the Rocky Mountains, where more snow fell last night, blocking highways in the higher altitudes.

The cold continued in the Northwest, with additional snowfall. At Williston, N. D., a temperature of 26 deg. below was recorded and it was 34 below at Winnipeg, Man.

Sleet and snow fell in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and North Texas, resulting in many minor highway accidents. The storm caused suffering to live stock grazing on the staked plains of Texas and in the lead and zinc district of Missouri and adjoining States, mining operations were hampered.

DRUG AGENT FACES BRIBE ACCUSATION

Long Beach Man Named in Warrant Sworn to by Santa Cruz Sheriff

SANTA CRUZ, Jan. 8. (AP)—D. C. Whipple of Long Beach, a State narcotic agent, was charged with the solicitation and acceptance of a bribe today in a warrant sworn to by Sheriff Sinnot of Santa Cruz county.

Sheriff Sinnot asserted Whipple, a fellow narcotic agent, and two Watsonville officials, shared in an $800 bribe taken by Whipple for showing leniency to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jung, Watsonville Chinese, whom he had arrested in a narcotic raid December 30, 1929.

CROWD BATTLES TO HEAR TALK ON EINSTEIN THEORY

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Police reserves were called to the American Museum of Natural History tonight to quell a disturbance created by a crowd which was under the impression it was being barred from a lecture on the Einstein theory.

As the time for the lecture approached an unusually large crowd began to pour into the building. Attendants attempted to keep order. Thinking they were being kept out, a group of young men surged forward and swept the attendants aside. Women were knocked down and trampled. The crowd pressed forward into the wing housing American Indian war canoes, totem poles and similar exhibits.

A guard telephoned for the police, who charged the crowd and restored order momentarily. A few minutes later, at the auditorium entrance, an overflow crowd became restless. Bruised and tearful women who had been in the other melee again were caught in a rush which tore the iron gate from the door of the Alaskan exhibition wing.

The police again charged the crowd, swinging night sticks. Order was restored. No one was injured seriously enough to require treatment.

SYNTHETIC LIFE NEAR

Latest Step of Science Told

Federal Physirist Explains German's Discovery of Respiration Ferment

Artificial Protoplasm Seen as Future Move in Solving Mystery

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—The latest step by science toward one of its hardest tests, learning whether it can produce life artificially in its laboratories, was described tonight by Dr. Paul R. Heyl, physicist, of the United States Bureau of Standards. He spoke before a meeting of the New York Electrical Society.

This step, he said, is the discovery within the year by Prof. Hans Fischer of Munich, Germany, of a way to make artificially the substance called the "respiration ferment." This matter is the red part of the blood corpuscle, both in humans and animals. It carries the oxygen from the lungs to the body tissues. Without it a person quickly would suffocate.

MADE OF CHEMICALS

Fischer, after seventeen years' research, succeeded in making the ferment from ordinary chemicals, including carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen.

"The body," said Dr. Heyl, "is, after all, simply a physical and chemical laboratory. There is no reason why we cannot understand it all some day. We are getting nearer all the time. One hundred years ago it was considered impossible to make synthetically, that is artificially, such a thing as organic compound, a substance having certain peculiarities of living things. It was even impious to think it might be done. Yet now thousands of these organic compounds have been produced synthetically.

LATEST DISCOVERY

"The progress recently has been rapid and the latest is the discovery of the respiration ferment by Fischer. This ferment is the middleman in delivery of oxygen from our blood to bodily tissues. This process is connected intimately with our life. Its synthesis goes to show that some day we shall know all the processes.

"I am quite satisfied that eventually we shall come to a solution of the mystery of life. Then we shall understand all the life processes as well as we now know the burning of a lump of coal.

"Protoplasm is the basis of all living matter. Some day we shall learn how to produce protoplasm. It may or it may not turn out to be living. If it is alive we shall have created life artificially."

Dr. Heyl was asked whether there is in sight any possibility of creating life that is conscious, things that know they are alive.

"That is too far ahead to talk about," he said. "We shall learn the physics, mechanics and chemistry of the body. We may find some time the connection between life and consciousness, but I do not know."

BALL CLUB PRESIDENT KILLS SELF

A. J. Heinemann, Owner of New Orleans Team, Said to Have Been in Ill Health

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8. (AP)—A. J. Heinemann, president and owner of the New Orleans Southern Association baseball club, shot himself fatally early tonight in his office at the local ball park that bears his name.

The baseball magnate had been in ill health for some time, friends said, and had been given to fits of despondency.

Heinemann was 51 years of age, and was a prominent figure in the organized baseball field. Although he lost heavily in the recent stock market fluctuations, friends said they believed his health, and not his financial affairs, induced his act.

Envoy's Name Given Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—The nomination of Frederick M. Sackett, senior Senator from Kentucky, to be ambassador to Germany was forwarded to the Senate late today by President Hoover, but the Senate had recessed. It will be taken up tomorrow.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL OPPOSE PARKER BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—The opposition of the New York Board of Trade to the Parker bill to regulate interstate motor busses was registered today before the House Commerce Committee by George H. Pride of that board.

Pride testified that the board opposes the bill in its entirety as one proposing "undue interference" and which would "severely curtail" initiative in the development of motor bus carriers.

Will Rogers Remarks:

NEWTON (Kan.) Jan. 8. [To the Editor of The Times:] That royal wedding in Rome today—neither one had much choice of selection, unless they married outside royalty. If you think that wedding attracted a lot of attention you wait till one of Mussolini's sons marries one of Ramsay MacDonald's daughters.

They offered Babe Ruth the same salary that Mr. Hoover gets, Babe claims he should have more. He can't appoint a commission to go up and knock the home runs. He has to do it all himself.

Lindbergh refused the St. Louis statue, now the whole world will force one on him, not for flying the ocean, but for being the first man that ever refused a statue.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P.S.—Kansas never looked better, all her politicians are in Washington.

OLD GUARD GIVES UP

La Follette Gets Finance Seat

Republican Stalwarts Yield to Demands of Western Insurgent Group

Desire to Prosecute Tariff Bill Brings Capitulation in Committee Fight

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—The old saying that "the Old Guard dies but never surrenders" was reversed today when the Republican stalwarts of the Senate Committee on Committees capitulated to the demands of the western insurgent group and gave Senator La Follette of Wisconsin a place on the all-powerful Senate Finance Committee.

It was a complete surrender. The reason, for it lies in the fact that if the young Wisconsin independent was not put on the committee the insurgent-Democratic coalition was prepared to carry the issue to the floor and force the assignment, just as they have succeeded in rewriting the tariff to suit their own ideas.

It was a case of protecting the tariff measure, and of staving off a running Senate battle which might have lasted for many weeks to jeopardize the entire administration legislative program. For the insurgent group had threatened to go on the warpath against all legislation in general unless "young Bob" was given a seat on Finance.

SMOOT TIPS SCALE

Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of Finance, cast the vote that tipped the scale in La Follette's favor, after yesterday's deadlock by the group making up the new committee assignments. Smoot withheld a vote at yesterday's meeting of the Committee on Committees, but let it be understood he would not under any circumstances vote to place La Follette on the committee. He even said he might resign if this came about.

Today, after a sleepless night and perhaps after consultation with many of his regular Republican colleagues, he changed his attitude and cast the vote which broke the

SNOW HIDES TRIO'S FATE

Family Caught in Sierra Storm

Sonora Airport Head, Wife and Son Missing on Trip Into Range

Searchers Unable to Reach Isolated Cabin Thought Objective of Party

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Two persons were rescued, fears grew for the safety of three others, and the mountain town of Quincy in Plumas county was cut off from outside communication as California's high ranges were buried deeper in snow today.

Experienced mushers fought against odds and a scouting airplane failed to develop any hope in rescue efforts for John M. Nightingale, manager of the Sonora Airport, and his wife and son, believed trapped in the hills near Niagara Flats, forty-five miles from Sonora.

It is not definitely known that Nightingale, his wife and son, reached the cabin for which they were headed. The last definite trace of them was at Cow Creek, seventeen miles from their cabin. They passed Long Barn last Saturday night about dusk and the blizzard started shortly thereafter.

THREE BRAVE SNOWS

The search came to a temporary halt when Jasper Miley, forest musher who volunteered to go to the rescue, were out his snowshoes at Cow Creek. He communicated his plight to Henry Merema at the Pacific Gas and Electric Company station at Strawberry. Merema notified Sonora and Stockton and then started for Miley with an extra pair of snowshoes and skis. Shortly after they joined, Erwin Burgess of Long Barn threw in his lot with them and the three set out anew over treacherous going for the Nightingale cabin. They are not expected to reach it before morning.

In the meantime, W. H. Falconbury, Stockton business man, engaged Lee Orange, an aviator there, to fly over the Sierra range in an effort to locate the Nightingale party or the cabin. Oranges flew around the vicinity of the cabin for four hours, he reported on his return, without sighting a single sign of habitation or a human being in the vicinity. He carried provisions and a note to the Nightingales but said the snow covering was so thick he was afraid to drop them lest they be lost to sight.

TWO OTHERS RESCUED

Asa Mills and Thomas Reynolds of Fort Jones, snowbound in the Siskiyous for two days and a night, took refuge in a pack train cabin on Salmon Mountain and were found there by searchers, who brought them out on mulesback. Their car had to be abandoned until spring.

Mt. Diablo's heaviest snow in ten years prompted several persons in the Bay District to take airplane trips to view the white gold. One of these planes, piloted by W. D. Wright and carrying Clyde Sunderland as passenger, got caught in a severe down draft and sideslipped about 300 feet before it was righted. The ship narrowly escaped crashing against the mountainside.

PHONE LINES CUT

The heaviest snowfall in four years surrounded Quincy. The telephone lines cut off included the main trunk to Reno. At the time it was learned the town was without electrical power for a day and the heavy snow stalled school buses. Repair work now is under way on communication lines, it was reported.

Sutter Buttes in Yuba county were reported to have been snow covered for the first time in many years, but the snow melted quickly.

Susanville, on top of power and communication trouble, reported

BAY CITY OUT OF PARADE

Celebration Funds All Gone So There's Going to be Little Doings on Big Occasions

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (AP)—The city of San Francisco, which has won fame by its celebrations, must stop celebrating for a while, Assistant City Attorney Dodd announced today. The reason is that the publicity account which finances celebrations and welcomes and such, is "in the red."

This would mean, according to Dodd, that Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday and Memorial Day will have to go by with only such notice as private organizations or individuals care to give them, and despite the enormous Celtic contingent here the stricture will apply also to St. Patrick's Day, which would be serious as the annual parade in honor of the famous saint is an outstanding event by the Golden Gate.

The deficit in the publicity fund came to light today as a result of investigations resulting from a recent trip made by a group of Supervisors to the Rose Festival at Pasadena. The Supervisors took from the publicity fund sums ranging from $200 up to $800 for expenses, asserting they believed it proper and legal to do so. Newspapers here took a different view and Adolph Uhl, real-estate man and sometime candidate for Mayor, went to court, seeking an injunction against removals of city funds for "junkets." His petition has not been disposed of.

Meanwhile most of the money taken by the Supervisors was returned to the publicity fund and it was found that in defiance of the laws of algebra and physics that something has been taken from nothing, for after the money was replaced it was found there still was less than nothing in the publicity fund.

There is one "out," according to the City Attorney—there is supposed to be about $14,000 belonging to the publicity fund that has found its way into other channels. If this money can be found and can be returned to the publicity fund Lincoln, Washington and St. Patrick, to say nothing of prominent visitors who rate formal welcomes, will come in for proper attention.

While officials started to hunt for the lost $14,000 the Finance Committee of the Board of Supervisors ruled there will be no more tours to distant celebrations at city expense, not for a long time anyhow.

STIMSON GROUP TO SAIL TODAY

America's London Delegation Totals Ninety-two

Churches Set Date to Pray for Gathering

Premier MacDonald Tells of Bright Hopes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Bound on a mission to limit the sea fighting strength of the five great naval powers, the American delegation to the London naval conference will sail tomorrow for the British capital.

The official American contingent to the parley totals ninety-two some of whom already are in London. The remaining members, headed by Secretary Stimson as chief delegate, will sail from Hoboken tomorrow on the steamship George Washington of the United States Lines.

All of the five delegates now in the United States, except Secretary Adams, already have left Washington and will join the party at the dock. Secretary Adams, with some eighty advisers and members of the technical and official staffs, will leave the capital at 9 a.m. tomorrow by special train. A number of American and foreign newspaper correspondents will accompany the delegation.

Months of careful preparation by the interested powers, the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, made possible the call for the conference issued by Great Britain. It will be the fourth effort to limit sea armaments, the others having been made at the Washington Arms Conference of 1921, the tri-partite conference at Geneva in 1927, which ended in failure, and the work of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations.

In working out a goal for the parley, the five powers have devoted particular attention to the proposition that all categories of ships, from battleships to small auxiliary ships, should be limited in an effort to halt competitive naval construction and reduce costs of maintenance.

CHURCHES SET DAY TO PRAY FOR PARLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Church leaders in the United States and Great Britain have designated Sunday, the 19th inst. as a day of special prayer for the success of the London naval armament reduction conference.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and Alanson B. Houghton, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who is chairman of the council's commission of international justice and good will, signed the call in behalf of the council. They were joined by several other church bodies.

In Great Britain the call was issued by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the president of the national council and the moderator of the Federal Chancel of Evangelical Churches.

MacDONALD EXPRESSES FAITH IN OUTCOME

LOSSIEMOUTH (Scotland) Jan. 8. (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald, who is returning to London this afternoon afther a fortnight's holiday in this Scottish home, is full of optimism over the prospects for the five-power naval disarmamen: conference.

He said that arrangements are well advanced for the meeting, which opens on the 21st inst.

"I feel very optimistic about the prospect. There is no use in shouting before it is over, there are one or two difficult matters arising out of the different conditions of the countries, but I see no reason for fearing that an arrangement will not be reached."

Belgian and Italian Royal Families United by Marriage

Principals in Glittering Ceremony

The pictures show at left above Prince Humbert, heir to the throne of Italy; Pietro Cardinal Maffi, Archbishop of Pisa, and Italy's new Crown Princess who until yesterday was Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. In the center is the interior of the Chapel Paolima, part of the Royal Palace in Rome, where the marriage was performed by Cardinal Maffi. Below is the ancient royal coach in which the Crown Prince and his Princess rode to the palace. At right below is shown the commemorative medal sculptured by G. Devresso, noted Belgian artist, in honor of Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose.

tie and seated La Follette on the Finance Committee by a division of 5 to 4.

Senator Thomas of Idaho, who had been a rival for membership on Finance also was given a place on the committee and the two names were approved on the same ballot.

LINE-UP IN VOTING

Those for the La Follette-Thomas slate were Smoot, McNary of Oregon, Nye of North Dakota, Capper of Kansas, and Oddie of Nevada. Those who held out against the assignments are Moses of New Hampshire, Bingham of Connecticut, Deneen of Illinois and Reed of Pennsylvania, the latter by proxy.

One of the other changes made takes Senator Johnson of California from chairmanship of the Senate Immigration Committee to the head of the more important Commerce Committee. Another places Robinson of Indiana, World Court antagonist, on the Foreign Relations Committee, which will be called upon to act on President Hoover's request for World Court adherence.

TRANSFER EXPECTED

Senator Johnson's transfer to the chairmanship of Commerce has been expected ever since Jones of Washington left that post to take the chairmanship of appropriations. Besides climbing to leadership of a more important committee, the California Senator finds in the shift a convenient way of eliminating himself from responsibility in the movement for exclusion of Mexican immigration, a movement which his State is fighting but in which he has been reluctant to take a determined stand. Keyes of New Hampshire is next in line for chairmanship of Immigration.

Taking of Johnson from the Immigration chairmanship may prove beneficial to the interests of his State for the reason that, although the agriculturalists of California have to depend on Mexican labor, he has not seen fit to fight their battle against exclusion and has even been suspected strongly of aiding with the restrictionists. His strange attitude is said to have been due to his ties with union elements in California, especially in the San Francsco area, which always have supported him in his campaigns, and which are for shutting out the Mexicans on the theory that they take jobs away from native workers.

Lindsey Given Hearing by Bar of California

OAKLAND, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Judge Lindsey, twenty-year veteran of the Denver Juvenile Court, recently disbarred by the Colorado Supreme Court, has been granted an opportunity to appear before the State Bar of California to retain his membership in the bar in this State, according to Charles Beardsley, president of the board of governors.

Beardsley said Lindsey made the request by telephone and it was granted.

Lindsey was admitted to the bar in this State many years ago. Beardsley was unable to say if the request means Lindsey intends to make his home in California.

City Government to Compete With Private Concerns in Managing Funerals

MADRID, Jan. 8. (AP)—The municipal government here soon will go into the undertaking business in direct competition with private concerns managing funeral parlors, under the plan, which has been formulated to decrease the cost of death.

Funerals will be arranged by the municipal authorities under three different classes. One will comprise "de luxe" burials; another burials at moderate cost, and the third class free burials, for those without means.

ROYAL COUPLE ANSWER "I DO"

ing diplomats and the Cabinet ministers were waiting for them.

The King and Queen of Italy ascended a small throne dais on the gospel side of the altar, and the King and Queen of Belgium a similar throne on the epistle side.

Princess Marie Jose and Crown Prince Humbert knelt on red plush prie-dieux mounted with gold.

ROYALTY WATCHES

Among the royal personages on the left of the altar were King Boris of Bulgaria, former King Manuel of Portugal, former King Amanullah and former Queen Sourayah of Afghanistan, and former Queen Sophia of Greece.

The actual marriage ceremony was almost over before the distinguished congregation realized that it had begun. Cardinal Maffi pronounced the "I join you in matrimony" about five minutes after the couple first knelt before the altar.

In accordance with old custom an ancient rectangular veil twelve feet long was held over the heads of the royal pair by the Count of Turin, the Duke of Abrussi, the Prince of Udine and the Duke of Pistoia, and it was dropped after they had answered "Si." The Princess and the Crown Prince turned to their parents for the final gesture of parental consent before answering "Yes." The Belgian and the Italian sovereigns replied by an inclination of the head.

MASS CELEBRATED

Then Crown Prince Humbert placed a ring on Marie Jose's finger, and Cardinal Maffi proceeded to celebrate the mass, for which Pope Pius granted plenary indulgence to all those participating.

At the elevation of the host, trumpets rang out, and drums sounded in accordance with royal ritual.

After the mass the procession moved out of the chapel with the same pageantry and color.

The new Crown Princess of Italy was dressed in white cream velvet and wore a train bordered with ermine seven yards long. Crown Prince Humbert was resplendent in the full - dress uniform of an infantry colonel and wore the collar of the Annunziata, Italy's highest decoration. Then Princess' gown reached to her ankles.

ITINERANT WILL SURVIVE

TULARE, Jan. 8.—Knocked unconscious when he touched a fallen power line by the roadside, Merle Custer, 25-year-old itinerant, was brought to a local hospital and revived. He is said to be an airplane mechanic, and gave St. Thomas, Nev., as his place of residence.

Rampaging Bull Injures Three

SALAMANCA (Spain) Jan. 8. (AP) A bull crashed the gate of the arena today, fled to the street and then crashed the door of the City Hall.

The bull climbed the winding stairs of the hall and rushed into the assembly room. A doorman who attempted to stop the bellowing intruder was gored.

After smashing mirrors and overturning furniture, the bull returned to the street and charged into a crowd, injuring two persons. A young man climbed a lamp post, drew a razor from his pocket and hurled himself at the animal's throat, killing it.

DIVORCE LAW'S USE FOR INDIANS URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Application to Indians of the marriage and divorce laws of the State in which they reside was proposed in a bill today by Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan. The measure also would provide that the criminal and civil laws of the United States be applied to Indians and that the United States District Court have jurisdiction over cases arising from violation of Federal statutes within Indian reservations.

SNOOK DENIED PLEA FOR APPEAL REHEARIN

COLUMBUS (O.) Jan. 8. (AP)—The State Supreme Court today denied an application of Dr. James H. Snook for a rehearing of his appeal from a sentence of death in the electric chair for the murder last June 13 of Miss Theora K. Hix. He is to die in the electric chair, the 31st inst.

BOY ON SLED KILLED

ELK CITY (Okla.) Jan. 8. (AP)—James Akeridge, 10 years of age, became the first reported victim of winter in Oklahoma here tonight when a motor car ran over a sled on which he was riding, killing him.

CHARGES IN FRAUD CASE NAME EIGHT

Utah Lead Operations Recited by Prosecutor to Federal Grand Jury

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Asst. U. S. Atty. Spieler today in his opening address to a Federal grand jury charged that the eight defendants in the Utah lead conspiracy case purchased 500,000 shares of stock at from 10 to 25 cents a share and sold it to the public at $7, $8 and $9 a share.

The eight were indicted on a charge of using the mails to defraud investors.

Spieler said that the mails were used by the defendants in their stock-selling schemes and two of the defendants, Charles Breadon and Joseph Morris, wrote glowing and unwarranted stories about the stock in two subsidized market publications.

The other defendants in the case are the Utah Lead Company, Michael Barnett, Philadelphia lawyer and president of the company; William H. Rankin, member of the Salt Lake Stock and Mining Exchange, and Harry N. Phillips, New York stock broker, and the two publications, the Stock Market Reporter and Trend of Market.

Witnesses have been called from several sections of the country. The government estimates investors were defrauded of $1,000,000.

MEXICO DROPS CASES ON RELIGIOUS REVOLT

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8. (AP)—Cases of sedition pending against leaders of the League of Defense of Religious Liberty, which was charged with implication in the "Cristero" rebellion which ended last June, have been dropped by the Mexican Attorney-General. He announced the cases are closed because there no longer was cause for action.

Record Snowfall Balks All Efforts of Rescuers

SUBZERO WEATHER

Unofficial reports placed the thermometer below zero in Truckee during the night. The Weather Bureau receives no official reading from that point. The lowest point of record was a mark of 3 deg. above zero at Summit in the Sierras where the snow pack at 3 p.m. today was fifty inches.

Other points reporting readings of 32 deg. or less were Del Monte, Eureka, Fresno, Red Bluff, Sacramento, San Jose, Orland, Oroville, Paso Robles, Porterville, Salinas, Santa Rosa and Stockton.

The forecast is for rain tomorrow, probably general throughout the State, meaning slightly higher temperatures except at high altitude where there probably will be more snow. The advance guard of the rainstorm reached Eureka today, where .04 of an inch fell, bringing seasonal fall to date to 16.05 against last year's 16.94.

The storm area, moving southeast from Oregon, got under way tonight and reached the Bay District shortly after 10 p.m. in the form of a light but steady drizzle.

NORTHERN ARIZONA IN GRIP OF WINTER

PHOENIX, Jan. 8. (AP)—Northern Arizona is in the grip of winter tonight.

Eight inches of snow blanketed the Tonto basin, and Yavapai county is covered to a depth of five inches, Payson reported six inches, and McNary, in the White Mountains, eight.

The Weather Bureau prediction for the State tonight is fair and colder, zero weather is predicted for the northern portion and frost for the southern.

Eastern Arizona reported snow still falling today, with rain in some sections.

SOUTHERN RIVERS RISE, COLD GROWS

Lower Mississippi Areas See Spring Floods Ahead of Usual Schedule

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Rivers are rising and temperatures are falling in the lower Mississippi Valley tonight. A record January rainfall in the Memphis area and heavy rains throughout the middle watershed awakened the Mississippi from its winter lethargy and brought on the spring rise earlier than usual.

From Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois to the delta of the Mississippi and North Louisiana streams are rising, persistently but not dangerously.

In the same area temperatures are falling rapidly and steady rains, fanned by cold northwest winds, promise to turn to sleet and snow.

More than six inches of rain had fallen in Memphis during the twenty-four-hour period ending this morning, and throughout the day a steady, cold downpour continued. Creeks in this immediate vicinity were out of their banks and were swelling larger streams.

The White and St. Francis rivers are rising fast, while flood warnings have been issued for the Ouachita Valley. The Black River has passed flood stage in its northern reaches and is flooding lowlands, but doing little damage.

The Sunflower and Yazoo rivers in Mississippi also are rising.

There is no danger of a flood of any proportions now, river observers agree.

Two Succumb to Rio Janeiro Heat

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Two persons, one a child 2 years of age, died today from the heat, which continues at 100 deg. Fahr.

Water and ice are in insufficient quantities for the population and several districts in the suburbs are entirely without water. Dealers are delivering only half of the amounts of ice ordered.

TWO WOMEN IN FIRE SAVED BY HUMAN NET

SANTA ROSA, Jan. 8. (AP)—Trapped in their second-story apartment by fire, Miss Bessie Patton and Mrs. Evelyn Montgomery leaped twenty feet to safety here today, into a human "fire net" made by spectators interlocking their arms. Neither the women nor the rescuers were hurt.

TRIP CANCELED BY ORTIZ RUBIO

Delicate Health of Wife Results in Decision

Pacific Coast to be Left Out of Group's Itinerary

Party Will Head for Mexico by Way of Nogales

GALLUP (N. M.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Because of the delicate health of Senora Ortiz Rubio, President-elect Ortiz Rubio of Mexico and his party will turn back to Mexico, canceling their visit to the Pacific Coast, the President-elect said here tonight.

After a visit to the Grand Canyon in Arizona tomorrow, the President-elect said, the party will return to Mexico through Nogales, Ariz. It will proceed from Grand Canyon through Prescott, Phoenix and Tucson.

Chicago Millionaire and New Wife

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rosenwald

ROSENWALD MARRIES AGAIN

posed for photographs. They went immediately to their suite while their fellow-travelers applauded them. It is a suite of several rooms opening upon a private veranda. They found the suite laden with flowers and containing also hundreds of telegrams and letters of congratulation.

The wedding ceremony at Lessing Rosenwald's home took place at 12:30 p.m. It was extreme in its simplicity and was witnessed only by the sons and daughters of the couple, with their husbands and wives. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Stern of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Stern of New Orleans; Dr. and Mrs. David Levy of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William Rosenwald of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenwald, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goodkind of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Felsenthal of Chicago.

WHO THEY ARE

The two Mrs. Sterns and Mrs. Levy are daughters of Mr. Rosenwald. Mrs. Felsenthal is a daughter of the bride, and Harold Goodkind is the bride's son.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald and their children sat down to a wedding breakfast. The millionaire and his bride sat at the head of a T-shaped table in the dining-room, while their children sat on either side. There were no special decorations.

Members of the Rosenwald family made it known that the marriage had been held off until after the completion of Mr. Rosenwald's conferences in New York with former President Coolidge and former Gov. Smith, the three of whom were charged with the disposition of the $6,000,000 Hubert estate.

The bride is the widow of Benjamin Goodkind, St. Paul merchant for many years, part owner of the Mannheimer Brothers' department-store there. She took an active part in philanthropic work when she lived in St. Paul and was identified with virtually all the important charitable and social movements there. Shortly after Mr. Goodkind's death his widow moved to Chicago.

VETO FELT BY BUDGET OF CHICAGO

Mayor Disapproves it and Asks Reconsideration of Police and Fire Funds

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Mayor Thompson today vetoed the 1930 "economy" budget of the city of Chicago and directed the City Council to reconsider the abbreviated appropriations for the police and fire departments and others affecting the lives and property of citizens.

The veto message struck out the sections relating to police, fire, health, parks and street departments and placed the blame for the city's financial embarrassment on the incompleted reassessment of Cook county taxes, which has left Chicago without revenue for twenty months.

The City Council last week adopted a budget reduced by $5,000,000 from the previous year and its adoption was followed by immediate dismissal of nearly 500 police, 200 firemen and many other city employees.

LOCAL RAIL-TARIFF CHANGE PLEA DENIED

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—The Railroad Commission today dismissed an application by several railroad companies for a revision of tariffs between Los Angeles and industrial suburban territory granting of which is said to have meant a substantial increase in freight charges. The appellant rail lines are the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Los Angeles and Salt Lake (Union Pacific) and the Pacific Electric. Protests were made by the chambers of commerce of Glendale, Burbank and Alhambra and a hearing held by Commissioner Carr.

JOHN COOLIDGE DUBS NEW TRAIN

New Flyer Between Boston and New York Named "Yankee Clipper"

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Jan. 8. (AP)—The speediest train on the New Haven Railroad, which will make the run between Boston and New York in four hours and forty-five minutes, beginning April 1, will be named "The Yankee Clipper."

The name was selected by an employee of the road, John Coolidge.

WOMEN ENTER SENATE FIGHT

Experts on Rayon Admitted to Tariff Wrangle

Record Set With Waiving of Unwritten Rule

Further Increase in Duty on Material Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Two young women, duly qualified as experts, took their places on the floor of the Senate today to lend counsel to Senators wrangling over the duty on a rayon product, some of which is used in the making of bright-colored dresses now seen on city streets.

Their appearance marked the first occasion where women nonmembers have been admitted to the chamber.

The unwritten rule against the admittance of women to the floor was waived in favor of Miss Ruth Petersen and Miss Evelina K. Southworth, textile advisers to the Tariff Commission.

Further increases in rayon tariffs were approved during the all-day session devoted exclusively to this fast-growing industry.

Not a single record vote was required despite a severe assault on the proposed increases by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who cited Treasury income-tax figures to show that 70 per cent of the American rayon mills were foreign controlled, and were making millions in profits while paying their workers "pitiable pittances" for wages.

PIONEER FORECAST EXPERT PASSES ON

Henry J. Cox

WEATHER DATA VETERAN DEAD

Henry J. Cox in Forecasting Service Since 1885

Chicagoan Had Made Deep Meteorological Studies

Received Gold Medal for Scientific Achievements

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Believed to have been engaged in weather forecasting longer than any other man in the United States, Henry J. Cox, 66 years of age, meteorologist of the United States Weather Bureau in Chicago, died last night after a two years' illness. Although his first intentions were to become a physician, Cox had been a "weather man" since 1885.

For two seasons he lived in the cranberry bogs of Wisconsin to study the crops in relation to the weather. Another research conducted by Prof. Cox was that to determine the thermal belts on the mountain slopes of North Carolina. During an international conference in England he was awarded a gold medal for his work in connection with weather observations and forecasts.

ACCORD IN SIGHT ON REPARATIONS

Loose Ends of Conference to be Settled

Adjournment by Wednesday Looked Forward To

Procedure, Should Germany Default, in Question

THE HAGUE (Netherlands) Jan. 8. (AP)—Premier Tardieu, chief of the French delegation to the second reparations conference, said tonight that the leaders of the delegations still hope to end their work by the beginning of next week.

There remain several questions, including that of sanctions, or measures to be taken in the event that Germany should default in her payments, and the date of the payment of monthly installments on the reparations account. These questions, however, are being worked upon constantly and it is expected they will be ready for final decision before Wednesday next.

The French delegation today sent to the Germans a document summing up the negotiations thus far with a summary of the French arguments concerning sanctions. It is understood the French have entirely abandoned the idea of a military reoccupation of German territory in case of a German default and have proposed a system of references to intermediaries, finally going to the international court in case a decision cannot be obtained elsewhere.

There was somewhat of a flurry in conference circles today between the French and German delegations. Premier Tardieu in a declaration to the French press last evening reported what he had said at a meeting to the effect that the Germans, by raising repeated objections on account of the difficulty of getting their decisions approved in Berlin, had showed a lack of confidence in themselves and asked how they in consequence could ask their creditors to have confidence in them.

This declaration was spread around in distorted versions and provoked a demand by the German delegation for an explanation. The situation was quickly cleared up when this was given.

MOTHER'S BLOOD FAILS GUNMAN

Gangster Dies of Wounds After Parent's Sacrifice to Save Life

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—The mother of a wounded gangster lay beside him in the operating room of a hospital early today and gave a pint of her blood in an effort to save his life.

James McManus, 32 years of age, had been shot and possibly fatally wounded in a mysterious street fight. Three guns had been found in his possession and his pockets were heavy with cartridges. He has long been known to police as a gangster and hoodlum.

McManus died later.

Bad Weather Slows Up Byrd Geology Party

BY RUSSELL OWEN

(Copyright, 1930, by Los Angeles Times, New York Times and St. Louis Post Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world. Wireless to the New York Times.)

LITTLE AMERICA (Antarctic) Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—The Byrd geological party, under Dr. Gould, is returning rapidly despite the unfavorable weather they have had since leaving the mountains. They camped this morning at lat. 81 deg. 40 min. south, about 220 statute miles south of Little America. Dr. Gould reported slow going the last two days, but has made good progress.

The weather here continues to be poor. A blizzard which lasted three days ended yesterday, but the sky is still overcast.

BORDER CROSSED BOTH WAYS BY RUM GANGS

TORONTO (Ont.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Prof. L. Joslyn Rogers of the department of chemistry of the University of Toronto in an address yesterday said that for every bottle of uncut liquor shipped over the United States border, a corresponding bottle of rubbing alcohol was shipped in return, diluted and sold on this side as bootleg whisky.

CLASSICS SPICE HOUSE DRY ROW

Wets Also Invoke Bible in Prohibition Debate

Hoover's Law Board Urged to Hold Public Hearings

New Yorker Leads Assault on Enemies of Liquor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—The ancient classics were invoked today by wets in the House as they led debate on the War Department supply bill into the field of prohibition to assail the drys for applauding what they termed "dry killings."

Irony and Latin were employed by Representative Black, Democrat, New York, as he nominated Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to be a "cheer leader" for the drys.

"Of course," he said, "I do not want him to turn any somersaults here because some chips and stocks might fall out of his pocket."

"LIVES SACRIFICED"

"Each day's tragic news," he asserted, "indicates more human lives sacrificed on the altar of prohibition's Baal."

He characterized this figure as a "god" of the drys, "which must have blood."

Giving what he termed a theme song of Horace, the celebrated Latin, Representative Black shouted, "Nunc est bibendum (Now is the time to drink.")

His delving into the classics was by way of emphasizing his demand that President Hoover's law-enforcement commission hold public hearings. He said it should give "a judicial determination whether the prohibition law is workable."

"If it does not do that," he said, "then the entire Congress should rebuke it, because it will have proved itself useless."

IMPEACHING SUGGESTED

The prohibition question will not be solved, Black contended, "until some President of the United States is impeached for not enforcing this law." Expressing "the greatest respect in the world" for President Hoover, the New Yorker said he fails to understand why the President "cannot see the realities and come to the rescue of the country instead of temporizing with it as he has."

Schafer discussed Representative Beedy's address of yesterday and asserted that arrests for drunkenness in Portland, Me., have greatly increased during the ten years of prohibition.

"Following the applause favoring the dry killings yesterday," Schafer said, "within the shadow of the nation's Capitol we find, according to a press release, that another Federal prohibition agent shot a citizen last night while making a prohibition raid without a search warrant."

"For almost ten years," he continued, "the crimson tide has flowed and the next victim ever waits at the gate of his temple," referring to the "god of the drys."

ARIZONA BAR ELECTS

PHOENIX, Jan. 8. (AP)—The annual convention of the Arizona Bar Association ended here with the election of Judge C. C. Faires of Globe as president for the coming year.

WOMEN DISPLAY LIVELY INTEREST IN NEW AUTOS

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—The increasing influence of the women folks in the selection and purchase of the family car was a subject of comment today at the thirtieth annual National Automobile Show.

Women made up about half of the crowds which visited the show yesterday, officials estimated, and displayed lively interest not only in line and finish, upholstery fabrics and appointments, but also asked intelligent questions about engine and brake performance.

Feminine preference in finish, upholstery fabrics and appointments, but also asked intelligent questions about engine and brake performance.

Their questions also indicated particular interest in gear shifting and brakes and other points conducive to ease of handling in traffic.

McAdoo Inspects Television Device

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, and five members of the United Artists studios of Los Angeles were here today inspecting television apparatus that is expected to revolutionize motion pictures.

The instrument, which is said to produce pictures in sound and color by means of radio, was invented by Philo T. Farnsworth, of Provo, Utah. It was perfected in local laboratories.

Accident Toll Cut Expected as One of Benefits

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8. (AP)—For the purpose of organizing a night patrol in the State highway traffic patrol system, Eugene W. Biscailuz, superintendent of the patrol, today sent letters to the Boards of Supervisors of forty-five counties asking that they submit lists of names from which 122 additional traffic officers are to be selected for immediate duty.

Contemplated additions to the State highway patrol will bring the total number up to 425 officers and men, Biscailuz said.

Biscailuz stated that the night patrols will travel in automobiles and that two officers will work together in each case. He expressed confidence that the proposed establishment of night patrols will reduce greatly the toll of accidents.

1930 WILL REWARD CAREFUL SAVERS

What's behind this 6% interest?

The wisdom of earning six percent on your funds in 1930 may be determined by learning what's behind the 6% interest. What record? What strength? What safety? What liquidity?

Behind the 6% interest paid by Pacific States Savings is by far the largest building and loan association in the West—and one of the three largest in the entire nation.

Behind this attractive interest is a flawless record extending back for 41 years—during which every savings customer received his funds immediately on demand.

Behind this profitable interest is a financial structure of outstanding conservatism and liquidity—with cash on hand at all times of many times customers' current requirements—with a voluntary cash reserve of 2½ million dollars—and a secondary bond reserve of 1¼ million dollars—a financial structure in which the absence of frozen items is indicated by its Furniture and Fixtures and Real Estate accounts written down at $1, and its unemployed bank credit.

These facts have impelled more than 58 thousand prudent men and women—and firms and corporations to use the 6% facilities of Pacific States Savings. Are they not worth your careful consideration now?

Health Better Than in Twenty Years, She Says

When thousands of well known men and women—many of them right here in the State of California—come out in the public press and give unstinted praise for the marvelous benefits they received from this new scientific medicine,

MRS. FRANK J. SCHLINGER

surely there can be no earthly doubt as to its remarkable powers. Sargon's fame is based on actual results, not empty promises. The facts are known and verified, the proof overwhelming and indisputable. A typical example of what the Sargon treatment is accomplishing for suffering men and women in all parts of the country is the case of Mrs. Frank J. Schlinger, who lives at 6116 Albatross St., San Diego. She recently said:

"What a wonderful thing it is to be well again after suffering for nearly twenty years!

"I used to have the most terrible attacks of indigestion you could imagine. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, and I'd have heartburn for hours after meals. The neuritis set in through my knees and hips and sometimes I'd be in such pain at night, I couldn't sleep a wink. I knew my circulation was poor, because my hands and feet would get as cold as ice. My whole system was sluggish, and I could almost feel the poisons accumulating when I failed to have regular movements.

"When I started taking Sargon I never dreamed it would help me in such a short time! I could feel the marvelous strengthening effects right from the start, and the change it soon brought over my entire system was remarkable! My stomach never bothers me any more, and I can eat whatever is put before me without a thought of any bad after effects. The neuritis pains have left me, and the way I sleep is simply grand! The treatment had a stimulating effect on my circulation and my hands and feet are no longer cold and numb.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills gave me lasting relief from constipation and regulated me perfectly. Their action is thorough, yet so mild there is nothing to remind you that you've taken a laxative.

"These wonderful medicines literally swept the impurities from my system, and I feel as well as I did twenty years ago! It certainly is a pleasure to add my name to the many who have indorsed this splendid treatment."

Sargon may be obtained at all good Drug Stores.—[Advertisement.

BELL VETERAN'S CASE STIRS ROW

Handless Man Nominated as Acting Postmaster

Postal Department Refuses to Approve Name

Civil Service Board Between Devil and Deep Sea

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Representative Evans's nomination of Charles C. McGonegal, handless World War veteran, as acting postmaster at Bell, Los Angeles suburb, pending his passing the civil service examination for postmaster, has stirred up a controversy here, the settlement of which will affect the appointment to postmasterships of disabled veterans all over the country.

The Postoffice Department has refused to make the appointment, contending that because of McGonegal's physical handicap the Civil Service Commission first must pass on his fitness. McGonegal lost his hands in the war.

EVANS STANDS FIRM

Representative Evans said today he will refuse to back down on his recommendation. The Civil Service Commission, knowing that its decision will set a precedent, since this is the first case of the exact nature to come before it, and that its action either will bring down the wrath of veterans' organizations or embarrass the Postoffice Department, is unhappy about the whole matter.

Meanwhile to keep the Bell postoffice runnin the Postoffice Department has appointed the assistant postmaster as acting postmaster.

During the past two weeks the Los Angeles Republican Central Committee and veterans' organizations in Southern California, all strongly behind Mr. McGonegal, have laid down a telegraphic barrage on Mr. Evans's office asking why the appointment has not gone through.

Under the present system of the Civil Service Commission applicants for postmasterships are graded 20 per cent on education and 80 per cent on "general fitness." It is under the latter section that the commission might rule Mr. McGonegal unfit for the post, even though he has previously held responsible executive positions.

CAN SIGN HIS NAME

According to information received by Mr. Evans, McGonegal, using artificial hands, not only signs his name clearly and well, but can drive his car and even pilot a plane, and can attend to such paper work as will be necessary if he is made postmaster.

The Civil Service Commission under the law will have to advertise the date and place of examination, hold it and report to the Postoffice Department before the final disposition can be made of the case. The commission can pursue two courses. It can either bar McGonegal from the post or qualify him for it. In either case a precedent will be set for the Postoffice Department, which will influence practically all nominations of veterans suffering a disability as postmasters all over the country.

Mr. Evans stated today that he will not make any other recommendations for this position until the Postoffice Department and Civil Service Commission have acted finally on the McGonegal nomination. It is understood that Mr. Evans has taken up the case directly with Postmaster-General Brown, as well as with those officials who handle the usual routine of nominations.

HOST TOLD OF TRI-STATE DAM PARLEY

Arizona Notified Choice of Phoenix Ratified by California and Nevada

PHOENIX, Jan. 8. (AP)—In a brief letter Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, today notified Gov. Phillips of Arizona that Phoenix has been definitely accepted by California and Nevada as the meeting-place for the tri-State Boulder dam conference.

The 20th inst. has been set as the date for the discussions to be held in an effort to settle differences between the three lower basin States over allocation of power and water prices.

Chairman Charles B. Ward and John M. Ross of the Arizona commission today were communicating with other commissioners who will attend the parley.

Indications that some of the upper-basin States of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico plan to send observers to the forthcoming meeting were seen in several inquiries received here as to whether agreement had been reached on a date and place for the conference.

Will Written on Christmas Card

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—A will written on a Christmas card and disposing of the $15,000 estate of Thomas Where, who died December 26, last, was filed for probate in Mineola today.

On the margin of the card in Where's handwriting was the will, which bequeaths $100 to each of twenty-one relatives and the residue to his widow, and the following salutation:

"Merry Christmas and prosperous New Year. I've enjoyed life, loved work and everybody and now I go to watch over you all."

BETTER HOMES TREND SHOWN

Data Cover Achievements in Forty-eight States

"Before and After" Photos of Dwellings Feature

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—With scrap-book reports of 5960 communities piled high on his table, Secretary Wilbur today is ready to see America, with his better homes committee, in terms of tin cans cleared from back yards, dilapidated fences torn down, new houses erected and old houses made new.

The better homes in America committee task is one that shifted from the broad shoulders of the President to the shoulders of his Secretary of the Interior when Mr. Hoover went into the White House.

But the President's interest in improved small homes still is keen, so much so that he indicated his intention of calling a conference on that subject when the more pressing child health conference has been concluded.

VOLUNTEER COMMITTEES

Hence Secretary Wilbur's absorption in the scrapbooks which chronicle the 1929 civic cleanings and refurnishings in hamlet and countryside of all forty-eight States. The work was done under local volunteer committees.

"It is amazing to see the way this movement is growing," said Secretary Wilbur.

The Secretary does not hesitate to say that small house architecture in American towns in the past has been "wretched" and that people only now are beginning to realize that charm in the home environment may be achieved at small cost.

PHOTOGRAPHIC RECORDS

"Before and after" photographs, depicting box-like homes with the gimcrack ornaments of the early 1900's transformed to artistic dwellings with simple lines in 1929, figure prominently in the reports.

"Boy-built houses" constructed by high school carpentry classes, in which lads were taught proper taste in home ownership, are featured. Girl Scout "little houses," modeled after the Girl Scout headquarters in Washington, also receive considerable attention. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Herbert Hoover have sponsored the "little house" here, a laboratory in which Girl Scouts may learn how homes should appear, and the idea has spread far and wide in that organization.

CHINESE NAVY'S CHIEF KIDNAPED

Five Members of Provincial Government of Fukien Also Bandits' Prey

FOOCHOW (China) Jan. 8. (AP)—Yang Shu-chang, commander of the Chinese navy, and five members of the Fukien provincial government were kidnaped at an official dinner last night by a gang of bandits.

The bandits entered the dining-room and held up the guests with revolvers. Yang was seized and bound. He is believed to be still in this city, but the other five have been taken up the Minkiang to the bandit stronghold.

AGRICULTURAL AID EXPLAINED

Farm Board Details How to Get Assistance

Individuals Not Permitted to Deal Directly

Certain Rules Placed About Co-operatives, Too

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Individual farmers cannot deal directly with the Federal Farm Board but they are eligible for any benefits as a result of the agricultural marketing act if they belong to a commodity co-operative which qualifies under the Capper-Volstead Act of 1922.

The board in a letter made public today to land grant colleges, extension service directors, agricultural educators and State departments of agriculture answered the question frequently asked by both farmers and co-operatives as to what must be done to get assistance from the Farm Board.

The board also asserted that members of the co-operative must be composed of persons engaged in the production of agricultural products.

The letter said that the board already has assisted in the formation of several national co-operatives representing particular commodities and that others will be formed in the near future.

"If and when such national co-operatives are formed," the letter said, "it is the policy of the board to require that all local, State or regional co-operatives shall affiliate with the national and receive the benefits of the agricultural marketing act through this national affiliation."

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Why let over-indulgence ruin the flattering curves that make the modern figure so seductive? Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the irresistible youthfulness of the modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

HOOVER NAMED IN SUGAR NOTE

Broker at Lobby Committee Session Censured

He Denies Unfairness in Mentioning President

Watson and Robinson Both Question Motives

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Mention of President Hoover in connection with tariff activities of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages precipitated a heated exchange today before the Senate Lobby Committee between Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, and H. H. Pike, Jr., a Wall-street sugar broker.

The outburst resulted from a letter written last February by Pike to F. A. Staples of the Central Hershey Company of Havana, which said W. C. D'Arcy, publicity man for the Coca Cola Company, "has a personal method of approach to Hoover and is going to see that Hoover gets full but concise data on the sugar subject."

SOURCE NOT GIVEN

Pike, who previously had testified that the Coca Cola and Hershey companies were financing a campaign by the bottlers' association against a high sugar duty in the tariff bill, said he was unable to give the exact source of his information. It had come, he said, from a person who had attended a breakfast given by Robert W. Woodruff, president of the Coca Cola Company.

The letter said those present at the breakfast, in addition to Pike and Woodruff, were D'Arcy, Mr. Horsey, export vice-president of the Coca Cola Company, and Ralph Hayes, publicity vice-president of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank.

Leaning across the committee table, Robinson—the only regular Republican on the committee—pointed finger at the witness and shouted:

BACK-STAIR METHOD

"That looks to the average man, I would think, that there was some back-stair method of approach."

"It would not mean that to a business man," Pike returned.

"We had this little meeting at breakfast," the witness testified. "You can count how many people were there—six or eight. We talked about 'What are we going to do to prevent this wicked increase in the sugar tariff?' and one of those people said to me, 'I think Mr. D'Arcy can put these sugar facts before President Hoover,' which is a perfectly proper thing for him to do, and I do not remember which of those men told me that, but they never told me how he was going to put it there, and I do not say that in the memorandum."

FAIRNESS QUESTIONED

Senator Robinson asked Pike if he thought it was "a fair method of procedure" to send the information to Mr. Staples, adding that "he could tell it to anyone he desired."

"I think it is very fair," Pike said.

"Bandying the President's name around when you today say you do not know what the method was or what you were talking about then?" Robinson shot back.

"I did not know, but if I had a method of putting it before President Hoover I should do so, and I would tell you so and I would be very proud of having the ability," Pike retorted.

"Then why don't you tell me what it was? What was the method?" Robinson demanded.

"I do not know and did not know at the time and I do not say in the memorandum that I did know."

FUND OF $32,000

"Then you ought to have kept quiet about anything you knew nothing about. Isn't that true when you are using the name of the President of the United States in this lobbying capacity of yours?" Robinson asked.

"No, sir," Pike replied.

The sugar broker, the only witness today, testified that about $32,000 had been spent in the campaign thus far against a high sugar tariff and that the Hershey corporation and Coca Cola Company each had agreed to spend as much as $35,000.

He said the money had been paid by the companies through him to Junior Owens, secretary of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, of which both companies are members.

Pike added that the Hershey company already had paid about $20,000 and that he had advanced the Coca Cola contribution, which he said will be repaid when a final accounting is made.

Training Ship Given State

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—The Shipping Board today formally ordered the transfer of the S.S. Henry County to the Navy for use as nautical training school by the State of California.

The vessel, which is a cargo steamer of 4155 tons, will be turned over to the Navy at Norfolk, where it is now laid up and on the trip to California probably will carry a cargo of naval supplies for delivery at Mare Island.

INDUSTRIAL ESPIONAGE INVESTIGATION SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—A resolution to authorize an investigation by the Senate Labor Committee of espionage in industry in the United States was introduced today by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana. The resolution, which was referred to the Labor Committee, asks that after the investigation the committee report to the Senate what legislation it thought desirable "to correct such practices as they may find inimical to the public welfare."

SCOT NAMED FOR INQUIRY

LONDON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Hugh P. MacMillan, Scottish lawyer, has been appointed a court of inquiry to investigate the wage dispute between the employees and employers in the woolen and textile industry.

INDEPENDENTS SEEK HEARING

Voice in Gasoline Inquiry Asked by Dealers

Investigation Said to Hinge on Price Cutting

Seven Major Companies Will Hold Meeting Today

BY FLOYD J. HEALEY
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—While representatives of seven major oil companies of California prepared to meet tomorrow with members of the State Board of Equalization to discuss the asserted gasoline-tax evasion situation, representatives of independent dealers announced they will demand a hearing at the grand jury investigation scheduled to start Monday into the operations of more than a score of petroleum companies operating in Western States.

Joseph A. Garry, attorney for the Retail Service Station Dealers' Association, and Charles Jacobs, field director for the same organization, declared the impending Federal grand jury inquiry to determine if Federal antitrust laws have been violated revolves directly around the price war of last spring, and they want to be heard.

TREND OF INQUIRY

Documents for which demands were made yesterday with the issuance of subpoenas for thirty-three secretaries or other officials of western companies indicate, Garry and Jacobs said, that the government inquiry hinges on charges made by the Retail Service Station Dealers' Association when Asst. Atty-Gen. Amen was on the Pacific Coast conducting an investigation. Reports have been received from Washington that Amen will come to this city to conduct the grand jury inquisition.

Garry and Jacobs both reiterated beliefs made public by them during the gas war that the major companies clubbed together in cutting prices with the object of driving the small dealers out of business and that the large organizations regulated prices after the "war" was over and the situation returned to normal.

"Before the 'gas war,'" Garry declared, "the price of gasoline was 20 cents. Afterward, two of the largest distributors leased all except one station each. Each company retained and operated one retail station at which gasoline was offered for sale at the retail price of 23 cents. Of course, no one bought gasoline from these stations but they served to fix a retail price for gasoline.

"All the independent dealers had contracts which forced them to such a margin they lost money and many of them had to suspend operation.

"If the grand jury wishes to learn these things, it may do so where we, as individuals, failed."

KINGSBURY'S VIEWS

K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, issued a statement declaring:

"The situation presents the disconcerting aspect of one department of the government challenging the legality of an action taken at the request of another department. It appears that the investigation will relate to the adoption of a code of marketing ethics by the oil industry.

"The national code of marketing ethics was framed after two years of public effort on the part of the American petroleum industry for the purpose of securing uniformly fair practices in the oil industry and to promote the principles of conservation in business in which the Federal administration has shown so much interest. The proposed code was submitted by the American Petroleum Institute to the Federal Trade Commission and brought to the attention of the Department of Justice. Later the Federal Trade Commission approved the code, after it had made certain amendments thereto, and the code was then signed by oil companies throughout the United States at the request of the Federal Trade Commission.

"It is surprising that the legality of the code should now be subjected to investigation and attack by the Department of Justice. It would seem that the oil industry was justified in assuming that a code of marketing practices which was fostered and specifically approved by the Federal Trade Commission and signed at the commission's request would not thereafter be attacked by the Department of Justice. In effect it is an attack upon a movement in the oil industry directly in line with the efforts of the administration as recently indicated by the President for the stabilization of business and the promotion of economy in business practices.

AGREEMENT WITH LONG

"As to reference in the press to the alleged agreement with Mr. F. R. Long, this relates to purchase of gasoline from Long sold to him by small refiners whose marketing facilities are limited. The arrangement has been discussed on several occasions with representatives of the Department of Justice, who considered that it was not a matter of the Federal government's concern, being wholly intrastate, having no bearing on interstate commerce or prices.

"It is a peculiarly unfortunate time for the Department of Justice to attack those who are endeavoring to co-operate with the government in promoting its policies of conservation not only in marketing but in the production of crude oil, and whose efforts are already attended with enough difficulty. Such an attack will obviously encourage those who for selfish reasons are opposing these policies."

The conference on the State situation, with respect to asserted gasoline tax evasion, will take place in the office of Mr. Kingsbury. Other companies represented will be Associated, Shell, Union, Richfield, General Petroleum and Texas.

REFERENCE TO SHELL COMPANIES ERRONEOUS

In an article published in The Times of last Saturday pertaining to the gasoline tax inquiry, a subordinate heading read "Tax Loss Shown From Shell Companies." This was a typographical error, the intended heading having been "Tax Loss Shown for SMALL Companies." The context clearly showed no connection of the Shell company with the subject treated in the article, and The Times is glad to make this explanation and correction of the error.

AVIATORS OF MEXICO AIM AT LAURELS

Two Plan Trans-Atlantic Flights, and Others Will Essay Adventures, Too

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8. (AP)—Col. Alfredo Lezama, one of the Mexican army's best-known pilots, has announced that he will start soon after February 1 on a flight through Central and South America and thence across the Atlantic Ocean to Europe.

The colonel has not yet announced his exact itinerary, which probably will take him to Brazil and then on a trans-Atlantic hop to a point in Africa.

Col. Roberto Fierro, another of Mexico's quartet of flying colonels, is grooming a plane in Los Angeles for a similar flight, which will take him first to New York and other eastern cities. He expects to start before March 1, next.

Col. Pablo Sidar, perhaps the best known of the quartet, who has just completed a three months' goodwill tour of Central and South America and Cuba, is expected to leave soon for Brazil to aid the Universal Aircraft expedition in scientific exploration of the jungles.

Col. Gustavo Leon is planning a nonstop flight from Tia Juana, Lower California, to Merida, Yucatan, a distance of about 2000 miles, down the length of Mexico.

Florida Crowd Greets Coolidge

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Smiling and waving his hat at a cheering crowd of several hundred, former President Coolidge arrived here today aboard a special train that brought 200 delegates to the annual convention of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Coolidge, who is a director of the insurance company, will address the convention tomorrow night on "The Economics of Life Insurance."

MARINE BUREAU IN NEW ACTION

Increase in Federal Agency Staffs Proposed

Quarantine Personnel Boost Held Special Need

Will Add Request to That on Night Inspection

BY WALDO DRAKE

The Marine Service Bureau, representing local shipping interests, at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday made plans to request from Washington increased personnel for all Federal quarantine inspection agencies at Los Angeles Harbor. The request will be made in conjunction with one to extend ship inspection hours until 11 p.m. daily, as a means of further expediting offshore traffic at the port.

MANAGER AT PORT

Capt. Walter J. Petersen, general manager of the Marine Service Bureau on the Pacific Coast, arrived from San Francisco yesterday on the Lasco liner Harvard to attend yesterday's conference. Together with Edwin Nichols, manager of the local Marine Service Bureau, Capt. Petersen announced that plans are also under way to secure for Los Angeles Harbor a commissioner of immigration.

"Immigration business of this port is growing rapidly, due to the addition of numerous offshore passenger services," said Capt. Petersen. "It has already reached the point where a commissioner is essential to direct operations and we are prepared to make a concerted campaign to secure this authorization from the Department of Labor."

SHORTAGE SHOWN

Mr. Nichols said that a survey of the local Federal port services recently completed by Howard Wickersham, customs broker, shows a distinct shortage of personnel in practically all services, including the United States Public Health Service, the Immigration Service and the Customs Service. He stressed the fact that Los Angeles Harbor, which last year had 8356 ship arrivals and handled commerce valued at $1,070,663,931, deserves the government facilities of a first-rank port.

Capt. Petersen also confirmed allocation to the State of California of the Shipping Board freighter Henry County for use as a State nautical schoolship. Within the next fortnight, he said, Gov. Young is expected to appoint three practical shipping men on the State Nautical School Commission.

AIRPORTS ADD TO INSPECTOR'S DUTIES

Extra demands on the time of boarding staffs have been imposed by the recent designation as ports of entry of the Grand Central Air Terminal at Glendale and the Western Air Express terminal at Alhambra.

From one to four planes each nightfall now arrive at the fields from Agua Caliente, Mex., and must be passed by the inspecting staffs. Uptown Los Angeles offices dispatch health, customs and immigration inspectors to the fields, but plant quarantine officials are sent from Los Angeles Harbor.

Authorization of an unlimited number of inland fields as ports of entry, it is said, will necessitate additional staffs of inspectors by the different services.

All motor liners of the Johnson line of Sweden hereafter will stop at Los Angeles for passengers and cargo homeward bound as well as coming from Europe, it was announced yesterday by Harrison R. McLaurin, local agent. Heretofore only the liners Annie Johnson, Axel Johnson and Margaret Johnson have called southbound, freight for the others having been sent to San Francisco for loading on the motorships Balboa, Canada, Santos and Buenos Aires. The new arrangement is effective with the arrival of the Balboa from the North Pacific tomorrow, southbound ships following at intervals of three weeks.

Small damage was done to the forward starboard side of the Lasco liner City of Honolulu yesterday morning when she was rammed by the incoming Arrow Line freighter Edwin Christenson while lying at her dock at Wilmington. A survey was being conducted yesterday by Harry J. Summers, principal surveyor of the American Bureau of Shipping.

The Edwin Christenson, whose steering gear is believed to have jammed while she was docking, brought in several thousand tons of freight from North Atlantic ports and Jacksonville.

Use of Word "Applause" in Congressional Record Protested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP) Elimination from the Congressional Record of the frequently interjected word "applause" was urged in the House today by Representative Underhill, Republican, Massachusetts.

His suggestion was greeted by applause.

Underhill is chairman of the accounts committee, which handles legislative funds of the House.

HEARING SCHEDULED

The ordinance of intention for the improvement of Waterloo street from Elsinore street to Sunset Boulevard, was adopted yesterday by the City Council. It was set for hearing February 17, next.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM AIRED

Federation of Labor Head Says Situation Acute

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) Jan. 8. (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said here today that unemployment and displacement of men by machinery are major topics for consideration by the executive council of the order which began its midwinter meeting here.

"One of our biggest problems today," said Mr. Green, "is the unemployment situation. Right now there are approximately 3,000,000 persons in this country that are either temporarily or permanently unemployed. The situation is acute and has become more so in the past six weeks or since the stock market crash. Relieving the situation will be a difficult task."

UNCLE SAM OUT AS PEDESTAL

Postmaster-General Rules Rural Mail Box Posts Must be White

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP) The figure of Uncle Sam as a pedestal for mail boxes was ruled from rural roads today by Postmaster-General Brown.

Instead the Postmaster-General ruled that all mail box posts must be plain of design and painted white for visibility.

DEATH CHEATS AGED MAN

MANHATTAN (Kan.) Jan. 8. (AP)—George Wells failed by less than two months to achieve his greatest desire, to live to be 100 years of age. He died at his home here yesterday, one month and twenty-four days before his 100th birthday. He was born in Troy, N. Y., and came to Manhattan seventy-three years ago.

TALKIES UPSET AUSTRIAN LAW

State Aid for Silent Films Turns Into Burden

VIENNA, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Talkies have become such severe competition that the silent-picture theater owners in Austria today demanded that the government immediately repeal the law providing that for twenty imported pictures, one must be produced in Austria. The theater owners declare that the production of silent pictures is useless any way, owing to the fact that one by one the theaters are installing talkie apparatus.

On the other hand the Austrian Selin Picture Company which is making talkies, petitioned the government to introduce a law allowing only two imported talkies for one produced here.

In comparison, Vienna has most of the talkies in Europe, with twenty houses already gone talkie, compared to seven in Paris and ten in Berlin, cities twice the size of the Austrian capital.

Cuticura Healed Very Bad Case of Eczema on Top of Head.

"When I was eleven years old I had a very bad case of eczema. It was on the top of my head and the eruptions were red and watery. The irritation was so severe that it caused me to scratch, and scratching caused more eruptions. My hair fell out in bunches and was lifeless and dry. The irritation prevented me from sleeping like I should.

"A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a free sample. I purchased more and in a few months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Margaret Mary Isley, R. 3, La Junta, Colo., June 3, 1929

THE SON OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Like most youths of his age, Korak held girls in a species of contempt. But could he leave this one here perhaps to be murdered by the villainous old Sheik? No! Yet how could he take her into the jungle with him? She would probably scream at her own shadow. Several minutes he stood lost in thought. Wistfully the girl watched her new friend, then laid her slim, brown hand on his arm. Korak looked down and saw the tears upon her lashes.

"Come," he said. "The jungle is kinder than man. You shall live in the jungle. Korak and Akut will protect you." She did not understand his words, but as he led her from the prostrate Sheik, trustfully her little arm crept around his waist. Beneath the great tree he lifted her, threw her lightly across his shoulders and leaped nimbly into its branches. Her arms clung about his neck and Geeka, the doll, dangled down his straight, young back.

And so Meriem entered the jungle with Korak, trusting this stranger who had befriended her, but knowing nothing of the future. The two had gone but a short distance when she spied the great ape and pointed toward him with a half-stifled scream. "Ah," thought Akut, "the Killer has taken a mate." The youth deposited his burden upon a large limb, where she clung desperately. "She will go with us," he said. "Do not harm her. We will protect her."

Akut did not want to be burdened by the young of man, and this one looked hopelessly unfit. She couldn't even sit in a tree! But if the Killer wanted her—all right. Akut certainly didn't want her. Her skin was too smooth and hairless, her face most unattractive. Not at all like a certain lovely one he had seen at the Dum-Dum dance. There was beauty for one! A generous mouth, such lovely yellow fangs, and the cutest, softest side whiskers! Akut sighed!

GREAT COTTON TRACT CLOSED

Arizona Intensifies Fight on Pink Boll Worm

Nongrowing Zone Includes 165,000 Acres Now

Bars Set Up for Year and Possibly Longer

PHOENIX, Jan. 8. (AP)—The Arizona State Agriculture and Horticultural Commission today established a noncotton-growing zone of 151,680 acres in Maricopa and Pinal counties in the fight to eradicate the pink boll worm.

Growing of cotton in this zone will be prohibited all this year and "as long thereafter as deemed necessary."

Approximately 165,000 acres in the two counties are designated as restricted zones and there will be certain restrictions as to when cotton may be planted in these areas.

The Pinal county nongrowing zone of 16,000 acres lies in the Indian lands along the Gila River and northeast of Sacaton. The restricted zone in Pinal county includes the lands of the United States Department of Agriculture experimental station near Sacaton.

The Maricopa county nongrowing zone embraces all land bounded by a north and south line running from the Salt River along the east side of Tempe and two miles south of Chandler, thence east to the limits of the irrigated area.

The commission also announced the personnel of the committee that will be sent to Washington to work for Federal aid in the eradication program. They are Kenneth D. McMicken, field manager of the Southwest Cotton Company, Litchfield; G. C. Spilsbury, manager Roosevelt Hay Growers; D. B. Wiley, Maricopa County Farm Bureau, and A. M. Crawford, Arizona State Legislative examiner. Crawford already has left for Washington.

A fifth member from Pinal county will be selected later.

Curb Urged on Advertising in Radio Programs

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Immediate action to curb a tendency toward increased direct advertising in radio broadcasting was urged upon the Institute of Radio Engineers tonight by Dr. Lee De Forest, pioneer inventor. Addressing the institute as its newly elected president, Dr. De Forest said:

"The present all-to-marked tendency of the broadcast chains and of many individual stations to lower their bars to direct advertising will rapidly work to sap the lifeblood and destroy the greatest usefulness of this magnificent new means of contact.

"I attribute a part of the present slackening in radio sales as actually due to this one cause. The radio public is, I believe, becoming nauseated by the quality of many of the present programs."

Triple Slaying Divorce Sequel

ATLANTA, Jan. 8. (AP)—John E. Barnett of Chattanooga, Tenn., today shot and killed George Mason, fatally wounded Mrs. Mason and then committed suicide.

Barnett was a former husband of Mrs. Mason.

LARGE SALMON PLANT DESTROYED BY FIRE

ASTORIA (Or.) Jan. 8. (AP)—The Sanborn Cutting Company packing plant and warehouse here, one of the largest salmon canneries on the Columbia River, was destroyed by fire late today with a loss estimated by company officials at more than $250,000. J. R. Burke, Portland, head of the Burke Packing Company, which operated the plant, leaped into the river to escape death when he was trapped by the flames.

SURVIVOR OF FOUR WARS DIES IN BAY CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Frank (Red Mike) Hitchcock, 44 years of age, who served through three minor wars and the World War, died at his half-brother's home here today after suffering a heart attack.

Hitchcock, who came of an old California family which owned the slopes above Los Angeles, divided his time between fighting, especially in southern revolutions, and going to sea.

GROUP ORGANIZED TO SEEK DRY LAW REPEAL

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8. (AP)—The National Prohibition Referendum Association, formed in San Francisco for the purpose of obtaining and presenting to Congress a petition demanding repeal of the national prohibition act, filed articles of incorporation with Secretary of State Jordan today. Officers of the association named were George T. Baker, Otto J. Hains, Albert F. Norton and C. R. and L. S. Doddridge, all of San Francisco.

SILVER CLOUD'S LINING DARK

China Facing Panic in Mexican Dollar's Fall; Long Strife Exhausts Resources of Nation

SHANGHAI, Jan. 8. (AP)—Possibility of widespread business failures, including banks, importers, exporters and virtually every other class of commercial undertakink, was stated today by Chinese banking circles to be imminent as the result of the Mexican silver dollar reaching its lowest level here at 34.7 cents gold. The dollar was quoted a year ago at 49 cents.

The Chinese money crisis is due to the depreciation in the value of silver during the past year, with a startling drop in the past month. The decline will become even more acute, say New York and London financial forecasts, which, coupled with local pessimistic statements, predict that silver will be cheaper.

BREAKERS AHEAD

This development, native financiers said, has sadly affected import and export trades. If it continues, they assert, it is sure to result in numerous failures.

Domestic trade, it is further stated, is at a standstill as a result of years of civil wars which rendered the rural population nonproductive and unable to maintain its usual purchasing power. In consequence there is a large accumulation of goods in Shanghai, also huge stocks of silver which normally go to the interior to pay for farmers' products. These products do not exist now.

MILLIONS IN DOLLARS

Chinese bankers state that the silver in Shanghai totals 600,000,000 Mexican dollars. An additional 200,000,000 Mexican dollars due to arrive in China before February 1 will make the present untenable position more severe.

Prices, which have begun to ascend, are expected to gain acceleration rapidly, wage scales not following a similar movement. The outcome of the situation cannot yet be seen.

Pioneer Woman, Friend of Mark Twain, Succumbs

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 8.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Jackson, one of California's pioneer women and resident for more than a quarter-century in Kern county, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the chapel of the Hopson mortuary.

Mrs. Jackson came to California in 1861, sailing around the Horn, and as a bride took up her home in El Dorado county. She entertained in her home many times John Marshall, discoverer of gold in California, and numbered among her friends in the Eldorado mining camp were Mark Twain and Edwin Markham, American poet.

Pioneer Woman Heeds Last Call

HANFORD, Jan. 8.—Mrs. Manda Snyder, 75 years of age, who as a baby was brought to California in an ox-drawn covered wagon, died at the family home six miles northeast of here yesterday. She had lived on the same ranch since 1876. She leaves two sons, C. B. Snyder of Hanford and J. E. Gruewell of Santa Cruz; three sisters, Mrs. Z. T. Barnett of Hanford, Mrs. John Rea and Mrs. Dolly Wendall of Fresno, and a brother, Emmett Ogle, of near Riverdale. Funeral services will be announced by the People's undertaking parlors.

Despondent Man Overcome by Gas

Jack Kirkby, 52 years of age, 2624 East One Hundred and Tenth street, yesterday was reported to have but a slight chance of recovery following an asserted attempt to take his own life by shutting himself in the garage and turning on the motor of his automobile, according to a Sheriff's office report.

Found by his small son, Kirkby was removed to the Suburban Hospital in South Gate. Deputy sheriffs reported they had been informed that the man had been out of work.

Hanford Airport to be Improved

HANFORD, Jan. 8.—Plans for improvement of Hanford's municipal airport will be discussed by the City Council at a meeting to be held next week. The contract for the construction of a hangar to accommodate four planes, the improvement of a runway and the installation of a pump on the well recently drilled, is to be considered.

LITTLE GIRLS CAUSE POST-HOLIDAY BLAZE

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 8.—There is no reason why Christmas should come just once a year in the opinion of 5-year-old twin daughters of Dr. J. E. Willis. This morning they endeavored to stage a little Christmas whoopee all their own around the Christmas tree, left in their living-room as a memento of the recent yuletide. The results were a call for the fire department, two badly freightened little girls, a nervous maid and a repair bill for dad. It was a good celebration while it lasted.

Inmates Fire Phoenix Jail; Damage Light

PHOENIX, Jan. 8. (AP)—Prisoners in the Maricopa County Jail tonight set fire to the jail. The blaze was extinguished a few minutes later by deputy sheriffs.

The fire was started by the prisoners hurling a blazing mattress to the roof of one wing of the jail. It soon set fire to the roof. A watchman noticed it before much damage was done.

Icy Planes Bar Army Test Trip

SELFRIDGE FIELD (Mt. Clemens, Mich.) Jan. 8. (AP)—An overnight rainstorm that covered the planes with ice caused a postponement today of the Army's midwinter test flight from Selfridge Field to Spokane and return.

After inspection of the twenty-two planes set on the ice of Lake St. Clair for the take-off, Maj. Ralph Royce, flight commander, ordered them brought back to the field here to be thawed out.

Embarrassment Wins Divorce

Constantly kicking about his duties as a member of a burial fund committee of a local lodge caused Mrs. Laura T. Jackson much embarrassment, she told Superior Judge Westover yesterday when seeking a divorce from Samuel C. Jackson.

The husband is asserted to have remarked when a member died: "Well, I wonder who it is this time. No wonder a man can't get along, always having to pay out money because someone dies."

The wife said such remarks greatly embarrassed her and caused several of her friends to shun her. A decree was granted.

Pantomime Used in Cafe Hold-up

A robber who resorted entirely to pantomime to enforce his demands in the hold-up of the East Side Cafe, near Santa Fe Springs, last Tuesday night was being sought yesterday by deputy sheriffs.

Believed to have sent a woman into the cafe first to look over the place the man some time later entered, seated himself on a stool, drew a revolver and solely by emphatic movements of his hands directed Hal W. Hill, proprietor, to turn over the cash register's contents, according to a report made to the Sheriff's office.

VALUATION ASKED ON WATERSHED RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—The city of Los Angeles and the Southern Sierras Power Company filed a joint application with the Railroad Commission today asking that a fair valuation be placed on the company's water rights and property on Rush and Leevining creeks in Inyo and Mono counties with a view toward purchase by the city.

SOVIET OFFICIAL'S TRIAL UNDER WAY

MOSCOW, Jan. 8. (AP)—Trial began here today of M. Bessedovsky, who was charge de'affaires of the soviet embassy at Paris until he refused to accompany members of the secret police back to Moscow recently. It is expected Bessedovsky, who still is in France, will be found guilty in a swift trial and condemned to death. The charges against him are embezzlement of Embassy funds.

GIRL-KILLER'S PLEA IN SUPREME COURT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (AP)—The appeal for Thomas Lehew, convicted slayer of 7-year-old Theresa Johnson in East Mendocino City last May, was taken under submission by the State Supreme Court today. The appeal is based on the asserted fact that Lehew's confession of the crime was obtained under duress.

INFERIOR-GASOLINE RUMOR CAUSES SUIT

Damages amounting to $50,000 are sought by John L. and Dorothy Benedict, operators of a Los Angeles service station, in a lawsuit against Emma Evans, who, they assert, damaged them by circulating rumors that they were selling adulterated gasoline. Following a short hearing yesterday, Superior Judge Mahon took his decision under submission. The Benedicts operate a gas station at Vermont avenue and Riverside Drive.

FIRE PREVENTION STRESSED

Kern County Board of Supervisors to Continue Policy of Mountain Watershed Conservation

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 8.—Conservation of the county's vast watershed area in the foothills and mountain regions through adequate fire protection will continue to be the policy of the Board of Supervisors due to the fact that every drop of water must be conserved here this year, and because the fire protection afforded in the county during last season was so successful that the destruction of watershed timber and brush was almost negligible.

This policy, on the part of the Supervisors, will find its effective display in the resumption of the fire patrol service in the county this spring when warm weather returns the menace of the fire hazard. Last year, during the fire season, one warden, J. C. Farley, and two assistants, with the aid of widespread public assistance, checked all fires before any serious damage was done to county watersheds.

BOK CRITICALLY ILL IN FLORIDA

Philanthropist Not Likely to Recover, Say Doctors

LAKE WALES (Fla.) Jan. 8. (AP) Edward W. Bok, philanthropist, editor and author, lies critically ill at his winter home here, suffering from an acute heart attack. Attending physicians expressed grave doubt that he will recover.

Mr. Bok was stricken Sunday soon after his arrival here, but his condition was not believed serious until today.

Specialists from New York tonight were called to his bedside, as were his sons and his father-in-law and business associate, Cyrus H. K. Curtis. His wife came here with him.

MEXICO UPSET BY BLOC FIGHT

"Whites" of Majority Group Spring Sudden Coup

"Reds" Expel Them as Rift in Party Threatens

Calles Clan Now Believed to Maintain Upper Hand

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8. (AP)—Just when Mexico's political house seemed in order, old differences within the majority bloc of Congress have followed a hastily patched-up truce and have created a situation which, while not necessarily presaging grave difficulties, constitutes a problem of serious concern.

Through a virtual coup d'etat sprung in the absence of Deputy Gonzalo Santos, president of the permanent Congressional commission, members of the "white" or rebellious group of the majority bloc gained for a time a commanding hand and, incidentally, brought down on their heads the wrath of the National Revolutionary party.

MEMBERS EXPELLED

Prompt action by the executive committee in expelling the members of the group, nine Senators and eight Deputies, from the party followed close on a meeting of the Congressional commission in which the whites managed to get together a quorum and took vengeance on their opponents by ousting several of them from positions of importance in the Chamber of Deputies.

The commission functions in place of Congress during the regular Congressional recess which began the 1st inst., and has power to make changes such as those maneuvered by the whites, which involve several posts on the Chamber's administrative committee and that of the acting treasurer.

RECENT RIFT

The rift in the majority bloc, which has held sway over Congress since the Obregon administration, appeared several weeks ago when a considerable group, purporting to include half the members of the bloc, charged the remaining members with being untrue to the revolutionary principles and unfaithful to the doctrine of Gen. Calles, acknowledged leader of Mexico's dominant political opinion.

The rebellious group became known as the whites and the other group, headed by Santos, as the reds. The dispute developed into a wrangle over control of the permanent commission, then about to be formed and domination of which is of great political significance. For a time it looked as though the majority bloc was doomed to complete disruption.

HIGH NEGRO OFFICER SENTENCED TO JAIL

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Col. Otis B. Duncan, said to have been the highest ranking negro officer in the World War, was sentenced to four months imprisonment in the County Jail and fined $2000 in Federal Court yesterday on a charge of embezzling government funds.

CORTES SCION PROSCRIBED

Mexico Will Drive Out Conqueror's Descendant For Disposing of Archives Abroad

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8. (AP)—Antonio Aragon Cortes, Prince of Pignatelli, who traces his lineage directly to Hernando Cortes, conqueror of Mexico for sixteenth-century Spain, has been ordered deported as a "pernicious foreigner."

The government charges that Pignatelli, whose title is derived from an Italian house dating to the twelfth century, has disposed of family archives which are of intense historical interest to Mexico, to American millionaires and universities.

BURIAL PLACE SECRET

The newspaper Excelsior said some of the archives had been found in the library of the United States Congress. Archives which the government announced December 31 had been turned over to it by Pignatelli were said to be only bills and administrative records of the Hospital of Jesus, founded by Cortes, known familiarly as the Conquistador, in 1526.

Hidden in the archives, or retained in the memory of the family of the Prince and possibly one or two Roman Catholic priests, is the secret of the burial place of the remains of Cortes, hidden a century ago in the height of the feeling against Spain.

In announcing acceptance of the archives December 31, the government said this burial place had been revealed as the Church of Jesus Nazareno, and that the church would become a national shrine. There was no indication today whether this former announcement is to be discredited.

NOTABLE PAPERS

The Cortes archives the government charges were disposed of in the United States are said to include an account of the battle in which Cortes and his soldiers were driven from the Aztec city in 1521, which culminated in "La Noche Triste," or "the sad night," the order to the Spaniards to cease sacking the city after its final capture, and documents signed by Charles V of Spain naming Cortes Governor and captain-general of New Spain and Marquis of the Valley of Oaxaca.

The government contends that the documents really are the property of Mexico, and that Pignatelli had no right to dispose of them outside the country.

Rafael Lopez, director of the national archives, pressed the charge against the Italian Prince. He found documents recently presented him by Pignatelli valueless and returned them. The matter then was brought to the attention of President Portes Gil, who commissioned the Department of Interior to see that Pignatelli leaves the country.

Senate Passes Embassy Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—A resolution authorizing the President to appoint an Ambassador to Poland at $17,500 a year was adopted today by the Senate and sent to the House. It was introduced by Senator Moses of New Hampshire, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. The United States has been represented in Poland by a Minister, who ranks below an Ambassador.

ACE ACOSTA ARRESTED ON WIFE'S PLEA

Family Troubles of Byrd Copilot Culminate With Abandonment Charge

ROCKVILLE CENTER (N. Y.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Bert Acosta, noted aviator, was arrested today on a charge of abandonment preferred by his wife, and lodged in jail here.

The arrest was made at the Acosta home on an indictment returned by the Nassau country grand jury. The Acostas recently were reconciled after Mrs. Acosta had dropped a suit for separation. They have two children, Bert, 7 years of age, and Alfred, 5.

Acosta was copilot for Commander Richard E. Byrd in his trans-Atlantic flight in 1927. In October 1928, his wife filed suit against Mrs. Dorothy Walker of Beechurst, N. Y., to recover $125,000 for alienation of her husband's affections. The suit never came to trial.

Monument Bill Before Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—A monument to a mail carrier, who rode the pony express in days when mail men dodged arrows instead of automobiles, would be erected under a bill introduced today by Senator McMaster, Republican, South Dakota.

The monument would be a memorial to Charles Nolin, one of the first mail carriers in South Dakota, who paid with his life for his determination that "the mails must move." He was killed by Indians.

The bill specifies Sturgis, S. D., as the place of erection and would authorize an appropriation of $1,000,000.

CRIMINOLOGIST READY TO TAKE POST AT U.C.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Dr. Herman M. Adler of Chicago, State criminologist and director of the Institute of Juvenile Research, today tendered his resignation to Gov. Emmerson. Dr. Adler goes to the University of California at Berkeley, where he has accepted a professorship in psychiatry. He will be consultant to the California State Department of Institutions.

BODIES TAKEN FROM WRECK

ALGIERS (Algeria) Jan. 8. (AP)—Efforts continued today to extricate bodies of ten or more victims from the debris of a passenger train wreck between Tunis and Algiers Monday night. At least twenty persons were killed and as many injured. Ten bodies already have been recovered.

WILSON QUOTED IN UTILITY QUIZ

Letters of War President Read at Hearing

Attempt Made to Justify Publicity Methods

Federal Trade Commission Listens to Defense

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Letters and public utterances of President Wilson were drawn into the Federal Trade Commission's hearing on publicity methods of public power utility associations by counsel for the utilities, which today began presenting their side of the case.

Bernard F. Weadock, chief counsel for the joint committee of national utility associations, cited a speech by the war President, delivered in January, 1918, to the American Railway Association in Washington in which he advised use of publicity.

"Publicity, which is required in sport," he quoted Mr. Wilson as saying, "is required in business. Let's see how you are running the games."

ADVICE TO McADOO

He also introduced into the record correspondence between the President and Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury in which the President advised Mr. McAdoo to use his influence with State and local authorities in obtaining for the utilities every help in maintaining maximum efficiency during the war period.

The Treasury head had submitted to Mr. Wilson memoranda given to him by a committee representing those industries in which it was held essential that rate increases be permitted, that unnecessary expansion be discarded during the war period, and that financing be facilitated for essential expansion and for retirement of maturing obligations.

In outlining the utility presentation Mr. Weadock said there was no doubt that some charged with publicity activities had overstepped the bounds of propriety, but he held these had suffered from "undue zeal" and maintained their methods were not countenanced by the industry as a whole.

SPEECH QUOTED

Among the exhibits introduced was an extract from a speech delivered by the late Melville E. Stone, for many years general manager of the Associated Press, to the 1923 convention of the National Electric Association, in which Mr. Stone advised the utilities to give the public "plain, frank statements" of their activities, adding that secrecy arouses suspicion "which usually is justified."

Weadock presented a report made to the National Education Association in July, 1929, by a committee on propaganda in the schools of which Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of Philadelphia schools, was chairman. The counsel said he intended to show by this report that the electrical industry merely was one among many in furnishing schools with informative material.

PORK SUPPLIES SHOW INCREASE

Armour Annual Report Points Out Meat Trend

Cattle Insufficient to Meet Consumption Demand

Net Profits of Company Fall Off $1,515,907

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Higher prices than supplies warrant were paid by meat packers to American hog raisers in 1929, F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., said today in his annual report which reported sales for the company again exceeding $900,000,000.

"A decrease in cattle supplies such as had been expected came about in 1929, but the expected decrease in hog supplies failed to materialize and, in fact, turned to an increase," the report stated. Thus the packing industry paid prices for hogs which were higher than were warranted and the year's operations in the pork end of the business were unsatisfactory."

Armour & Co., during the year paid producers of live stock $287,000,000 for cattle, $199,000,000 for hogs, $84,000,000 for sheep, $26,000,000 for calves, and $77,000,000 for poultry and dairy products, the report said.

Net earnings of the company for the fiscal year ended November 2, 1929, were $9,810,518 after all charges, giving the Class A common stock 40 cents per share dividend.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Armour & Co. (Illinois) in its report for the fiscal year ended November 2, last, today showed consolidated net income of $9,810,518 after all charges, equal after preferred dividends to 40 cents a share on 2,000,000 shares of Class A stock outstanding, as compared with $11,326,425, or $1.12 a share on the "A" stock for the year ended October 27, 1928.

Tone Cheerful on London Mart

LONDON, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—The stock market had a buoyant tone again today with trading constrong with kaffirs in demand and strong with kaffirs in demand and attracting the most attention. Issues of trans-Atlantic interest had firm tone with the exception of tractions. Columbia Graphophone and tobacco shares were in good demand. Rubber securities were lower while artificial silks, textiles and margarines were firm. Cable shares had an irregular tone. The oil group was quiet. Ford Motors, Ltd. was quoted around £2 3-3. Brazilian tractions around 37 3-4 and International Nickel around 33 3-4.

The gilt-edged division had a better tone on anticipation of a reduction of the Bank of England's discount rate tomorrow. Foreign issues generally, were steady. Home rails were firm and Argentine rails in good demand.

Pig'n Whistle Sales Higher

December sales of the Pig'n Whistle Corporation totaled $386,567, an increase of more than 5 per cent, and for the twelve months closed December 31 aggregated $3,816,293, an increase of 13.6 per cent over 1928, Sidney Hoedemaker, vice-president and general manager, announced yesterday. Net profits for the past six months were more than 50 per cent above the same period of 1928, he said. The company's fiscal year closes June 30.

Business of the new store opened in the Orpheum Building Christmas Day has exceeded expectations, Mr. Hoedemaker said. The company opened several new units last year and now operates a total of twenty-two stores up and down the Coast, a large number being concentrated in the Los Angeles district.

OFFICERS NAMED ON BAY MART

G. R. Keyston Elected President of Exchange at Annual Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—George N. Keyston, general partner in Leib, Keyston & Co., was elected president of the stock exchange at the annual meeting today, succeeding Sidney L. Schwartz, who announced his intention not to stand for re-election when the new $2,750,000 exchange home was dedicated last Saturday.

Bertram E. Alanson was elected vice-president and the following were named to the governing board: H. Scott Dennett, Earl T. Parrish and Richard O. Simon.

Mr. Keyston twice has been a vice-president of the exchange, and has served on its governing board for three terms.

Change in Acme Fire Insurance Name Ratified

Pacific American Insurance Company will be the new name of the Ace Fire Insurance Company of Los Angeles as a result of the stockholders and directors voting to make the change at a meeting yesterday.

All of the stock of the company since early last year has been held by the Pacific American Fire Insurance Company and the action yesterday involves only the change in name of the company, which will continue to operate under its own identity, Preston Hotchkis, treasurer, said.

Officers of the company include Lee A. Phillips, president; O. Rey Rule, executive vice-president; D. W. Pierce, Sr., vice-president and general manager; President Hotchkis, treasurer, and L. C. Collins, secretary.

Stutz Receiver Suits Dropped

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—All remaining present receivership action against the Stutz Motor Company was cleared today by withdrawal from County Superior Court of suits by material creditors and dismissal by the Federal Court here of two other bankruptcy suits.

President E. S. Gorrell of the Stutz company was in conference on the proposition with New York and Chicago financiers at Cleveland when the suits were filed. He returned here hurriedly and asserted the company is solvent, having more than $2,250,000 in ready assets and only one month's bills. On January 4 three other petitioners agreed to dismissal of their petitions.

FOX FILM YARNS MULTIPLY

Financial Troubles Encourage Variety of Rumors; Sale of Loew's Stock to R.-K.-O. is Doubled

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Depending on which side of the market the rumor venders are, the stories coming out daily on the Fox Film Corporation describe the company in one version as ready to shed its financial troubles and begin anew, and in another as about to oblige the mourners waiting to divide the spoils. The rumor yesterday mentioning Radio-Keith-Orpheum as a possible purchaser of part of the Fox assets is an illustration of the latter kind.

So long as there is any uncertainty of Fox going into receivership, these conflicting stories will continue to circulate and the stock will back and fill in response to the activities of traders for the short turn on both sides of the market. Right now the short interest is reported to be extensive, which naturally invites periodic attempts to force covering.

OFFERS DECLINED

Whether portions of the system built up by William Fox will have to be sacrificed to permit financial rehabilitation is conjectural, although it is known that several bona-fide offers for some of the units were refused prior to the appointment of the trustees. Radio-Keith-Orpheum has not been heretofore named as a bidder for the Loew's units controlled by Fox, and yesterday's rumor was promptly denied by R.-K.-O. officials.

Except as an emergency measure, it is not likely that American Telephone, one of the large Fox creditors, would sanction the sale of Loew's to Radio-Keith-Orpheum. Probably the latter company would willingly deal for Loew's, but such a sale would transfer a large theater chain from American Telephone to General Electric interests. Fox Film and its subsidiaries are licensees under American Telephone talking picture patents, while R.-K.-O. operates under Radio Corporation-General Electric control and uses this group's sound device.

Any sale of Loew's at this time would involve a heavy financial loss to Fox, which acquired its Loew's shares at considerably higher prices. But it is possible that this loss will be taken in order to facilitate reorganization. Filing of the government suit to compel Fox Film to divest itself of Loew's control is an argument, moreover, in favor of sale.

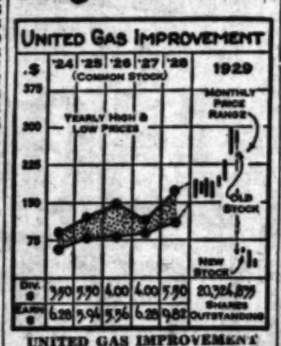
OTHERS IN MARKET

If the American Telephone group is determined to retain the Loew's chain in the list of companies using its sound equipment, there is a chance that control may be transferred to a company like Paramount or Warner Brothers. Here again, however, the possibility of running into government antitrust troubles is a factor.

Various independent groups are known to have been in the market for Loew's, particularly one headed by Louis B. Mayer, according to reports. Mr. Mayer is the executive head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer unit, the producing division of Loew's, Inc.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum, of the opposition camp, is more interested in building up its producing facilities than its theater outlets. For some time the industry has expected this company to turn up with one of the Hollywood studios to reinforce the production end of its business.

WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR STOCK



UNITED GAS IMPROVEMENT

The United Gas Improvement Company is a holding corporation, owning a controlling interest in over thirty-nine public utility operating companies, located, for the main part, on the North Atlantic seaboard. Chief among the holding companies controlled are Philadelphia Electric Company, Connecticut Electric Service Company and Delaware Electric Power Company. Large minority interests are also held in Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, United Corporation, Niagara Hudson Power, American Superpower and Commonwealth and Southern. The United Corporation owns about 19 per cent of the U. G. I. stock.

Net income for the twelve months ended September 30, 1929, available for the common stock amounted to $30,741,897, or $1.39 per share, as compared with $25,144,461, or $1.16 per share for the preceding twelve months. According to the parent company's June 30 balance sheet, recently reported to the New York Stock Exchange, the common stock had a book value of $61.09 per share.

Bid for Local Industry Unit Believed Near

T. J. Kauffman, president of the Square D Company of Detroit, Mich., manufacturers of electrical switches and devices used in wiring installations, has been looking over the properties of the Diamond Electrical Manufacturing Company, whose main plant and offices are located in Los Angeles, it was learned yesterday.

The Square D Company, it is understood, is considering an expansion program of national scope and is contemplating making an offer for the Diamond company. The Detroit concern now has plants in Detroit, Peru, Ind., and Milwaukee, Wis. Its total assets at the close of 1928 were shown at $2,376,916 and net earnings for 1928 were $428,097.

Mr. Kauffman has returned to the East and his company's bankers are expected to come here shortly, it was reported.

Diamond Electrical Manufacturing Company was organized in June, 1927, through the consolidation of the Safety Electrical Products Corporation and Brown & Pengilly, Inc. Total assets at the close of 1928 were $718,563 and net income for 1928 was $118,462. Net earnings for 1929 for the ten months ended October 30, last, were $136,811.

Seattle Times Debentures on Offering Slate

Public offering of $2,000,000 Seattle Times Company 6½ per cent sinking fund gold debenture bonds, due February 1, 1948, and priced at 98 1-2 and accrued interest will be made today in this market by Dean Witter & Co., according to an announcement yesterday. The present financing is incident to the sale to the Ridder Brothers of a minority interest.

As against annual interest and sinking fund requirements of $190,000 on the current issue, net profits before Federal taxes for the last three years were as follows: 1927, $322,857; 1928, $420,491, and 1929, with December profits estimated, $484,500.

Established in 1885, the newspaper has grown with the territory it serves to a present net paid circulation of over 101,000 daily, while more than 138,000 copies of the Sunday edition are sold.

ELECTED TO HEAD CALIFORNIA BANK

Board of California System Picks Leaders

James R. Page was formally elected president of the California Bank by the board of directors, following the annual meeting yesterday of stockholders. At the same time W. H. Thomson was elevated from the senior vice-presidency to succeed Mr. Page as executive vice-president.

As president Mr. Page follows Andrew M. Chaffey, who assumes the newly authorized post of chairman of the board. Mr. Chaffey has been president since the founding of the bank, and is now taking the title of chairman as part of a program to more equitably divide the duties of the executive officers. The management of the bank will remain in the hands of Messrs. Chaffey, Page and Thomson as the senior officers.

Mr. Page spent fifteen years in the investment banking business in Los Angeles as a member of Stevens, Page & Sterling, and for the last two years he has been in commercial banking. Two years ago he joined the staff of the Security-First National Bank as vice-president, coming to the California Bank last year as executive vice-president.

Besides his directorship in the California Bank and California Trust Company, he is on the boards of the I. N. Van Nuys Building Company, International Re-Insurance Corporation, Consolidated Steel Corporation, Mortgage Guarantee Company and Subway Terminal Corporation. His other activities include trusteeship of Scripps College, Claremont, Harvard School, Catalina Island School for Boys, California Institute Associates, Good Samaritan Hospital, Los Angeles Metabolic Clinic and Barlow Sanitarium.

Mr. Thomson, the new executive vice-president, has been in commercial banking for twenty-one years, starting with the old National Bank of California of Los Angeles. For six years he was the executive head of the Phoenix National Bank, after which he came to what is now the Security-First National Bank as vice-president. Last year he joined the California Bank as senior vice-president. He is a director of Barker Brothers, Inc.

Following his election, Mr. Page announced that earnings of the California Bank for 1929 amounted to $1,327,000 after all charges and reserves, equal to $7.38 a share on 180,000 shares. This compares with net income of $1,138,000 in 1928, or $6.80 a share on 167,467 shares, the average outstanding. Undivided profits after payment of the January 1 dividend amounted to $2,365,000 at the end of the year, Mr. Page said. Book value of the stock was $70.03 a share.

All directors and officers were reelected at the annual meeting. Promotions approved by the board include the appointment of J. A. Shine, formerly assistant cashier, as junior vice-president, and the creation of several new assistant cashiers and branch managers.

Penney Chain Advances Rate

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Directors of the J. C. Penney Company today declared an annual dividend of $2.50 on the common stock, which compares with a payment equivalent to $2.23 per share for 1928, calculated on the present stock. Moreover, the company announced that it is planned to place the stock on a regular $3 annual basis, beginning with a quarterly payment of 75 cents to be made in March.

E. C. Sams, president, said that the $2.50 payment was in keeping with the corporation's policy of paying cash dividends on the basis of approximately 50 per cent of the earnings, although final 1929 figures for the nearly 1400 stores were not complete.

ZENITH RADIO OMITS REGULAR QUARTERLY

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Directors of Zenith Radio Corporation today omitted the regular quarterly dividend due February 1. Officials stated that the board thought it was advisable to conserve cash for working capital.

INDIA MAY CUT BRITISH TIE

Situation Declared More Serious Than Realized Either in England or America

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Sherwood Eddy, American business man and world traveler, writing from India to this writer on conditions there, says: "I believe the situation is far more serious than is realized in Great Britain or America."

Great Britain, after having invested $5,000,000,000 in India's industries, built 40,000 miles of railroads, irrigated 28,000,000 acres of lands, and established a national system of education, finds India's two great leaders, Mahatma Gandhi and Jawahar Lal Nehru, opposed to further British extension of power in that vast continent of 300,000,000 people.

While Mr. Eddy was not permitted to quote these leaders directly, he says that India's millions will follow either Gandhi or Nehru to the end. Nehru—rich, young, daring, educated in the English universities—holds opinions similar to those held by Thomas Jefferson in 1776. He belongs to the Left Wing of the Indian movement, which stands for complete independence, with or without violence.

Gandhi, older, more experienced, more conservative, belongs to the Right Wing, and is willing to accept dominion status, within the empire.

India's leaders object to the British army expenses of $200,000,000 a year, when the average per capita income is only $27.75 a year, or less than 8 cents a day. Even today, 92 per cent of the people of India cannot read or write.

But above all, according to Mr. Eddy, Indians resent the so-called Anglo-Saxon superiority complex. Says Gandhi: "I believe there is no real freedom for India under the British connection if Englishmen cannot give up the fetish of their predestined superiority. We have co-operated long enough in our own degradation."

William Digby estimates that the total drain of wealth from India to England since British rule began has been about $30,000,000,000.

Britain has many problems to solve. What to do with India is probably the most important.

William Fox, veteran of many a bitter business struggle—restless, reticent, sharing his secrets with few—is using all his resourcefulness in his latest struggle to maintain personal control of his vast motion-picture enterprises.

When J. E. Otterson of the Western Electric affiliations and Harry Stuart of Haley, Stuart & Co., were appointed with William Fox as trustees committee to examine into affairs, it was thought that the matter would iron itself out quickly.

But not so. Mr. Fox, owning a majority interest in the no par Class B voting stock, is understood to be unwilling to turn over control under the conditions so far laid down.

It is no small matter even in these days to borrow $145,000,000 to meet secured and unsecured debts and immediate future commitments. This is the problem which faces Mr. Fox.

There have been many rumors. One report was that Al Smith, former Governor of New York, and a friend of William Fox, had become interested and was going to take charge. Another report was that certain well-known national politicians had become interested.

Affairs will reach their climax on the 19th inst., when the annual meeting of the stockholders is held.

Strenuous efforts will be made before that, however, to overcome the present apparent stalemate.

Insurance Unit Elects Officers

James O. Sword, president of the Higgins Estate, Inc., has been elected vice-president of the Hamilton Life Insurance Company, and W. A. Innes, president of the Innes Shoe Company, and C. J. Walker, president of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Long Beach, have been elected directors. Spencer Thorpe, president, announced yesterday after the close of the company's first annual meeting. All other officers and directors were reelected and Harold A. McDonnell elected secretary.

The company was organized by a group of Los Angeles business men last year and on December 31, last, completed its first six months of operation with $3,064,300 insurance in force. Mr. Thorpe stated that the company anticipates writing more than $5,000,000 of insurance during its first year of operation.

LEIB, KEYSTON TO OPEN NEW BRANCH

Leib, Keyston & Co., member of the Los Angeles and San Francisco Stock exchanges, will open next Tuesday a new branch office in the Roosevelt, Hollywood. The office will be completely equipped and have direct wires to the main Los Angeles office in the Pacific Mutual Building.

The house was organized in San Francisco eleven years ago and entered the Los Angeles territory last March.

BUILDING-AND-LOAN UNIT MAKES PAYMENT

W. O. Welch, chairman of the United Building and Loan Association, yesterday announced the declaration of the regular 6 per cent semiannual dividend of 6 per cent, making a total of 12 per cent for the year. Assets crossed the $2,000,000 mark, he said, at the close of 1929, the first time in the history of the association. Deposits increased $125,000 in the last three months of the year.

Trade Profits in Local Field Near 1928 Level

Trade profits in the Los Angeles metropolitan district for the year just closed will show about the same levels as those of 1928, according to a survey of business conditions in this territory conducted by the Bradstreet Company.

While the trade generally has not completed the taking of inventories, those companies that have reported state stocks are lower than in January, 1929, but accounts receivable are larger. Chain stores and mail-order retail stores report sales for the first four days this year of from 11 to 14 per cent higher than at this time last year.

The women's ready-to-wear manufacturing industry, while comparatively new, made rapid strides during 1929 and materially helped swell the pay rolls of the city. On the employment situation the survey reports that there is less unemployment than former years in January.

Chain Hotel to Rise in Barstow

Highway Communities, Inc., will begin construction work on the first of a series of hotels at Barstow early next month, Paul D. Howse, president, said yesterday in announcing that the hotel would be leased to Frank Murrati, proprietor of the Barbara Hotel of Santa Barbara, and secretary of the State Hotel Men's Association.

The hotel for which Wilson and Merrill are architects will be of the most modern type and will cost about $75,000. A separate cafe building will cost $15,000. Under a five-year building program, similar hotels will be constructed at the other sites in the Highway Communities' chain of service cities, now numbering twenty-nine from the Mexican border to the Canadian line and on which Richfield service stations and 125-foot towers lighted with Claude Neon signs have been established. Two additional sites have just been acquired, one six miles north of Fresno and the other two miles north of Carpinteria.

The above chart, prepared by William Cavalier & Co., Pacific Coast brokerage house, illustrates the location of the proposed railroad systems as outlined in the plan of consolidation recently submitted by the Interstate Commerce Commission to Congress. The plan allocates the existing lines among nineteen major systems, comprising five systems in the East, two in New England, three in the South and nine in the West.

Net Profits of Gillette Razor Company Drop

BOSTON, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Consolidated net income of the Gillette Safety Razor Company and subsidiaries for the year closed December 31, last, was reported here today at $13,620,700, after all charges, including taxes, equal to $6.68 a share on 2,100,000 average capital shares outstanding during the first eleven months.

This compares with the net income reported for 1928 at $16,250,657, or $7.73 a share, on the same share basis. After the 5 per cent stock dividend paid December 2, last, there were outstanding 2,205,000 shares, and on this amount the 1929 earnings were equivalent to $6.19 a share.

Net income for the last quarter of the year totaled $1,278,187, or 58 cents a share on 2,205,000 shares, against $3,934,906, or $1.87 on 2,100,000 shares in the preceding quarter, and $5,071,854, or $2.41 a share on the same capital in the last quarter of 1928.

The company stated that concentration of energies and activities on a new razor and a new blade necessitated curtailment of its output.

Production of Corn Hits Low Level in Year

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Production of corn for grain in the United States in 1929 was estimated by the Department of Agriculture today at 2,191,135,000 bushels, which is 7.2 per cent less than in 1928 and the smallest in any year since 1924.

The area harvested for grain is estimated at 82,801,000 acres, the smallest in any year since estimates were begun in 1924.

Production of corn silage for 1929 was estimated at 29,908,000 tons, or 5.3 per cent less than the 31,579,000 tons produced in 1928. The yield was placed at 6.95 tons per acre, compared with 7.43 tons in 1928.

Corn utilized for hogging, grazing and forage totaled 11,113,000 acres compared with 10,974,000 acres in 1928.

Strong Depression-Proof Standard Oil Trust

DURING 1929, holders of Trustee Standard Oilshares received cash dividends amounting to more than 14¾% on the present market value (about 12) of these shares—despite the fact that the year was generally regarded as one of depressed conditions in the oil industry. What should this trust do in a good year?

This strong fixed investment trust represents ownership in 31 companies of the Standard Oil Group. Their combined assets exceed $5,000,000,000. And what is equally important, their combined surplus is more than $1,500,000,000 or greater than in 1921, the previous high. Since that year, over $2,000,000,000 in stock dividends has been paid by the Standard Oil Group. Their present large surplus indicates similar generous stock dividend distributions in the future.

$2,000,000

Seattle Times Company

Publisher of The Seattle Daily Times and Seattle Sunday Times

Eighteen-Year 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Debenture Bonds

This Closed Issue will constitute the Company's only funded debt.

Dated February 1, 1930 Maturing February 1, 1948

Principal and semi-annual interest (August 1 and February 1) will be payable at the office of the Trustee, the First Seattle Dexter Horton National Bank, Seattle, Washington, without deduction for the Federal Income Taxes now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%. Coupon bonds registerable as to principal, in denominations of $1000 and $500. Redeemable in whole or in part on any interest payment date on thirty days' published notice at the price of 103 and accrued interest up to and including February 1, 1942, and thereafter at the call price, diminished by ½ of 1% each succeeding year after February 1, 1942.

FIRST SEATTLE DEXTER HORTON NATIONAL BANK, Trustee

History and Business: The first issue of the present Seattle Daily Times was published on August 10, 1896. This newspaper was founded by Colonel Alden J. Blethen, and upon his death in 1915, Colonel C. B. Blethen, his son, succeeded to the management. It has been the policy of the management to conduct both the Daily and Sunday Times so as to make the broadest appeal to the public and its success can be measured by the fact that these papers reach approximately 85% of the families of the city of Seattle. The papers also have a wide circulation throughout the surrounding territory. The Associated Press membership for the evening daily service of Seattle is owned exclusively by the Seattle Times Company. Successful from the start, it has built up a circulation which, for the past two years has averaged over 100,000 copies sold per day. The advertising lineage, which is the principal source of revenue, has shown a consistent and steady growth from 13,037,108 lines for the year 1923 to 16,831,878 lines for 1928, and the 1929 figures are 486,570 lines higher.

Purpose: The proceeds from the sale of these $2,000,000 bonds, together with $1,000,000 par value of preferred stock and other junior securities, will be used in the acquisition of the interests of the Blethen family, with the exception of Colonel C. B. Blethen.

Management and Ownership: The unusual success of the Seattle Times is largely due to the fact that it is the only locally owned and controlled newspaper in Seattle. The control and principal ownership will be vested in Colonel C. B. Blethen, who will remain as editor and publisher and who will personally continue to manage the business. Colonel Blethen has furthermore arranged to pass this control eventually into the hands of his five sons, thus assuring for another generation that the Seattle Times will be locally owned and controlled. A minority interest is being purchased by Messrs. Bernard H., Joseph E. and Victor F. Ridder of New York City. The Ridder brothers are the third generation of publishers. The association of Colonel Blethen and Ridder Brothers brings together two of the oldest families of newspaper publishers and owners in the United States. Ridder Brothers own substantial interests in ten newspapers in the United States, among which are the Journal of Commerce of New York, the Long Island Daily Press, the St. Paul Dispatch, and the St. Paul Pioneer Press. They, like Colonel Blethen, have devoted their entire careers to journalism and are recognized as being among the foremost newspaper owners and operators in this country. It is the plan of the owners to continue the policies and traditions of the Seattle Times, which have accounted for its popularity and success.

Earnings: The annual net earnings for the two years and ten months ended October 31, 1929, after depreciation and all taxes except Federal Income Taxes (based on audit of earnings as certified by Price, Waterhouse & Company), were: 1927, $351,357.74; 1928, $442,991.00 and for the first ten months of 1929, $395,169.61. The average annual net earnings based on above figures were $419,829.84, or over three times the maximum annual interest requirements of $130,000 and over two times the combined annual interest and sinking fund requirements of $190,000 on this issue of bonds. The earnings have steadily increased over a long period of years, and are expected to show still greater increases through operating economies.

Capitalization: This Closed Issue of $2,000,000 principal amount of 18-Year 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Debenture Bonds will constitute the Company's only funded debt. It will be followed by $1,000,000 of 7% Preferred Stock, 20,000 shares of Class A Stock, and 1,000 shares of Common Stock, representing a total investment junior to these bonds of approximately $3,000,000.

Sinking Fund: A cumulative Sinking Fund, which will operate semi-annually commencing August 1, 1930, will retire the entire issue by maturity.

Wheat Futures Turn Higher on Bullish Market

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—With premiums being asked on United States wheat ready for export, the shoe was on the other foot today regarding theoretical competition from Russia, furthermore, instead of broadstuffs coming out of Russia to seek a market, that country was reported today as inquiring abroad for flour and also for wheat to seed. Under such circumstances, quotations on wheat future deliveries advanced readily in Chicago today, with considerable buying due to short sterns in Kansas and Missouri.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾ to 1¼c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ½ to ¾c advanced, oats ¼ to ¾@¾c up, and provisions showing 20 cents gain.

Rallying to restore prestige today to the bearing side of the wheat market here were unfavorable reports in Liverpool quotations, together with general agreement of advices from all sources that Russia has little wheat to sell this season.

The gist of the current information was that recent Russian sales of wheat to other countries were of scattered parcels which would be greatly inconvenient to move to the interior of Russia from Black Sea ports, and that had to be followed by export. It was predicted that Russia's total exports of wheat this year will not amount to more than 10,000 tons.

In sharp contrast with apparent dwindling away of the spectre of possible large Russian exports of wheat late advices at hand here today told of Portugal seeking to purchase 47,000 tons of wheat, about 1,800,000 bushels. Actual new export business to North American wheat was estimated at 600,000 bushels.

Better shipping demand here for corn did a good deal to lift the corn market. Oats strengthened with those in wheat and corn.

Active buying for commission houses, carried provisions higher. Reasons included an advance in hog values and also noted improvement of consumer demand both for lard and meats.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Prices Hold Steady as Trading Operations Continue at Slackened Pace

Partly influenced by irregular fluctuations in New York, trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday continued to hold to listless levels. There were no price changes in excess of a full point and all the leading popular issues held within a ¾ range.

Two preferred stocks of the Southern California Edison Company, Richfield Oil and Transamerica accounted for the bulk of the day's trading, while the index of all prices on the market remained unchanged from the level of the preceding session.

Edison 7 per cent preferred and the 6 per cent preferred were traded in excess of 1000 shares each. The former firmed up 1-4 to 28 1-4 and the latter, 1-8 to 25 1-8. Edison common added 1-4 to end at 57 1-4, while the rights fell off another 5 cents to 2.80.

California Bank, which spurted 5 points on Tuesday, added another point to reach 120. Transamerica on a turnover of 1400 shares eased 1-4 to 42 3-4, while Security-First National Bank held steady to 110 1-2. Pacific Finance was unchanged at 40 and Pacific Mutual transferred at 82 1-4 off 1-4.

Richfield had a turnover of 1800 shares under which it was depressed 3-8 to 34 1-8. On light sales Standard Oil of California eased 1-8, and Union Oil, 3-8, while, Rio Grande and Union Associates were unchanged.

Aero Corporation of California added another 1-4 to hit 2 1-4 and Byron Jackson fell off 5-8 to 19 1-4.

Sales totaled 46,233 shares valued at $377,879; previous day, 35,929 shares valued at $468,461.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD KEGLEY

Oil operators who are interested in the comparatively new practice of injecting surplus gas back into partially depleted oil sands have had their first glimpse of results in the behavior of the Union Oil Company's Purisima No. 6 in the old Lompoc shallow field.

At the same time Union has been doing well from the Elwood field and pumping it down into the shallow sand at Lompoc, where many of its old pumpers have been yielding at the rate of 100 to 175 barrels a day. The other day when a new drilled out the cement plug in Purisima No. 6 the well developed a heavy flow which helved oil and gas over the top of the derrick for several hours.

It was unofficially estimated, today by the pep the well displayed, that when it is completed it will be capable of flowing instead of pumping and at a rate somewhere near 400 to 500 barrels a day.

With this experiment is not complete, it affords some conclusion as to the benefit which oil companies in the Lompoc field may derive by availing themselves of the present opportunity to pump cheap gas into old sands of many oil fields.

Another Deep Stuff

That now looms the possibility that a productive sand may be found up at Los Cerrion on the northwest of Signal Hill. Yesterday the General Petroleum Corporation was plugging back from 7800 feet in its Fulton-McKee No. 1 in that district.

This well is reported to have cored quite a substantial body of oil sand the last 200 feet or more, but it developed tenacious water difficulties at bottom, when repeated production tests were made. The crew is now plugging it back 100 feet in the expectation of success when another test is made.

It is unofficially reported that one of the Dabney-Johnson wells in that area recently developed fair production at a depth somewhat above 7500 feet.

Oil Exports High

Shipments of bulk petroleum exports from Los Angeles Harbor last year were more than 14,000,000 barrels in excess of any previous year's movement. The comparison between 1928 and 1929 was 113,542,791 to 127,706,713 barrels, according to a yearly summary by the Marine Exchange of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

While there is some fluctuation at different seasons, the movement of oil ranges close to 10,000,000 barrels a month, as is indicated by the fact that during December, 1928, the port shipped 10,801,708 barrels, while last month it moved 10,887,171 barrels. Last November the movement amounted to 10,100,475 barrels.

Cementing Deep Hole

Excitement over probable production from the ninth oil sand of the Santa Fe Springs field cooled slightly yesterday when it was learned that the Hathaway No. 7, owned by Oscar Howard, plugged back from 9350 to 8936 feet for the purpose of cementing off and making a water shut-off and productiontest in the near future.

Quite a number of operators who have been producing too much oil for healthy marketing conditions have been apprehensive that the Howard test might develop heavy production below 9000 feet, and their fears were somewhat set at ease by indications that the last 400 feet of the hole apparently are not worth a production test.

This throws the well back into the lower Clarke zone class. It may have some oil sand below the lower Clarke, but if so, geologists say, it is probably an extension of the lower Clarke and cannot be regarded as being possessed of great potentialities.

As a matter of fact, the 9000-foot zone at Santa Fe Springs is not likely to develop into a great disturber of producing and marketing equilibrium, because it would cost a matter of $300,000 to drill each hole to that depth, and would take six months or more to accomplish the job. Fishing jobs would be fatal, and if such holes were not good for at least 1500 barrels flowing the project itself would be still more fatal, financially.

Pass Well is Wet

Water difficulties developed yesterday during a production test of the Stevens well drilled by California Properties, Inc., on the ranch of County Supervisor Fred Stevens in San Marcos Pass, two miles north of Goleta.

The drill picked up oil sand at a point below 3000 feet. The company intends to drill deeper. Whether the water came from a faulty cement job or below the cement has not been definitely determined.

The Tannehill well on MacGillivray ranch at Los Olivos has spudded in, and it is reported that Western Gulf, which has a large lease on the easterly portion of the San Carlos De Jonata ranch may spud in a test well there in a few days.

The Shell Oil Company has taken a 750-acre lease on the Glenn Buell ranch a mile north of Buellton. Just across the highway from this lease the Rio Grande Oil Company has leased 500 acres from Odin Buell. The Rio Grande lease lies immediately south of the east dome of the Purisima anticline.

Union Orders Cars

An order for sixty tank cars has just been placed by the Union Oil Company, it was announced yesterday by R. D. Matthews, vice-president in charge of distribution. The order was placed with the General American Tank Car Company, Sharon, Pa. Delivery will be made during March and April.

Addition of these cars will bring the company's rolling-stock fleet to a total of 818 carriers, and will enable it to meet an increased need for railroad transportation facilities, resulting from a substantial gain in sales. Specifications call for forty insulated tank cars, especially equipped with steam coils, for carrying asphalt, and twenty ordinary tanks to transport refined and fuel oils.

Will Swab Ochsner

Today the General Petroleum Corporation will begin swabbing its Ochsner No. 2 on Section 26 in the Kettleman Hills to make a combination water shut-off and production test.

This is the well that came in unexpectedly several weeks ago and flowed for a few days before it could be killed. At that time, producing from a depth of about 6700 feet, it put out 1000 barrels of oil and more than 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

Since being killed the well has been deepened to 7300 feet and has been standing cemented for a month. As soon as the test is made and the company has made it into a producer the well will be capped and left shut in, to comply with an agreement between operators and the Department of the Interior. This agreement will be in force until next January 1. The well is five miles southeast of the Milham and Continental producers.

Venice Hearing Tomorrow

Expressions of property owners for and against the proposal that certain portions of the southeastern part of Venice be rezoned to permit of oil development will be heard at 10 a.m. tomorrow by the City Planning Commission.

Since oil was discovered just outside the city limits at Venice, about threee weeks ago, by the Ohio Oil Company, there has been considerable agitation for rezoning so that an area of perhaps 100 acres in subdivisions could be prospected.

The Ohio Oil Company holds several hundred acres under lease just outside the city limits and can proceed to develop quite an oil field there even if the town-lot area is left under present restrictions. Several oil companies have leased lots in the five blocks between the Ohio well and the ocean, and the lot owners would like to have the benefit of the oil royalties.

Applications were made two weeks ago for rezoning the district, and all interested parties will be heard tomorrow.

PRODUCE MARKET

(United States Bureau of Markets)

Unusually heavy receipts of local green vegetables which had not cleaned up to a late hour yesterday morning. Apples firm; Puebla avocados fairly plentiful, practically no good beans offered; bunched vegetables generally lower with a marked drop in beets, carrots and turnips; cabbage and cauliflower weaker; chicory dull; lettuce weak under liberal receipts of dry and loose packs; slightly better feeling in peas; Bell peppers steady but almost no demand for green chili; Italian squash weak but summer squash scarce and steady; strawberries lower; grapefruit moving slowly; bananafines weak; good tomatoes firm but small and poor stock plentiful.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—On the short mid-week run, the market was active and firm on most all classes. Few strictly good kinds were on hand and sales were made largely on part load and odd head lots. The rail supply came largely from Central California and intermountain points, while a few late steers were offered from local feed lots.

A part load steers scaling 1230 pounds realized 11.00, two loads 900 and 1050-pound Utahs, 11.00, and two short loads 1000 and 1030 pounds out of local feed lots, 11.00, and several part loads commercial steers, 10.50@11.00. Heifers, 900 pounds down, 10.50@11.00; cows, 10.00@10.50; bulls, 8.50@9.50; calves, 10.50@11.00; stockers and feeders, 8.50@10.00.

Some part load lots fairly good intermountain heifers reached 9.75@9.90, with outlets at 9.50. Best cows in small lots reached 9.00@9.40, with the bulk desirable slaughter kinds, 7.00@8.50, and low cutters generally 4.00@6.00. Odd head bulls reached 8.75, but most sold good lots turned at a range of 7.75@8.25.

CALVES—The supply was limited, there being insufficient supplies to fairly gauge values. A small lot 340-pound veals made 13.00, with odd head higher. Other common and medium kinds arranged at 9.50@12.00.

HOGS—The market was about steady. A load 185-pound butchers was sent to packing centers at 11.75, with a freight benefit, while two loads 190 and 195-pound Idaho garnered 11.50 and a part load 215-pound Texas offerings, 11.25. Light 240-pound averages, 11.75. A sizable lot packing sows scaled at 9.50.

SHEEP—Two decks 88-pound California lambs carrying a roaring end of 13.75, was in line with last week's previous sales.

Senator Borah Urges Civilian Rule for Haiti

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today advocated immediate action in Haiti to end President Hoover as the committee began consideration of the President's request for a commission of investigation.

Appointment of a civilian as high commissioner for Haiti and authority for a "free and untrammeled election" were proposed by Senator Borah, in a statement issued after the committee failed to reach a decision on the House resolution authorizing an investigating commission.

Borah severely condemned military rule of the Haitians. He offered no objection to the commission and by the President, and said in the absence of several members had extended committee action on the resolution. He predicted an early report, "but I feel that something ought to be done without waiting for the report of a commission," said the Idahoan.

PHYSICIAN MURDERED BY PATIENT

Inmate of Pennsylvania State Hospital Slays Doctor With Razor

HARRISBURG (Pa.) Jan. 8. (AP) Dr. B. E. Miller, staff physician at the Harrisburg State Hospital, was killed today by Moses Sweet, a patient, who attacked him with a razor.

Supt. E. M. Greene said Sweet's only explanation of the attack was that Dr. Miller "was keeping me here."

Sweet, however, had at no time been under the care of Dr. Miller and had only seen the physician when he came to visit other patients in the ward.

Radio and Cable Mergers Fought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Appearing before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today, Ellery W. Stone, president of the Federal Telephone and Telegraph Company, opposed repeal of a provision of the radio act forbidding mergers of cable and radio companies.

The proposal, Stone said, "strikes at the very heart of radio communication and is distinctly against the public interest."

SAN FRANCISCO POWER PLANT FORCED TO IDLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Lack of normal rainfall in the Hetch-Hetchy watershed, together with weather conditions which keep the late snowfall from melting and running into reservoirs and feeding streams, again has forced curtailment of power production at the city's Moccasin Creek plant, it was announced at the city engineer's office today. Last season's shutdown continued from December 16 to March 18.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tyanol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the region of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to droughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm. The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tyanol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear. Tyanol is absolutely harmless, being free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at all Los Angeles Drug Store.—[Advertisement.

TWO SEA ELEPHANTS FIGHT SAVAGELY

Giant Bulls Lassoed to Prevent Killing of Each Other

There, Take That!—and That!

SNAPPING at each other's throats, two raging bull sea elephants yesterday thrashed in a savage aquatic duel in the outdoor plunge of the Bimini Baths. For thirty minutes they continued a sanguinary neck-biting contest which threatened to be a fight to the death, until they were lassoed and dragged apart.

The two are half of a herd of four sea elephants captured on or off Guadalupe Island, 200 miles south, where the last of the species, 200 in number, are dwindling to extinction. The Mexican government permits six to be exported annually. Fred Henderson, deep-sea diver, and seventeen men captured these specimens of angustirostris. Each weighs four tons and is valued at $30,000.

Henderson, Capt. G. M. Byrde and Albert Shaw, who are preparing to tour them as an educational exhibit for school children, decided to let the sea elephants have a nice plunge yesterday after they had been traveling in crates aboard the steamer Patsy from Guadalupe. Two of the herd were let out into the plunge for a frolic.

Maybe the sea elephant, like his land ditto, never forgets, and they may have remembered some past disagreement of the old Guadalupe days. The two unwieldy monsters swam toward each other and sniffed in hostile manner. Then eight tons of sea elephant crashed in mortal combat, their teeth snapping at exposed throats. Their captors on the bank tried vainly to pry them apart with long timbers, which the sea elephants snapped in two like toothpicks.

For a bad half-hour the exhibitors had visions of $100,000 worth of rare species being chewed up. Firemen were called to turn the hose on the battlers, which only revived them for renewed efforts. Finally, the two were lassoed, and were tied apart, while the plunge was drained, stranding them.

LIBEL FILED ON CHIQUITA UNDECIDED

Commissioner Head Takes Rum Ship Tender's Case Under Advisement

Whether the power boat Chiquita shall be seized under a libel action as a rum ship was taken under advisement yesterday by United States Commissioner Head, sitting as special master in chancery. The government brought the action against the boat, asserting that it was acting as tender to rum ships and was in constant touch with liquor vessels plying between British Columbia and the California coast.

Testimony was introduced by the government that the Chiquita received various messages, relayed from Vancouver by the steamer Lillehorn, relating to the landing of liquor along the Southern California coast. When the Chiquita was seized no liquor was found on board, although intercepted radio messages in code referred to a cargo said to be on the boat.

Commissioner Head announced that he will render his decision within a few weeks.

TEN AIR DEATHS CRITICISED

Coroner's Jury Fixes No Blame in Film Planes' Crash, But Scores Hazardous Flying

A Coroner's jury, two of the members of which were Transcontinental Air Transport pilots, yesterday failed to find any person or organization responsible for the crash of two planes off Point Vicente last Thursday that resulted in the death of ten men, eight of them employees of the Fox Film studios. The jury's verdict, however, included some criticism of the type of flying that was being indulged in when the crash took place.

The verdict read, in part: "We find that the collision was caused by the airplanes flying in too close formation, one of the planes turning at too short radius and possibility of sun glare. We believe that flying of such a nature is too hazardous and it in no way encourages commercial aviation and in too many instances seems unnecessary."

EXTENSIVE INQUIRY

The two aviators, who served on the jury are Steve Shore, transport pilot for T.A.T., and C. F. Dorland, new acting as division traffic agent for the same air line. These two, as well as Dep. Dist.-Atty. Coleman, numerous attorneys representing insurance companies and private parties, survivors of the victims, and Coroner Nance, asked numerous questions of each witness, the inquest starting in the morning and not concluding until 4 p.m.

Technically, the inquest was conducted over the body of Kenneth Neil Hawks, motion-picture director, but it was extended also to cover all of the others killed in the accident. The first witnesses to take the stand were persons able to identify the five bodies recovered or to give data on those who still are imprisoned beneath the water.

Bushman Pays Parking Fine

Warned by an article in a morning paper that a traffic warrant had been issued for his arrest, Francis X. Bushman, film actor, appeared before Traffic Judge Valentine yesterday and pleaded guilty to parking overtime in front of 830 South Broadway.

Bushman, who gave his address as 1922 North Highland avenue, paid a $5 fine.

AUSTIN CHOSEN CHAMBER HEAD

Kerr Advances to Position of First Vice-president

Other Officers Selected in Civic Body's Election

New Leader Issues Call for Advance of Business

John C. Austin, architect and civic worker, yesterday was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce. The election also brought seven new directors to fill vacancies on the executive board of twenty-two members, occasioned by resignations of directors whose various businesses required their full attention.

Although taking over his new duties at once, President Austin will not be inaugurated formally until the date of the chamber's annual banquet, held each year on Washington's birthday, when the gavel of office will be turned over by Shannon Crandall, the retiring president. Mr. Crandall was appointed to the post of treasurer at yesterday's election.

Yesterday's vote of the membership fully supported the ticket prepared by the chamber's nominating committee, headed by Arthur S. Bent, which was delivered to all members on December 1. J. A. H. Kerr advances to the office of first vice-president; C. C. Hines, second vice-president; A. S. Schleicher, vice-president and member of the executive committee, and Shannon Crandall, treasurer.

AUSTIN'S STATEMENT

Following is a statement made by Mr. Austin after the election:

"I am very proud to have been chosen for the high office of president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, to succeed that group of splendid men, who, for forty years past, have headed this organization and have worked unselfishly and diligently in the interest of the community's progress.

"The aims and objects of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, as I see them, for this year, will be to enlarge and amplify our business structure, which needs to be developed and broadened in many directions. The closest study will be given to this development, to the end that undesirable competition will be avoided.

"We expect and hope to extend our commerce in every direction, especially with the Orient and countries washed by the Pacific Ocean. The reports of our foreign trade commissioners are very encouraging. Southern California, and Los Angeles in particular, are growing industrially by leaps and bounds, and we have to go far afield for markets in order to dispose of our various products. Especial attention will be given also to the development of our domestic trade area.

WATER PROBLEM

"One of the chief problems that Los Angeles has is the development of a larger water system. It is felt that the people of Los Angeles will call for a bond issue of an adequate amount to acquire a sufficient and safe volume of water to take care of the needs of the district until it is possible to bring in the waters of the Colorado River.

"In the development of the structure of business and commerce, the taking care of the cultural side must not be lost sight of. Neither must the large influx of visitors be left without consideration.

"Hundreds of millions of dollars have been invested here in facilities to care for and give pleasure to our visitors. The great sums left in the community by these visitors contribute in a very large measure to the prosperity of the district.

"We are not overlooking this factor and we express the hope that each one of us will, according to our opportunities, do everything we can to show those who come that they are welcome.

"Following the program of President Hoover, the wise expenditure of public funds at this time for facilities that are badly needed will

LOS ANGELES GLASS DEAL ANNOUNCED

West Coast Concern Has Been Bought by Pacific Company for Large Sum

Purchase of the West Coast Glass Company by the Pacific Coast Glass Company was announced yesterday by Ray H. Williams, Los Angeles manager of the latter organization.

Pacific Coast Glass in the future will manufacture all its products for distribution in the Southland, in Los Angeles, according to Mr. Williams. The output includes bottles, containers and jars. Previous to the deal the company had maintained only a warehouse here with the factory production being in San Francisco.

The plant of the West Coast Glass Company, situated on a four-acre tract at Slauson and Boyle avenues, is being entirely remodeled and electrically operated machinery installed. It will be in operation about March 1 and will be one of the finest equipped container factories in the country.

Included in the expansion plans is the building of a warehouse containing 30,000 square feet of floor space. This will enable the company to abandon its former warehouse on East Fourteenth street and concentrate all its activities at the Slauson and Boyle location.

While Mr. Williams declined to reveal the purchase price involved in the West Coast deal, he declared that his company will have an investment of approximately $350,000 in its local plant.

Architecture of Missions in State Traced

Derivations of California mission architecture were traced yesterday by Harold Chambers, president-elect of the Southern California chapter, American Institute of Architects, in an illustrated talk before the San Rafael Study Club at the Architects' Building. He was introduced by Mrs. C. W. Young, president and instructor of the club.

The speaker said that Spanish and Italian architecture is evident in the missions of California, which also show traces of influence of early Greek, Roman and North African types. In California, the selection of a site was of the first importance. Missions usually are situated on knolls, with backgrounds of hills and trees, overlooking beautiful valleys. The buildings are simple, built to resist the onslaught of time and weather, with beauty of line, but no ornate trimming, said the speaker.

AKRON GROUP TO PICNIC

Former residents of Akron, O., yesterday were notified to rally at a picnic in Exposition Park next Sunday. J. Brown, president of the Akron Society, issued the call.

SOUTHLAND MAY GET RAIN TODAY

Orchards Escape Damages in Cold Period

Some Smudge Pots Fired in Fruit Areas Again

Orchards Unhurt by Cold, Reports Indicate

Probable rain late this afternoon and tonight is forecast by the Weather Bureau as the reports from various sections were received last night.

Basing the prediction on the pressure areas as defined by the weather conditions reported from many districts, the official forecast said:

"Unsettled Thursday, with probably rain in the afternoon and night. Friday fair; continued cool Thursday morning, moderate southwesterly winds."

Low temperatures in the more exposed citrus groves last night called for the firing of some orchard heaters.

The extent of the smudging, which was ordered to begin shortly after 1 o'clock this morning to continue until about daylight, was not expected to be so great as that of yesterday morning when the heaters in a number of sections were fired for the first time this season.

BREEZES BLOWING

A north breeze was reported blowing through the Santa Clara and San Fernando Valleys at midnight, which was serving to keep the temperature up and the mercury stood at 33 deg. A frost warning, however, was issued at that hour, forecasting a temperature in some areas of between 26 and 27 deg. Heaters were ordered started at 1 a.m. as a precautionary measure.

The temperature in the San Bernardino and Redlands area at midnight was 34 deg., and it was reported that only a few exposed groves would require smudging and the only a short time just at daylight. The low mark was forecast for 27 deg. for the district. The sky was somewhat cloudy in this section and a light wind blowing served to keep the thermometer higher.

POMONA SKY CLEAR

A clear sky with a temperature of 31 deg. was reported at midnight from the Pomona district. Some heating was scheduled to start at 1 a.m. in some lemon groves, but the orange growers were not anticipating a refiring, as the weather seemed to indicate no lower temperature than 27 deg., and that for only a short time.

A composite check from twenty groves in the Riverside district gave a temperature of 33-deg. at midnight with a forecast of approximately 28 deg. just before dawn. Preparations were made to warn growers should any sudden change occur, and all precautions were taken for quick lighting of the heaters.

In the Santa Ana district it was somewhat warmer, the temperature standing at 35 deg. at 10:30 p.m. A drop to 28 deg. during the early morning hours was predicted, and growers were watching the thermometer with plans made to start firing just before daylight.

The temperature in Los Angeles yesterday fluctuated only 16 deg. The highest registered at 1 p.m. was 56 deg., and the minimum 40 deg. registered about 4 a.m.

NO ORCHARD DAMAGE

Although the early morning hours yesterday saw some snappy weather in the citrus groves, no damage was done.

The lowest registered in the early hours yesterday was reported from the eastern section of the Ventura district and one near Pomona, where 26 deg. was reached for a short time. The general low average was around 27 to 28 deg. Some of the low temperatures for the night included: Pomona, 28 to 27; Upland, around 28; Redlands, 27, and Riverside, 28. Mr. Young stated that these temperatures were not to be construed as being general over the entire district reported from, but were merely the lowest in certain areas.

About half of the smudge pots in the San Bernardino county fruit districts were lighted Tuesday night, the temperatures ranging from 28 deg. up to 30 and 31. The lowest temperatures were recorded in the exposed area west of Redlands. No damage is believed to have resulted.

Lemon growers around Ontario and Upland smudged, also growers in the Pontana, Colton, East Highland, Redlands and Loma Linda districts.

THERE'S one consolation. All this newspaper stuff about the wedding of the Belgian Princess and the Italian Prince can't go on forever; also, they can't be married but once—at least not to each other.

WAIL SOFTLY—SOFTLY!

The British government is trying to soften the asperities of life in Jerusalem by imploring the Jews to wail in the dulcet tones of a cooing dove—if they must wail at the Wailing Wall. It appears that the customary robust style of mourning gets on the sensitive nerves of the desert Arabs.

All of which goes to show what a narrow escape Uncle Sam had when the British diplomats tried to wish an Armenian mandate on the United States.

TROUBLE SPOTS

There are three trouble spots on this earth . . . Jerusalem, the Balkans and Armenia. From the earliest dawning of history these places have been battlefields—and they always will be battlefields. That because they stand at the crossroads of the world.

THEY DIDN'T HURRY

It is not very flattering to the various healing sciences that Columbia University is only just now starting on a campaign of research to find out what causes teeth to decay. Medicine, dentistry, surgery and so on have been among the learned professions for 2000 years and more. It is somewhat amazing to a layman to know one of these professions is just getting around to a feeling of curiosity in relation to the most fundamental fact relating thereto, and to know that a famous star of the medical world steps up in triumph to announce that he thinks he knows now the functions of the human spleen. What have the other doctors been doing and thinking about for the last twenty centuries?

OFFICIAL MANNERS

Col. H. Constable Hall, a world traveler, stopped in Los Angeles long enough to issue a snort of indignation about the immigration service at Ellis Island.

There is nothing in the process of sifting out immigrants that is likely to cause enthusiasm in the hearts of the sifted. A certain degree of severity and unfriendliness is inevitable and perhaps necessary. At the same time the abominable manners and impudence of many immigration officials does not contribute to the dignity of this government.

SOB STORIES

Al Jolson feels aggrieved because I said his last singing picture had been a box-office failure. He says that it has made $1,000,000 on an investment of $400,000.

If this is true, then it becomes just a simple matter of human appeal. Please, please stop singing mammy songs to dear little dying children in hospitals.

Mr. Jolson has certainly used up his allowance of quavering sob stories.

CANADIANS PLAN FETE

At the new Canadian headquarters, Angelus Hotel, Spring and Fourth streets, the Affiliated Canadian Societies are to give a complimentary entertainment tomorrow evening, under the direction of Don McCormick. Nominations for Miss Canada 1930 will be made for the twentieth annual Canadian jubilee to be held next month. All young ladies born in Canada are eligible to enter. The Canadian Tourists' Society will attend as guests of honor.

SAM HARRIS, PRODUCER, HEEDS "TALKIES" LURE

Another prominent Broadway personage has decided to hit the Hollywood trail, it was learned yesterday, when Sam H. Harris, New York theatrical producer, arrived here and announced that he has come with the intention of getting into the motion-picture, or rather, sound-picture, business. His purpose is to form an alliance, he said, with one of the major studios, under which he will have his own unit for the production on the screen of plays, which he already has presented with success on the stage.

HELEN COHAN SAM H HARRIS MRS. SAM H HARRIS

Overtures were first made to him, he said, more than a year ago, but he was not interested in the project at first. He has been converted, he said, not only by the phenomenal strides made in talking-picture production but also by the depression in theatrical production. The present sad state of the eastern stage, he believes, is due in large part to the ticket speculator evil but matters would not be so bad, in his opinion, if the "talkies" had not come along at this juncture to provide entertainment to the public which was being driven from the theater by the rapacity of some of the theatrical managers.

Other contributing factors, he said, are that the talking-picture producers not only are luring the best stage actors from their natural element but also are taking away the best playwrights. There has been a marked decline in playwriting within the past year, he said, because the picture producers offer the authors a guaranteed price for their output. Naturally, he pointed out, the authors are

BELL BATTLE IN LAST STAGE

Bad Faith Charged to Promoter by Purchaser; Councilmen View Quarry Site

Two events marked the final fight yesterday against the granting by the City Council to Alphonso Bell of the right to establish a rock crusher and cement rock quarry in the Santa Monica Mountains, as recommended some weeks ago by the City Planning Commission. The territory adjacent to the proposed quarry was visited by eight members of the City Council, who were given the viewpoint of the property owners whose land values will be affected by the presence of heavy industry in the district and Arthur Weber, president of Miramar Estates, later made public letters between himself and the secretary of the Los Angeles Mountain Park Company in which he asserted bad faith on the part of the Bell people.

The correspondence given out by Weber was between himself and Claude A. Wayne and indicated that up until a few weeks before the filing of the first application by the Bell interests for the crusher permit the head of the Miramar property had been assured that rumors he had heard about increased activity in Santa Ynez Canyon were groundless.

Mr. Weber's letter was dated February 29, 1928, and the reply, assuring him that his fears were without cause, was dated March 3, 1928. Weber, however, charges that even when the letter was written the Bell people were proceeding with their plans to tap the limestone deposits of the canyon, and were acting in bad faith at the time.

Wayne is asserted to have replied

CIVIC CENTER GAIN NEARS

New $5,000,000 Federal Building Plans Crystallize as Chamber Pushes Great Project

Plans are crystallizing rapidly for the erection of a new $5,000,000 Federal Building here as part of the Civic Center development. According to these plans the present government structure will be utilized as a part of the new building.

The suggested site extends from the northwest corner of Main and Temple streets northward for some 600 feet to where the new line of Temple street will intersect Main street, thence westward to Spring street.

This area includes 104,288 square feet, of which 32,700 square feet, comprising a rectangular strip between Spring street and that portion of New High street which cuts through the entire area, belongs to the county, which is to furnish the site. The vacating of this section of New High street and that stretch of Commercial street which cuts through the area from Main to Spring, will give 32,700 feet to the site, the total cost of which is said to be somewhat more than $1,500,000.

While there has been no actual allocation of money for the erection of a new Federal Building here, there is a tacit understanding that $5,000,000 is to be devoted by the government to such purposes, provided the site is furnished without cost. It is stated authoritatively that a formal request for from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 is to be made from which to buy the site as well as provide for the construction of the building.

Utilization of a locally prepared architectural design is urged in the representations made to the Fed-

TEN AIR DEATHS BRING CRITICISM

Coroner's Jury Takes Rap at Hazardous Flying

Verdict, However, Fails to Fix Specific Blame

The next witnesses were officials of the Fox Film studio and flyers, mechanics and speed-boat operators directly connected with preparing for the filming of the air picture sequence that ended so disastrously.

EVENTS RECONSTRUCTED

In substance, this is the reconstructed picture of events that was presented to the Coroner's jury by the various witnesses:

The Fox Film organization was preparing to shoot the final scenes of a picture that called for the photographing of a parachute jump from an airplane over the ocean. Hawks was directing the picture. Two airplanes were to follow the one from which the jump was to have been made, the first to get a picture of the man crawling out of the plane, and the second to film the opening of the parachute.

With this in mind three commercial planes, the pilots of which had maneuvered camera planes before, were chartered. A conference was held between Hawks, the pilots, cameramen, assistants and all others to take part in the work and details were agreed on. The planes waited on the ground until two speed boats had moved out from Venice and taken up their positions about two miles apart off Point Vicente to pick up the parachute jumper when he reached the water.

TURNER'S STORY

Capt. Roscoe Turner, pilot of the plane in which the parachute jumper was stationed, gave a graphic description of what happened:

"My plane was faster than the other two and when I left Clover Field I went on ahead and located the speed boats. Then I returned and found the other two airplanes and we proceeded once more toward the speed boats. It was planned that the parachute jumper would drop midway between the two speed boats.

"The planes with the cameras in them took up their positions behind me. They were flying more than 300 feet apart, the minimum distance allowed by the Department of Commerce. We flew over the course and when we arrived at one end I slowed down to let the others pass me to make the turn back."

The next he saw of the planes, Turner said, was when they, in a sheet of flame, almost had reached the water.

"I had a kind of a bum hunch that day," he related, "but I was afraid mostly for the parachute jumper."

"What do you think caused the accident?" he was asked.

"One of the planes evidently turned and hit the other," was the answer.

He declared that this easily might happen, as there was a double glare from sun and water, and the position of the one turning would be in a "blind spot" to the pilot of the other plane.

Turner asserted that there was nothing in Director Hawks's instructions to which the aviators could object and that the undertaking was not considered particularly hazardous outside of the parachute jump.

Although Turner did not see the impact of the two planes, men below in the speed boats did, as did Fred Osborn, aviation machanic and parachute technician, in Turner's plane.

The general impression received by these witnesses was that one of the planes started to turn or side slipped. The wings of the two planes touched and then they swung around and crashed into each other nose to nose. There was an explosion and the two planes were wrapped in a sheet of fire. They fell perhaps 1000 feet and then there was another explosion. The planes parted and objects, some of them bodies, fell free. The planes fell into the water and sank immediately. Only blazing gasoline on the surface marked the spot where they had disappeared.

Above, Capt. Turner circled the spot and then turned back toward Clover Field. Below the speed boats hurried to recover what bodies they could. They found three. One speed boat remained on the scene and the other returned with the bodies to Venice.

The fact was brought out at the inquest that all of the seats were taken out of the camera planes and the doors removed from both sides of the cabins and a platform built for the cameras in the doorways. It was denied, however, that the open door in any way made the ships unmanageable.

Among those who gave testimony at the inquest, in addition to those already listed, were the following:

Max Golden, Fox studio manager; Derwin Abrahams, second assistant director; Robert M. Goux, location man; Halvert Taylor, chief mechanic for the Tanner Aircraft Company, owner of the planes that crashed; Duke Jennings and T. Mouice, operators of the speed boats, and L. William O'Connell, motion-picture photographer, who was a passenger in one of the boats.

While the inquest was going on, funeral services for Kenneth Hawks were conducted at the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Cemetery. The church was filled to overflowing with film celebrities and motion-picture officials when the services commenced at noon.

The services were in the nature of a memorial, the body having been cremated the night before. Rev. Leslie E. Learned, pastor of All Saints Church in Pasadena, where Hawks lived for a time, read the services and delivered a brief eulogy. As the mourners filed out of the church, among them a number of well-known members of the film colony, red-eyed with weeping, the floral pieces were brought out and arranged on the lawn, making a great bank of flowers. Members of the families who were present included the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hawks; the two brothers, Howard and William, and the mother of Mary Astor, Hawks's widow. Miss Astor was not present. Executives and others of the Fox studio where Hawks was employed, also attended the services.

Operations will be resumed this morning in search of the five bodies and in the raising of the two planes off Point Vicente, it was announced yesterday by Merritt, Chapman & Scott Corporation officials in charge of salvage work. Heavy northwest ground swells created by the northerly gale blowing offshore Tuesday prevented work yesterday.

Capt. E. W. Samuelson, salvage-master in command of the tug Salt, made a survey of the scene from Point Vicente yesterday morning and reported that any attempts to grapple for the plane still missing, or to raise the first plane, buoyed in sixty feet of water near Rocky Point, would be useless. Capt. Samuelson estimated that the sea will have subsided sufficiently by this morning to resume work.

Ventura district was general, no damage was done to fruit. Fillmore district experienced a rather heavy hailstorm, with hail four inches deep in the Grimes Canyon district. In some places there was even an inch of hail on the ground in the valley at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Orchard heaters were lit in the exposed portions of the Redlands-Highland district early yesterday morning.

With thousands of heaters in the Riverside county groves lit, the Riverside Fruit Exchange announced that no damage has been done.

Orange county experienced the first frost of the year, the lowest temperatures being reported from the Orange and Tustin districts where the mercury touched 30 deg. for a time. Anaheim reported a low of 31 deg.

Temperatures in the San Diego area were higher, but orchardists were warned to be on the alert for lower temperatures last night.

L. Wilson reported a minimum of 20 deg. for Tuesday night.

One of the freaks of the storm cropped out when the Coachella Valley reported the first real snow fall along the shores of the Salton Sea since the white man came to the valley. Charles Hartley of the Salton Sea Salt Works reported that snow fell for a half hour around the plant and that at the same time a real squall raged over the sea, kicking up great waves. The Indians say it snowed there once before the white man came.

HARRIS TO MAKE TALKING FILMS

glad to choose that instead of the very problematical royalties which would accrue to them if their output is presented first on the stage.

It is not his intention, Mr. Harris said, to give up theatrical production entirely, but merely to limit it to an extent that will permit him to spend half his year out here in picture production. He already has made plans for three stage productions next year, including a musical comedy by Irving Berlin to be entitled "Talkie, Talkie." He also is arranging for the production in this city soon of his play, "June Moon." The local production will be in charge of George Holland, his Coast representative, who is also his brother-in-law.

Another brother-in-law of Mr. Harris is his former partner, George M. Cohan, and on his trip out here he is accompanied not only by Mrs. Harris, but by their 17-year-old niece, Helen Cohan. The young miss has decided to heed family tradition and become an actress and she plans to make her stage debut in the local production of "June Moon."

No producer has had a higher average of successes in the past decade than Mr. Harris. Some of his plays already have been presented on the screen. He plans to have "talkies" made of the best of those which have not already reached the screen and possibly to make new picture productions of those which were screened in the past, in addition to screening all of his future stage successes. Some of the plays which he was the first to bring to the stage are "Rain," "Six-Cylinder Love," "The Nervous Wreck," "Cradle Snatchers," "Chicago," "Captain Applejack," "The Hottentot," "Little Old New York," "Welcome Stranger," "Icebound"—the Pulitzer prize play—"The Spider," "The Jazz Singer," "The Cocoanuts" and four Music Box Revues.

TAYLOR SLAYING STILL MYSTERY

Case Apparently Slated for Return to Oblivion

Expected New Disclosures Fail to Materialize

Hefner, ex-Convict, Remains on List of Missing

The rejuvenated William Desmond Taylor murder mystery last night was about to return to oblivion while mysterious "witnesses," whose information has not been placed in the hands of Dist.-Atty. Fitts, as yet, sought to revive the case with the pulmotor of publicity, according to Los Angeles public officials.

Arthur Nelson, alias Otis Hefner, ex-convict paroled by former Gov Richardson in 1926, still is reported missing, although he has sent word that he will surrender to Ed Whyte, State parole officer at San Francisco.

Hefner recently released a statement that he knew all about the Taylor murder, but in the end his information directed the attention of investigators toward Edward Sands, Taylor's former valet. This is the point where the case was suspended by Los Angeles investigators in 1922. At that time it was decided that the only way to find the real facts in the case would be to find Sands. He never has been found, although officers have searched the United States and appealed to foreign police.

CLARK DATA LACKING

At the same time it was disclosed by Dist.-Atty. Fitts that Vincent E. Clark, Philadelphia newspaper man, has failed to forward to him information which he asserts was in a statement he gave to Dist.-Atty. Woolwine in Los Angeles during the Taylor murder inquiry. A search of the District Attorney's records failed to show any trace of Clark's asserted statement, hence Fitts urged him to again give his information.

And the status of Henry Peavy, Taylor's personal servant at the time of his death, remains the same as when he last was questioned in Los Angeles, according to Edward King, investigator for Dist.-Atty. Fitts, who is in charge of the present inquiry and who also was assigned to the Taylor murder case while a member of the Los Angeles Police Department in 1922.

Further discrediting the stories of Peavy and Hefner, William C. Doran, presiding judge of the Superior Court, who was chief deputy District Attorney under Thomas Lee Woolwine and conducted the Taylor murder investigation, announced that the investigation at that time did not disclose any evidence implicating anyone in the slaying.

HEFNER'S STATEMENT

Hefner's statement that he could name the slayer of Taylor was discredited first when it was disclosed that Sheriff Traeger, Capt. C. E. Peoples and Capt. Harvey Bell had investigated the man's story before it was presented to former Gov. Richardson. At that time these officers reported that Hefner knew virtually nothing about the case. Capt. Peoples stated that numerous discrepancies in Hefner's statements which conflicted radically with the known facts, convinced him that the man merely was attempting to talk his way out of prison.

Dist.-Atty. Fitts yesterday indicated that he will be content to permit competent State officers in San Francisco and Sacramento to take statements from Hefner and Peavy should they wish to put them in affidavit form. Hefner, however, thus far has failed to report to Parole Officer Whyte to give his version of the matter.

CIVIC CENTER PLAN RUSHED

eral authorities by the Chamber of Commerce and others, on the ground that local architectural talent has a better acquaintance with available materials and local requirements.

A tentatively advanced structural plan contemplates a building of eight stories, two stories higher than the present Federal Building, and the incorporation of the present structure in such a way and with such changes of street facades as practically will make one large new building rather than an extensive addition to the present one.

A significant move to further Federal building construction here is the speeding up of the proceedings to open Spring street from Temple to Sunset Boulevard, a distance of about three blocks, which will provide the west frontage for the new Federal Building on the proposed site. The proceedings to change the line of Temple street in conformity with the Civic Center thoroughfare plan are being expedited, it is understood. According to this plan Temple street will take off from about Grand avenue at an easy angle as far as Broadway and thereafter continue at right angles to Broadway, Spring and Main streets to join with Alliso street, and will provide the north frontage for the proposed Federal Building site. This means that the new Temple street will intersect Main street at about 600 feet north of their present intersection.

Supt. Newman, head of the Pacific Coast division of the Federal architectural service, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from his headquarters in San Francisco. It is stated he came in connection with certain alterations in the present Federal Building and also to attend a conference having to do with the government proposal to lease quarters to house various Federal activities here. A lease of quarters for such purposes in the Brownstein-Louis Building at Eighth and Figuerat streets, is expected to be consummated, according to a statement from the building's offices.

The vessel is now in San Diego Harbor. Young Conant, a former Manual Arts High School student, is accompanied by his wife and daughter.

'WET HOPE' GROOMS FOR STATE RACE

Local Democrat Puts Name Before Voters as Candidate for Governor

Charles J. O'Hagan of the Velda Apartments, 401 South Grand avenue, yesterday announced his candidacy for nomination for Governor on the Democratic ticket. Announcement was made through F. M. Abbott, secretary-treasurer of Constitutional League of Southern California, on whose door is emblazoned the message that it is headquarters for the movement to repeal the Wright Act, California's prohibition measure. O'Hagan, through Abbott's personal statement and a typed one which Abbott said O'Hagan had issued, is pledged to the repeal of the Wright Act, leaving enforcement of prohibition entirely up to the Federal government. The typed statement denounces prohibition as "an impotent experiment."

O'Hagan, Abbott said, was born in North Carolina and was a plantation owner until 1910 when he went to Sacramento. In 1911 he came here and since has resided in Los Angeles. Abbott said O'Hagan dealt in real estate and real estate securities until about two years ago, "not in any big way at all" and that for about two years he has been virtually among the retired in so far as active business is concerned. He has a wife and is about 51 years of age, it is said.

Abbott is a former Montana State Senator. He organized the Al Smith-for-President League here during the late Presidential campaign. He hails Mr. O'Hagan's advent into the political campaign as the wet hope.

Church Group and Unions Ask Curb on Labor

A committee representing the Church Federation and organized labor yesterday waited on the Board of Public Works and asked that a clause be inserted in contracts whereby only Los Angeles citizens shall be employed on public works and that a five-day working week be instituted during the winter months. The committee also asked that the board press its building program as much as possible in the winter and spring months so as to dispel the possibility of unemployment.

The board referred the matter to City Attorney Werner to determine the legality of restricting employment to Los Angeles residents.

The committee comprised J. W. Bunsell, secretary of the Central Labor Council; Rev. E. P. Ryland, secretary of the Church Federation; Reverend Father J. E. Dolan and Nathan Newby.

STREET PROTESTS DENIED

The City Council yesterday denied all protests against the improvement of the Bellevue avenue and Laveta Terrace district and ordered the City Engineer and City Attorney to draft the final ordinance for the project.

BAUMGARTEKER CLEW FADES OUT

Tennessee Hospital Silent on Suspect There

Witness Voluntary Absentee, Police Now Assert

Missing Man's Partner Will Disclose Affairs

Failure to receive confirmation yesterday of the identification of a man held in a Tennessee hospital as Fred Baumgarteker, missing realty specialist, caused authorities here to believe the riddle of his disappearance still is unsolved and that the six weeks' search must continue.

Information was received here by Chief Investigator O'Brien of the District Attorney's office that a man who had been taken to a hospital in Portland, Tenn., under mysterious circumstances was believed to be Baumgarteker.

The message came from Miss Bessie Tibbs, who asked for further particulars and description of the missing man, merchant. She declared in her telegram that the man described resembled the descriptions given of Baumgarteker, but could not make positive identification without information as to peculiar scars and marks on the body.

CLEW THOUGHT FALSE

A full and complete description of the missing man then was forwarded, which was followed by a telegram stating that an examination would be made Monday and results reported. No word had been received last night by O'Brien and the opinion was expressed that the man in the hospital, who refuses to talk, is not Baumgarteker.

An audit of the books of the Asti Grape Products Company, a Cucamonga company and three vineyards near Cucamonga, in which Baumgarteker was half-owner, will be completed soon, it was announced by O'Brien. This official said has already developed, according to the authorities, tangled affairs of the missing man. The examination of the books has been revealed, the announcement, that Baumgarteker passed a check for $1000 the day prior to his disappearance and another for $500 two days previous. The questioned check issuances are being investigated.

GEORGE VOLUNTARILY

Baumgarteker was described as a "mystery character" by the authorities, who are skeptical of reports that he has been murdered and his body buried.

Julius Demaleis, partner of Baumgarteker, against whom a Federal warrant was issued Tuesday charging conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act after a truck of the company was discovered leaving the premises with 150 gallons of brandy, is still held by Federal authorities here and a secret sliding panel in the basement at 216 North Avenue 19, is presumed to make a complete search of the affairs of the company and warehouse to the District Attorney.

The statement of Demaleis will be voluntarily, it was said, and probably will result in clearing up several points that have puzzled the authorities in attempting to solve the disappearance.

TILES LAID IN OLVERA STREET

ACTION is what the members of the San Rafael History Club of this city believe in. So they not only bought sixty padre tiles for Olvera street, where the Avila adobe stands, but they also went there yesterday afternoon and actually laid the tiles themselves.

The club, under the leadership of Mrs. C. W. Young, president, was formed for the purpose of studying California history and lending aid wherever possible in retaining its old landmarks and preserving the charm and atmosphere of early California days. The organization now is in its fourth year of existence.

The particular subject for study this year in the club is California architecture, and the Avila adobe was one of the first subjects of observation. After laying the tile the thirty members who participated spent about an hour at the house and were so enthusiastic, according to Mrs. Young, that they hope to interest other women's clubs in similar direct action toward the completion of the paving of Olvera street, which progresses very slowly because of the lack of tiles with which to proceed.

Cowboy Must Raise $150 by This Afternoon

Unless Art Acord, film cowboy, pays $150 into Municipal Court by 2 p.m. today he must go to jail for fifteen days.

The sentence was imposed by Judge Bogue yesterday after a trial lasting less than five minutes. Acord was found guilty of possession of three pints and a gallon jug of moonshine liquor found in the apartment of Mrs. Marian Morrell at 652 North Vermont avenue, more than two months ago. The woman, found guilty of the same charge in another court, will be sentenced next Monday.

Before sentence was imposed Acord declared that his departure from Los Angeles, resulting in bail forfeiture and his recent arrest in Nogales, Ariz., was the result of legal advice from his former attorney, now confined in a psychopathic institution. Following sentence the actor told the court that he is broke and asked for time to raise the money to pay his fine. He was given until 2 p.m. today.

NOTABLES GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

Sister of Hoover, Mayor Porter and Dist.-Atty. Fitts Honored

President Hoover's sister, Mrs. Mary Hoover Leavitt, Mayor Porter and Dist.-Atty. Fitts yesterday were honored guests of the Women's Club of Hollywood at a law-enforcement luncheon. The Mayor and Fitts spoke, while Mrs. Leavitt contented herself with a bow. Mrs. Fred V. Watson, first vice-president and chairman of the club's law - enforcement and observance committee, presided.

The Mayor said that he had been criticised for having more secretaries than any other Mayor, to which he replied that he is doing more work, 100 per cent more correspondence and 200 per cent more personal calls. He announced that he would appoint to office only men he believed personally to be law observers, particularly on the Police Commission.

Fitts announced that he had heard that some Hollywood women had planned petitioning him to liberate Alexander Pantages, and he commented that it was a "good thing you didn't." He added that if that attitude does not suit, the recall is available.

Reviewing his year in the District Attorney's office, he said that, a year ago, crime had a strangle hold on the community, but that the underworld now is whipped. He cited that with fifty-four lawyers in his office, 1179 felony cases were handled last October. He added that while he cannot send every criminal to San Quentin, his staff can induce a lot more to leave Los Angeles.

FILM ACTOR CAUGHT IN LIQUOR NET

Lionel Belmore Slated for Arraignment Today on Wright Act Charge

Lionel Belmore, 55-year-old actor, is scheduled to appear before Municipal Judge Curtis at 2 p.m. today for arraignment on a charge of possession of more than a gallon of intoxicating liquor, following his arrest by District Attorney's operatives yesterday.

The actor was arrested at his apartment, 7020 Fountain avenue, by H. G. Haworth and Fletcher Tolbert, operatives under Capt. Plummer, prohibition enforcement officer for the District Attorney. They charge that they found ten quarts of gin and several bottles of benedictine and Scotch whisky in Belmore's room.

At the County Jail Belmore was booked on a Wright Act violation charge. He stated that he was born in England and that he has lived in the United States for nineteen years and in Los Angeles for eleven years. Shortly after being booked he was released on furnishing $500 bail.

SPECTRA 'GHOST' TRAIL GETS HOT

Science May Revolutionize Theory of Crystology

Caltech Expert and German Planning New Tests

Varying Molecular Density Basis of Experiment

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 8.—Through the joint efforts of Dr. Fritz Zwicky of California Institute of Technology and Prof. Otto Stern of the University of Hamburg, Germany, the science of crystology may be revolutionized, it was revealed here today.

Dr. Zwicky's new theory of crystal structure was presented recently by Dr. Robert A. Millikan at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"GHOST" LINES

Although of a highly technical nature the theory indicates that there are special regions of density in any crystal structure and that each ten or more rows of molecules in a crystal are spaced by a denser molecular row. The theory relates to and, possibly may explain the "ghost" lines in spectra.

Prof. Stern, who is a guest here at the Hotel Huntington, has conferred with Dr. Zwicky and will attempt to prove the latter's theory experimentally on his return to Germany.

The German scientist is known throughout the world as the man who first proved De Broglie's theory that atoms and molecules have wave properties when in motion.

SOME HOPE FELT

Dr. Stern allowed a fine stream of helium to flow on a cristal of lithium fluoride and measured the angles of reflection of the helium molecules.

Instead of being dispersed over a wide range, the molecules are reflected in certain definite directions, demonstrating the existence of the wave form of molecule.

"I have talksd with Dr. Zwicky," said Prof. Stern today, "and I feel there is some hope for his revolutionary theory, and that it can be experimentally demonstrated with a modification of my apparatus in Hamburg."

Women Strive for Estate of C. M. Brannon

Two women, the widow and a former wife of C. M. Brannon, met in Superior Judge Hollzer's court yesterday in a contest over the $500,000 estate of Brannon, business man who died last month.

Mrs. Jennie Lee Brannon, the widow, was left property in the will, which she said she had already been given in a divorce settlement in 1921. She remarried Brannon in 1923.

Most of the estate was left to his former wife, Mrs. Lillian Brannon, who presented the will for probate yesterday. Mrs. Jennie Brannon is contesting. Judge Hollzer took the case under advisement.

Divorce Sought From Franklin, Film Director

Chester M. Franklin, motion-picture director, yesterday was sued for divorce by his wife, Mrs. Mildred A. Franklin, on grounds of cruelty and willful neglect.

The couple married in October, 1926, and separated in December, 1929. Asserting that her husband is able to make $10,000 a year, Mrs. Franklin asks alimony of $375 a month, and a share in community property, including the family home at 1115 San Ysidro street, Beverly Hills. Attorney Harold D. Judson filed the complaint.

Woman Held on San Jose Charge

Mrs. Gertrude A. Margeson, 53 years of age, yesterday was arrested in her home at 626 South La Brea avenue and held in the County Jail to await action by the Sheriff of San Jose, where she is wanted on a charge of grand theft. The arrest ended a search of several weeks. Locating the woman's whereabouts, Deputy Sheriff Nettie Yaw, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Kelley, entered the house, and represented herself as a prospective investor. Mrs. Margeson then is asserted to have told the officers of an advertising plan by which she expected to make a large sum of money for those who would back her in it. When she admitted her identity, she was placed under arrest.

Details of the charge on which she is wanted by the San Jose authorities are not known here.

Official Makes Seal Sale Plea

An appeal in behalf of the Christmas seal clean-up campaign conducted by the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association was made yesterday by Dr. R. L. Cunningham, president. Numerous residents of the city who have received Christmas seals from the association have as yet failed to remit.

"Not until tuberculosis has become a minor disease, both as a cause of death and sickness, will the task of the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated agencies be accomplished," Dr. Cunningham stated.

CAR DAMAGE APPROPRIATED

Subject to the approval of Mayor Porter, the City Council yesterday appropriated $18 to cover the cost of repairing the top of the automobile of William Hoover. His automobile was set on fire by a spark from the municipal incinerator.

Today's Bible Text

Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord.—Acts iii:19.

NUMBER, PLEASE

Telephone girl in Cincinnati is said to have answered 10,000,000 calls in her forty-four years of service. And this makes no record of another possible million wrong numbers.

MAN WANTED

Jack Dempsey tells 'em in Chicago that he is going to trot out a real American champion this year or else put on the mitts himself. Something has got to be done to provide the country with a slugger who can eat raw hamburger and like it. So that's that.

GROWING WARMER

A correspondent explains that the sprightly air, "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," is a favorite funeral hymn in China. Played very slowly by a brass band the piece sounds vastly different from the customary American rendition. But it is a hot dirge all right.

FAST SERVICE

One of the big passenger planes in service in the East made the flight from Cleveland to Chicago the other day at the rate of 203 miles an hour. This ought to be swift enough, for any man to get out of town—no matter how tough the place is. Anyhow, it is the best mark yet set for a regular run in this country. It was a twelve-passenger plane at that.

ZONE OF SAFETY

There is proof that Chicago is getting safer and safer every day. The motor and traffic fatalities were 15 per cent less last year than the year before and the murders showed a slump of better than 20 per cent. There were only a paltry 280 homicides during 1929, which is hardly worth making a fuss about. Anybody can go to Chicago now without getting a permit from the life insurance company.

TAKE MEALS OUT

A survey of nearly 200,000 restaurants over the land proved that during the last three months of last year the habit of eating out developed more extensively in America than ever before. There are lots of housewives that hardly average a dinner a week at home. Friend Husband doesn't even get a chance to patronize the delicatessen. He has to take his whole flock some place where they can all sit down and eat. The American home is not being disrupted, but it is slightly disfigured. Maybe the wife craves a two-step with her soup.

TINY TEMPEST

Communists made a demonstration against the Mexican Embassy at Washington as a reprisal against the punishment of radicals in the cactus republic. But most of the rioters were students and juveniles and nothing serious happened. The Washington authorities offered punishment, but the Mexican Ambassador insisted that it was not worth while. He said the demonstration was one of youthful exuberance rather than political adherence. Possibly a spanking would have been all right, but serious action would lend too much dignity to the upheaval. The administration can provide ample protection for the embassy should any be needed.

DECAY OF THE HUB

The final proof that New England has slipped badly is now at hand. No longer can that section lay claim to being the center of the universe. By many, the defection of Massachusetts into the Democratic column in 1928 was regarded as a temporary aberrancy, a nodding of Jove, so to speak. But now, in the course of an editorial commenting on the case of Magistrate Vitale in New York City, the Boston Transcript asserts that such things can happen only in communities where judges are chosen by popular vote. But, alas, it happens that city magistrates (police judges) in New York are appointed by the Mayor. Who ever would have believed that the Boston Transcript could make a mistake? Such a happening is a worse shock to the eastern seaboard than the recent earthquake.

OFF TO THE NAVAL PARLEY

The American delegation to the naval arms conference at London sails today, inspired by the farewell reminder of President Hoover that the progress of peace depends in large measure upon its success, and bearing with it the fervent hopes of the people of the United States. The delegation, headed by Secretary of State Stimson, Senator Reed, Senator Robinson and Ambassador Morrow, will be joined abroad by Ambassador Gibson. It thus has a purely civilian flavor. The naval officers who accompany are in the capacity of advisers and, at the suggestion of Great Britain, will be in civilian dress.

As President Hoover pointed out, the problems to be met by the conference are of great difficulty, and long debate is expected to precede agreement. It will be several months before the conference can conclude, in the President's view—a statement which gives the negative to the assumption voiced in some European circles that the United States and Great Britain will present a cut-and-dried program with an intimation to France, Italy and Japan that they have nothing to do but sign on the dotted line. It is plain that the details of agreement have not been fixed upon in advance, but are to be hammered out by the conference itself.

But the President is confident that the conference will succeed and his expression should be taken at its face value. His hope that the American delegates will not be hampered by premature criticism is an entirely reasonable request. It is obvious that real judgment cannot be passed upon the conference until its final result is made known and the reasons for possible concessions are fully apparent. The delegates of no country will have everything their own way, and difficulties will be made in the course of the conference which will seem impossible of resolution, but which will prove of little moment when the proper formula is found.

The President has already indicated that he does not believe the points raised in advance by the French government will seriously endanger the conference. It is judged, by competent observers, that the French attitude of insistence that the conference reach nothing but a tentative agreement, subject to modification by the general disarmament conference of the League of Nations, is based on the misconception that President Hoover and Premier MacDonald reached an understanding approaching a formal alliance at their recent meeting in Washington and that such understanding threatens France. There must be a means of making clear to France that no such understanding exists or is contemplated; and once France is assured of that fact, her objections are likely to be withdrawn.

In this connection, the announcement that an agreement is in preparation between the principal countries with interests in the Mediterranean Sea is probably of importance. Mutual guarantees between Great Britain, France, Italy and Spain to respect each other's vested interests in that basin should go a long way toward satisfying France, whose desire for security from attack is understandable and hardly open to criticism.

It may be that further reductions in battleship strength, if conceded by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, would provide the remainder of what France wants. France has not built a battleship in sixteen years and her equipment in that respect is hopelessly antiquated. Secretary Stimson recently gave an unfavorable opinion of the plan to abolish battleships altogether, but abolition and reduction are different things.

Such speculations concerning the possible outcome of the conference, however, are futile. The United States enters it with an open mind and a disposition to cut and slash to any extent that the other nations will agree to, willing to listen to and to discuss any offer of concession or compromise that may be made. We have made no alliances, we have no desire for world hegemony. But we have an intense interest in the abolition of war and will bend every effort to that end.

WHAT COAST GUARD IS FOR

The crocodile tears now being shed by wet Congressmen and wet newspapers over the fate of three rum smugglers shot off the Connecticut coast should surprise no one. The incident is being magnified for political purposes in the same manner as other killing of rum-runners resisting arrest in prohibition cases has been magnified.

If these smugglers had been carrying opium, diamonds or any other contraband than liquor, their pursuit by the Coast Guard, and their being fired upon after refusal to heave to, would have been considered a very ordinary occurrence; it would have escaped Congressional attention entirely and would have been dismissed with comparatively little newspaper space. The men aboard the Black Duck had their option; they could have submitted quietly to arrest; they were fully aware that the Coast Guard would shoot if they attempted to run; they kept on and took the consequences.

The functions of the Coast Guard seem to be misunderstood by some, and apparently are being willfully misinterpreted. The Coast Guard is the arm of the government which deals with the suppression of smuggling and other illicit dealings within territorial waters. It is not primarily a prohibition force, though the prevention of rum-running has become one of its important duties. In carrying out its duties it must use whatever force is necessary to see that they are properly performed.

The pursuers would have been properly subject to court-martial and to dismissal from the service if they had let the Black Duck escape under the circumstances, just as a police officer who permits a burglar to escape is subject to discipline.

The only thing the public can ask of the Coast Guard is that it use discretion and know at what it is firing. So long as the target is smugglers, whether of rum or anything else, there ought to be no complaint, there can be no reasonable complaint. Human life ought to be held sacred, of course. But smuggling differs very little from piracy, and the message carried by whistling bullets is about the only message that a self-respecting law-enforcement agency can send to men who flout anything short of it.

Simulated indignation over such occurrences will have very little effect upon thinking people.

PATENT OFFICE DELAYS

Said that the Patent Office is five years behind in its work, due largely to the activities of American inventive genius in lines identified with motors, planes, radios and electricity. Maybe it would be possible for President Hoover to speed up the work or have a fact-finding commission figure out a plan for catching up. A man who craves a patent doesn't want to wait too long for it.

SHORTAGE OF EAGLES

A naturalist sounds warning that the country will soon run out of bald eagles. They are getting mighty scarce and the Alaska supply has been thinned down by reason of the bounty paid for their spurs. But there are a lot of folks who will not worry over any famine in eagles provided they may still behold the bird on our coinage.

WHAT'S THE USE?
By James J. Montague

The giant tortoise, it appears,
Lives oftentime two hundred years.

He's seen two centuries pass by
Yet never did he bat an eye

While bitter wars were fought and won
And continents were overrun.

And never did he gaze aghast
While links were broken with the past,

And steamships scattered smoke and sparks
Along the wake of vanished barks.

For naught to him is ceaseless change
To forms and forces new and strange,

The cables far beneath the tide
May trip him in his ambling stride.

But neither does he know nor care
How such vast serpents happened there.

He lives and eats and sleeps forsooth
As in the days of early youth.

As long as he can creep and swim
The world is all the same to him;

He still is stupid, dull and dense
And lacking in intelligence.

That such a brute should live so long
It seems to me is downright wrong.

While you and I must both pass on
Before a century has gone!

LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey

IN THIS motorized age, it is somewhat cheering to note that 1930 will be known to our 25,000 Japanese as "the year of the horse."

Each year, in the Japanese calendar, is dedicated to some animal, and it may be cheering, also, to those who were hit in the stock market, to learn that 1931 will be the year of the lamb. Only a year to wait, folks, and then you may get your turn.

新報 THE YEAR OF THE HORSE 府羅

In the meantime, this year of the horse, according to the legendary wisdom of Japan, is a year in which one must watch his step, for it will be a year in which the overimpetuous will be tempted to run wild. The recklessness of the runaway horse may make them dangerous to themselves and others. On the other hand, the year of the horse may inspire those who have not been wild enough to dash out and try to win races, to attempt new enterprises and face life with new vigor and courage.

Rafu Shimpo (the Los Angeles Japanese Daily News) imparts all the foregoing information to its readers by means of the "ears," which balance the heading of its English section as The Times motto, "All the news all the time," balances the front-page heading of The Times. The "ears" on Rafu Shimpo are drawings which don't mean much to us benighted Americans, but to students of the historic art of Japan they suggest the horse and his proclivities, his need of restraint as well as his ability to speed, and the records he may make if properly handled. And down at the bottom of the front page, Masao Dodo points the moral thus for the benefit of those who cannot interpret Japanese art:

Horse Year Jubilee

Says Nippon Calendar:

'Tis Horse Year; so beware;
For riding choose a mare;
For wear choose lavender;
And never play with fire;
Keep rein of your desire;
Says Nippon Calendar.

Why L. P. Left Nebraska

Lee: Times headline says "Nebraska Home of Earliest Man." That's true. He was the farmer I used to work for there, and even in winter he got us out of bed before 4 a.m.—L. P.

World Hasn't Changed Much

We have just been checking up, with the aid of our index department, without which we never could get anything straight, and find that up to the time of going to press the home of earliest man has been located in 387 different places.

Gosh! That poor guy's wife must have made him move to every new apartment that tickled her fancy!

The Wilds of Mt. Wilson

We wonder what eastern people, unacquainted with Southern California, think when they read news dispatches telling that three youngsters in the latter teens were "lost for sixty hours in the wilds of Mt. Wilson"—twenty miles from Los Angeles!

They know, most of them, that Mt. Wilson is the site of one of the great observatories of the world; that it seems, viewed from a distance, to overhang the city of Pasadena; that all around it lie populous towns and rich ranches. They know, if they have visited it, that well-marked trails, kept up by forest rangers, lead up it from every side, and that every day hundreds of hikers climb those trails!

It must be very hard for them to realise that within twenty miles of such a great and famous city as Los Angeles, or within ten miles of such a city as Pasadena, such primeval wilds still may be found that three able-bodied people can be lost in them and that hundreds of searchers, led by men familiar with the terrain, cannot find them.

There are few great cities in the world which are so close to unspoiled nature as is Los Angeles.

Vivet

A stone will grow by adding from without
The flinty grains that chance brings to its sides,
Cemented there by time and ocean tides.
And by accretion thus, there is no doubt,
Full many cities pushed their stony sprout
To larger size, but lacked the soul that guides
A living entity. The heart decides
Organic form and vital growth throughout.

This city by Pacific's rugged shore
Grew wondrous great from small, romantic start.
The spirit for the whole spread from the core
All through resulting growth until each part
Should live! Should testify as truth the lore:
"Los Angeles—a city with a heart!"

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

BACK OF HEFLIN
[Baltimore Sun]

When the Democratic State Executive Committee of Alabama barred Senator J. Thomas Heflin from the Democratic primary it was felt, and said, that this action would make a martyr of the baroque statesman and thus react in his favor. This may still prove to be true. But at least the action has had one useful effect. It has forced the Senator's support out into the open, and that support has revealed itself as the Klan in its most familiar mood of stupid, ignorant and bragging intolerance.

Of course, it might very easily be said that no proof was needed of the nature of Heflin's support. The Senator has from time to time shown himself to be a man whose adherents could be drawn only from the ranks which blame the Pope for every untoward occurrence from stock-market crash to Florida hurricane, or which at least find it profits them politically to hold to that view. Nevertheless, it is one thing to know the nature of this support for a fact, another to see it for a fact. Somehow there is always something much more incontrovertible, literal and shocking about the actual image of the Klan and its blighted kith and kin rallying around a man.

SUGGESTED RESOLUTION
[Indianapolis News]

This would indeed be a happy New Year if various organizations, such as the Watch and Ward Society of Boston, would resolve to go out of business—and carry the resolution into effect. This practice of regulating the lives—and the thinking—of some citizens by other citizens is bad both for the regulators and the regulated—and therefore for society as a whole. If we must have—as we must—policemen, they should be public officers, paid by the public, and responsible to the public. When private citizens go into the business of snooping on their neighbors, and telling them what they shall and shall not read or do, we have a condition of things under which the snoopers develop a very offensive self-satisfaction, a smugness which is likely to be even odious.

THE GREAT GEORGES
[New York Evenin Post]

There is touching sentiment in the refusal of Georges Clemenceau's two servants to be servants any longer, now that their master is dead. Both have refused many offers from rich people. Poulain, the valet, says: "When one has served a man like that he can never serve others." Brabant, the chauffeur, has the same opinion. Because of the intimate associations a servant's judgment of his master may be more nearly accurate in some respects than the opinions of friends or admirers. M. Clemenceau was admired and feared during his lifetime. He was seldom, if ever, regarded as a man who could be loved. But the verdict of his two faithful servants may be more nearly that of history than the world now realizes.

PARKING SPACE AT LAST
[Boston Globe]

In the borough of Queens, New York, more than 6000 old automobiles have been abandoned in the streets since April, and now they are to be used by contractors extending the present shore line of the East River at the North Beach Airport, who will dump the cars into fifteen feet of water as a reinforcement for the dirt fill which is being poured into the river at the rate of some 2000 tons a day. Engineers say that more than 10,000 car hulks may be disposed of in this way.

AND SMOKING TOBACCO
[Greenfield Republican]

According to the scientists, gas, dry ice and paper can be made from the cornstalk. And it occurs to us that something might be accomplished, too, in the way of breakfast food and cigarettes.

LETTERS TO The Times

[Name and address of writer must accompany all letters for this column. Letters of a personal nature or involving contentious religious questions are not acceptable.]

Out of a Job

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In my hurrying to and fro, within a radius of fifty miles of Los Angeles, following up rumors of jobs that might be had, I find that I am but one in hundreds of good men in the same fix, just half a jump ahead of the wolf.

For instance, here is a man of family, who came to Los Angeles ten years ago, with some money, which he paid down on a home. He is a good carpenter, cement man, a good automobile and machinery man, willing and eager to work. Notwithstanding, each year sees him a little more in debt, a little worse off, clothes a little shabbier, his house furnishings a little more worn out, until at this time, he finds himself without a job, no funds, credit strained to the limit, no Christmas for the kids, payments on his home delinquent, all his friends in the same plight, too proud to ask for charity and knowing not where to turn for aid.

This condition is typical of many people in and about Los Angeles, due to lack of work. Your vaunted prosperity, where is it? Notwithstanding this present condition, your community-exploitation agencies keep reaching out, seeking more people, still making the same alluring pictures and promises that brought us here. We are willing to work, even to the humblest kind, if need be, to keep our self-respect.

I do not know if you will dare to publish this letter, but if you dare, I am in hopes it may start a discussion that will help to straighten out this condition before it is too late. One thinking man, an employer, said the other day, "Times are hard, but half a loaf is better than none, so I am working all the men I can on half time, thus giving something to twice as many." Perhaps if this scheme were tried by other employers it might help solve the problem, at least temporarily.

Have we any men in Los Angeles big enough to face this situation and work out the solution?

NOT CHARITY, BUT A JOB.

Was Nearly—Nearly Was

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish to call attention to a prevalent error in English, found in the writings of nearly all your staff of reporters. It is that of misplacing an adverbial modifier. Your writers seem to be obsessed with the idea that they must not allow a modifier of a verb to get in between the parts of that verb—they put it either before or after the entire verb. Just illustrate: in yesterday morning's paper your writer says, "Los Angeles nearly was drowned out," etc. This should be "Los Angeles was nearly drowned out."

Not Without Honor

SOUTH GATE, (Cal.) Dec. 31. [To the Editor of The Times:] To appreciate California and especially Los Angeles a person must go on a trip around the world. Having just recently returned from a trip that took us into almost every country white people live, the writer was delightfully surprised to hear the name of California and especially Los Angeles mentioned as the place of miracle. The desire to see Los Angeles, to live here, was expressed by such a multitude of people that anyone living here in Los Angeles, having any grouch or complaint against this marvelous country, would soon get cured of it, if he would take a trip and have foreign people tell him how they would love to see Los Angeles, to live here. And the same applies to Americans not living in Los Angeles. The name Los Angeles has a world fame not for one but for many reasons and is destined for a glorious future.

WHERE CAN I LEARN
Clay Modeling?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

A red glaze, such as is made at only a few commercial places in the country, has just been worked out by an evening student, Walter A. Rosenfeld, in the clay-modeling class at Manual Arts Evening High School, Forty-second and Vermont. The instructor of the class is Mrs. Hazel S. Martin, graduate of the Art Institute in Chicago and for seven years instructor in art in the University of Minnesota. Students in the class have the benefit of this red glaze without charge.

Other work in the class includes slip decoration, which is done with clay mixed with water. Then some students are working on rhythmic masses—dominant mass and rhythmic lines and masses, which are used for door stops, book ends or simply ornaments.

There is no charge to students in this class, and even the kiln work is done free. People of all ages are welcome.

The largest uncultivated tract in England is Dartmoor, which, however, is a favorite setting for the cultivation of fiction mysteries.

THE ENGLISH SPEAKING UNION

BY ALMA WHITAKER

When the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttleton addressed the English-Speaking Union, of which she is one of the founders, she touched upon a point that has occasioned much argument anent the local branch.

The original idea of the union was to encourage friendship and understanding between all English-speaking races and banish old prejudices. For this purpose all English-speaking celebrities visiting any country are entertained by the local branches of the union and are expected to make nice informative speeches designed to improve social relations between these nations. Other methods were to form scholarships and travel funds for the exchange of teachers, writers, all sorts of people in a position to use their wider knowledge of the world to good purpose.

So far, so good, but . . . well, in a general way many local branches, and our own in particular, have become exclusive little aristocratic coteries, who can afford to pay up to $5 for their dinner to meet the visiting nabob. Thus for the most part ordinary everyday people never get a chance to participate. These patrician folk are already en rapport with their kind in other nations, so that no conversations are possible. So, unless the celebrity also speaks at other gatherings, a comparatively very small audience hears his words of wisdom. The dinner given at the Town House last Monday evening totaled a possible 250 . . . at $2.75 a plate . . . which was considered exceptionally economical. Now it's all very well, but the people who can even afford to pay $2.75 a plate are in a marked minority. Likewise they are the type who wear evening dresses and tuxedos . . . which forms a barrier against a more democratic attendance.

The scholarship and travel fund side of the work has not been introduced here yet, although Mrs. Lyttleton's plea to "send us your teachers and stenographers and we will see that they receive hospitality" may start the ball rolling.

In the meantime, there is a good argument for less expensive and exclusive gatherings here, when some distinguished speaker is to be entertained by the English-Speaking Union. If it must be a dinner, $1 should cover the expense. An open meeting in a hall might be even better.

For that matter, the regular meetings of the union should really encompass a wider scope. The city is full of travelers from all the English-speaking countries, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, South Africa, as well as Great Britain. The union should really form a club headquarters for them . . . even, I mean, if they don't happen to be celebrities. Mrs. Lyttleton told us how the few teachers, from quite modest schools, that the English branch has sent over here, return to boost the United States. But ordinarily a respectable but obscure visitor from those far countries can come to Los Angeles, stay at an unstylish hotel, never meet a soul, and return sneering at our famed California hospitality . . . if they don't happen to fall in with some kindly individual with a nice consideration for visiting strangers. Any country seems hateful under those circumstances.

At present our local branch is essentially genteel and exclusive. All its officers are "society." Nor is it possible for the newspapers to fully report the speeches the visiting celebrities deliver . . . at best a brief resume is all that is possible. When Mrs. Sherman Hoyt sent her garden exhibit to England she probably achieved more for improved international relations than a score of meetings of the English-Speaking Union could accomplish on its present lines. If our exclusive patricians passed on their advantage to lesser lights it would help . . . but most of them have no social contacts with the common people . . . so that any conversational enlightenment is restricted to their already informed small circle.

This English-Speaking Union could be such a power . . . but it will have to change its methods a bit to achieve any real influence.

POE IN PARIS

There has long been speculation as to whether the "father of the short story" and the great pioneer in analytical detective fiction, Edgar Allen Poe, ever visited Paris, the scene of some of his best known detective tales, including "The Purloined Letter" and "The Murders in the Rue Morgue." And now documentary evidence has been found that he did visit Paris in 1832 in his twenty-third year, with no more than 300 francs (about $60) a month to support him while there. The evidence is contained in a manuscript recently discovered in Italy, in which the famous Alexander Dumas, its author, gives an account of Poe's visit, discusses his eccentricities and refers to his remarkable "power of divination." Following are brief extracts from a published copy of the Dumas manuscript: "One day a young American presented himself at my house with an introduction from his fellow-countryman, the famous novelist, Fenimore Cooper. Needless to say I welcomed him with open arms. His name was Edgar Poe. From the outset I realized that I had to deal with a remarkable man. Poe had one curious idiosyncrasy; he liked the night better than the day. Indeed his love of darkness amounted to a passion. As soon as the day began to break he sealed up the windows of his room and lit a couple of candles, in which pale illumination he worked, or read or (indulged in) reverie. In our nocturnal rambles I could not help remarking with wonder and admiration (though his rich endowment o. ideas should have prepared me for it) the extraordinary faculty of analysis exhibited by my friend . . . "—[Exchange.

In the old days, before bridge prizes came in style, there was any sale for junk after Christmas.

Noah was the unluckiest of men. The best chance is history to say, "I told you so," and nobody to say it to.

The ideal policeman is one who catches all law violators and never is impudent enough to interfere if you break a traffic law.

Human nature is the same everywhere and a town of 5000 has a few "people who don't" as the back country as "the provinces."

"Your objection to capital punishment doesn't matter in this case," said the judge to the prospective juror. "The defendant is a woman, anyway."

Believe it or not. In Calhoun County, South Carolina, there has been only one murder of a white man by a white man in twenty-two years.

Correct this sentence: "The wife's parents think him a wonder," said the gossip, "but he doesn't talk to them in a schoolteacher tone of voice."

WHY ELEPHANTS WIGGLE EARS

Those who enjoy the elephant's under the big dogs and visit the zoo on holidays have no doubt noticed that most elephants constantly wave their ears. The reason for this apparently unnecessary motion has long been one of nature's mysteries. But now this has yielded to scientific study. The pachyderm wiggles his ears to keep cool. Researches made by Professor Richard Hesse of the University of Berlin, Germany, show that the waving ear provides a thermostat for the elephant's body. The blood circulates through the delicate membrane of their ears and is cooled by the moving air. The faster it is the more rapidly the ear wiggle. Thus the sensitive elephant ear may be said to have the same duty as the panting of a dog, which draws cool air over the plentiful blood supply of the tongue and mouth to take away the excessive body heat.—[Pathfinder.

WHO DICTATES STYLES?

We rather surmise that the stylisters who are credited with telling our women like a lot of them had less to do in the matter than they are credited with. Some of the conflict now being waged into will show whether we guessed right or not, says the Alpha World Herald. Whether modification has been overdone or isn't yet reached its maximum is better judges than we to say. A few inches above or below the knee isn't likely to make much difference to the average American man, but we are betting that the no strong-minded to let any dressmaker hobble her again the point of discomfort. And merchants are apparently not without resistance. A smart Fifth Avenue shop in New York, showing the new designs, is reported to have them all in duplicate in the longer lengths for women who refuse to go back to the long skirts.

Hollywood may bring snow to Arrowhead for movies and shows, but ancient Egypt employed camel trains centuries ago to bring down the mountain snow to make sherbet for the table.

JURY DISMISSED IN BROWN CASE

Unable to Reach Verdict in Extortion Trial

Deadlock at Eight to Four for Guilty Rumored

Retrial of Police Detective Set for 31st Inst.

After being out for more than twenty hours, a jury of six men and six women yesterday reported to Superior Judge Fricke that it was unable to reach a verdict in the case of Edward D. (Rough House) Brown, suspended police detective lieutenant, charged with one count each of bribery and extortion.

Learning there was no hope of the jury reaching a decision, Judge Fricke discharged them from further service and ordered the case set for retrial the 31st inst. It was learned the jury had been deadlocked eight to four for conviction throughout the balloting on Brown's guilt.

Brown is charged with demanding and accepting a bribe of $400 from Harry D. McDonald, asserted bootlegger and racketeer, to refrain from arresting the latter on charges of receiving stolen property and vagrancy.

At the trial of the case, McDonald asserted Brown at first demanded $750 but they later compromised on the sum of $400. Brown denied receiving anything from McDonald, declaring he had told the latter the "town won't be big enough for you if you try any heavy stuff." Brown said he had kept McDonald under observation after receiving a tip that the asserted racketeer was contemplating the organization of a "gang."

The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist. Attys. Dennison and McKay, while Brown was represented by Attorney Nathan O. Freedman.

Last Services Conducted for W. C. Van Horn

Last rites for Walter C. Van Horn, who dropped dead at the Burbank Theater last Sunday night as he took his final bow, were conducted yesterday at 11 a.m. by the Actors' League at the Washington Undertaking Company chapel, 735 West Washington street. Masonic services were conducted at the grave side in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

Van Horn was an actor, producer, theater manager, and was well known by the showmen of Los Angeles. He was a member of the Pacific Coast Showman's Association, the Actors' League and other organizations. He was a Thirty-second Degree Mason. He was 67 years of age. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Bertha Van Horn, 6434 Madden avenue, and four children.

MAN IN THIS CASE FOUND TO BE MAID

Detectives Get Jolt When Bunko Suspect Proves Woman in Male Attire

Veteran detectives, immune to surprises of the most jarring kind, yesterday received a distinct shock when they discovered that a supposed young man, arrested on suspicion of grand theft and bunko, is a woman who has been masquerading in male attire virtually all her life.

The woman is booked as Harold Brown, 23 years of age, of 1802 Fifth avenue. She was taken in custody by Detective Lieutenant Williams of the police bunko detail, who says he has information that she, whom the officer, of course, believed to be a man, posed recently as a Federal narcotic agent and in that guise obtained a sum of money as a loan.

Suspicion, the detective asserts, was directed against one Harold Brown as the result of radio utterances made during two talks over a near-by city broadcasting station. The talks contained allusions to the speaker's power to heal drug users of their addiction.

At Central Station the detectives started to question the "young man." Then it was discovered that "Mr. Brown" was Miss Brown.

Pressed for an explanation of her masquerade, Miss Brown told officers she was born in Overland, Mo., August 6, 1908, her mother being Elizabeth Ann Brown and her father Charles Harold Brown. They died, she said, when she was 5 and she was reared by Mrs. Alta Pearson of 5047 Delmar avenue, St. Louis. From childhood, she stated, she has worn boy's clothing.

On the death of Mrs. Pearson in 1914, Miss Brown said, she started to shift for herself. For several years she sold papers on the streets of St. Louis, later graduating from Soldan High School in that city, and obtaining employment as a junior accountant. Three years ago, she said, she came to Los Angeles and has been working as bookkeeper and accountant for a number of business concerns since her arrival.

Miss Brown was detained in the County Jail pending further investigation of Detective Williams's information.

Youth Arrested for Auto Quiz

Stopped by police for failing to make a boulevard stop yesterday, Burris Dean, 22 years of age, address refused, was booked on suspicion of grand theft of automobile. Officers Gilmore and Webber halted Dean at Pico street and Western avenue and they reported finding in the car he drove 200 pounds of yeast, five gallons of gasoline and a small air compressor.

Suspecting that these supplies were intended for brewing purposes, the officers questioned Dean. They said he had no registry certificate and refused to tell whose car he was driving.

Japanese Official Explains Importance of Play

Secretary Kido Visits City on Tour of World

Nations Growing Friendlier, in His Opinion

"As peoples of the world learn the joy of playing together they will forget the folly of fighting," is the opinion of Marquis K. Kido, Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Industry of Japan, at the Ambassador yesterday.

MARQUIS K. KIDO

"Wars are caused by greed, suspicions, fears and hatreds which may be perfectly natural to jungle creatures, but which should not, and I trust will not long, have any place among enlightened human beings," said Mr. Kido. "Humanity has been too serious minded but the play days of the world are at hand and international sporting events such as your 1932 Olympic Games are destined to play an important part in furthering the friendship of nations. Japanese athletes, by the way, are preparing to 'invade' Los Angeles in 1932 and expect to carry off many of the big prizes."

TOURING WORLD

Mr. Kido, who is a member of the House of Peers of Japan and a graduate of Imperial University, is on a tour of the world with his friend, M. Shoma, studying trade commercial conditions and trade possibilities.

"I am glad to note the increase of friendly relationship between Japan and Pacific Coast countries," said Mr. Kido. "The development of trade relations between Japan and California is especially gratifying. The fact that your ladies are beginning to wear longer dresses means an increase in our sales of silk to America and it means also that Japan will be able to purchase more of your cotton.

AMERICAN GAMES LIKED

"However, play and not trade is the important thing in this new age," said the speaker. "Japan is developing the spirit of play to a remarkable degree and your American games of baseball, football, field sports and golf are becoming increasingly popular. Japan likes your California-made motion pictures, too, especially the funny ones. The Japanese people are great lovers of drama and I think you may expect some fine movie films from Japan in the near future."

Messrs. Kido and Shoma will leave Los Angeles tomorrow for Del Monte to enjoy a game of golf with Japanese and American friends and on the 15th inst. they will sail for Japan from San Francisco on the Asama Maru.

MUNICIPAL PRINT SHOP ADVOCATED

Police Board Takes Step in That Direction to Cut Work of Department

Action toward the creation of a municipal printing bureau in place of the Police Printing Bureau was taken by the Police Commission yesterday when it passed a resolution presented by Commissioner Drake that the president be authorized to select some expert to make a survey with that end in view.

Drake asserted that the Police Printing Bureau, started with one man for the production of the Police Bulletin when it first was put out a number of years ago, now has grown to such a size that 60 per cent of the printing done for other city departments is done by the Police Printing Bureau.

He contended that instead of the police bureau a municipal printing bureau should be established, on the ground that there is no reason why such work should be placed on the shoulders of the police department, requiring the latter to employ a large force of men for such work instead of officers for police duty.

President Thorpe asked where the funds are to come from to employ a man to make such a survey. He is a retired printer himself and may qualify for the survey. Efforts to have the survey made without cost were considered.

Bandit Returns Victim's Papers

W. C. Lubcker, 1534 West Fifty-ninth Place, yesterday was in possession of practically the entire proceeds obtained by a bandit who held him up and robbed him last Thursday morning, he reported to the Sheriff's office.

A billfold containing personal papers, which the robber took with 50 cents from Lubcker's pocket, was returned to him through the mail, he reported.

Lubcker and Mrs. Elsie Butler, 960 West One Hundred and Seventh street, were accosted by the bandit in front of the latter's home early last Thursday, according to a report made at the time.

Pension Review Fund Refused

On recommendation of its Finance Committee, the City Council yesterday refused to appropriate from city funds the sum of $2500 to make a revaluation of the Fire and Police Pension Fund.

The report recommends that the cost of the revaluation be borne by the pension fund itself. It was further recommended that beginning July 1 all salaries and expenses in connection with the fund come from the fund itself.

One of the lovely affairs of recent date was the luncheon with which Mrs. J. W. Hendrick and Mrs. Lewis Curtis Turrance entertained last Saturday at the home of the latter in Pasadena, honoring Mrs. George J. Denis, who with Col. Denis, returned to Los Angeles after an extended sojourn in oriental lands and Europe and are domiciled indefinitely at the Ansonia Apartments in West Sixth street. Mrs. Denis gave a most interesting account of her travels in Indo-China especially stressing the cities of Hue and Haitong and the lovely islands adjoining.

Those included were Mrs. Denis, Mrs. Edmund Burke Holladay, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Henry Norton Ord, Mrs. L. C. Clark, Mrs. Albert M. Stephens, Mrs. W. J. Washburn, Mrs. J. Welch, Mrs. J. S. Chapman, Mrs. Noye Wicks Stephens and the hostesses.

Surprise Birthday Party

Miss Patricia O'Meara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick O'Meara, entertained with a surprise birthday anniversary party in honor of her sister, Miss Katherine O'Meara. Fifty guests responded to invitations and bridge featured the evening's divertisment. A delicious supper was served following the card games. Assisting the hostess were her brothers Carroll, William Jr., Richard and Francis O'Meara.

New Home

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Sepping have purchased the home Cozy Corner in Clarissa avenue, Catalina, and are planning to make Avalon their future home. The home formerly belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Manwaring of South Pasadena.

Luncheon-Bridge

Miss Jeanette Bear and Mrs. Isaac May of New York, who are enjoying a delightful visit in the Southland, entertained a group of friends Monday afternoon at the Mary Louise with a delightful luncheon and bridge. A bowl of snapdragons in vivid shades, and the green crystal service made a most attractive table, around which were seated Mrs. Isidor Heller of New York, Mrs. Paul Prager, Mrs. Lawrence Wolfshon, Mrs. S. Steinfeld, Mrs. Jennie Fry, Mrs. M. Altshul and Mrs. C. Dorner. Bridge followed in the Flower Room. This is the first of a series of affairs planned by these hostesses during their stay in Los Angeles.

Talked From Paris

Among the interesting features of recent date is the charm of talking over long-distance telephone, which was enjoyed by Mrs. Ada Morgan O'Brien here, with her daughter, Justine Morgan O'Brien, in Paris. Miss O'Brien, who is one of California's best known short-story writers, left last September on a tour around the world, sailing by way of the Orient and Philippines. In Manila she was entertained by the Peruvian Consul and she also was entertained in Hongkong. Miss O'Brien, who is gathering material for her stories, flew from Paris to England to visit relatives over the holidays. She will return to the United States next Saturday but is planning to visit in Washington, D. C., before coming to Southern California.

Announce Betrothal

Formal announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wolff of Champagne, Ill., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lenore Wolff, to Walter Irving Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Livingston of the Gaylord in Wilshire Boulevard. They will be at home to their many friends, Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the Gaylord.

Formal Dance

Honoring Zeta chapter at the University of California at Los Angeles, members of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority entertained with a formal dance last Saturday night at the Sir Francis Drake in South Serrano avenue.

Miss Helen Pollock, president of the pledges, headed the receiving line. Acting as a committee on arrangements were her sister pledges, the Misses Eleanor Ball, Pearl Dyer, Annette Elkin, Elaine Osterman, Hazel Lande and Marcella Ravitch.

Sunday afternoon is the occasion for an informal bridge tea at the home of the Misses Rebecca and Mollie Steinberg of Pasadena when the sorority will entertain a small coterie of friends.

Miss Henrietta Morris of Pasadena is chairman of the festivity, the Misses Dorothy and Jeannette Zeitlin of Glendale assisting her.

Engagement Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Steinberg of Pasadena have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rebecca Steinberg, to Harry Cohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cohn of Los Angeles. No date has been set for the wedding, although June has been suggested tentatively.

Miss Steinberg is affiliated with Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority, and was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles. In the past she has served both as president of the active and of the alumnae chapters.

A group of Miss Steinberg's most intimate friends learned of her engagement last week when she entertained with a bridge tea at her Pasadena home. Miss Rebecca was assisted by her two sisters, the Misses Mollie and Lillian Steinberg.

Interesting Wedding

The marriage of Miss Janet Hathaway Smith, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jordan Smith (Sarah Bixby) of 4800 Los Feliz Boulevard, to Michel Pijoan, son of Prof. Joseph Pijoan of Claremont, is scheduled for February 6 and will be a charming quiet ceremony at the family home.

Miss Smith is an accomplished musician and has studied for several years at University of California at Los Angeles, where she is affiliated with Alpha Kappa Theta Sorority.

Her fiance's alma mater is Pomona College. After the wedding he will take his bride abroad, where they are planning to remain for several years studying.

Mrs. Dean D. Francis

MRS. DEAN D. FRANCIS, eldest daughter of Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commander-in-chief of the Battle Fleet, and her two children, Richard Nulton Francis and Dorothy Dairymple, are holiday visitors of the Nultons at their apartments in the Virginia, Long Beach. Christmas Day Admiral Nulton entertained with an elaborate dinner in his cabin aboard the flagship California, followed by the christening of his young grandson, Richard Nulton Francis. A charming feature was the presence at the dinner and christening of four generations. The christening was performed by Fleet Chaplain Leroy N. Taylor, who is a member of the Admiral's staff.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

THE ENEMA

An exceedingly curious story of the origin of the enema is told by Pliny, who states that the use of clysters or enemas was first taught to man by the stork, which used its long beak to get water into its bowels, finding itself forced to do this since the food upon which it lived was very constipating. Whether this story is true or not, it is fairly well known that the enema was known and used by the ancient Egyptians.

The enema as we know it today is supposed to have been invented by a man named Gatenaris, an Italian who lived about the time Columbus discovered America in 1492. Louis XIII is said to have had as many as 220 enemas given him within a period of six months by his physician, Bouvard. During the reign of Louis XIV the enema became very fashionable and the court ladies are said to have taken from three to four a day, having found out that this kept their skins rosy and clear. They did not use the plain enema that we use today, however, but perfumed the water with bergamot, rose, angelica and orange.

The enema is rightly classed by doctors as being the most valuable single remedy to use in both acute and chronic diseases. Often severe symptoms will abate immediately when the enema alone is used. It is a valuable method of quickly relieving the lower bowel of its content without irritating the stomach and small intestine.

In taking an enema it should not be taken in such large amounts as to distend the bowel nor should it be hot enough to relax the intestinal muscles. Tepid enemas of one or two quarts are the most satisfactory. The best time to take them is in the early morning or just before going to bed. However, in cases of food poisoning, indigestion or practically any other trouble with the digestive tract, the enema may be used at any time and brings almost immediate relief. In cases of constipation of long standing where the muscles of the lower colon have become stretched it is a good plan to use the enema to bring about a speedy expulsion of the fecal contents so that the intestinal muscles have a chance to shrink to their normal size.

Whenever the intestinal contents remain for an excessive period of time there is no doubt that poisonous putrefactive products may be generated in the colon. Also, the weight of a large amount of feces in the lower colon presses on the delicate membranes of this region and often produces reflex pain and headaches by the pressure alone. The enema is the best and safest method as well as the most direct method of correcting this condition.

Patients who are habitually constipated are often surprised to note the quantity of material which the enema brings forth and often recognize the residue of food substances which have been eaten as long as a week before. Often patients on a fruit juice fast where there is very little pulp intake will nevertheless be surprised to find that the enemas continue to cause the expulsion of large amounts of residue. Sometimes it is advisable to repeat several enemas immediately after one another. The third or fourth enema will sometimes bring about better results than the first or second and if your enema does not succeed the first time try administering additional quantities of water.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

SALMON PUDDING

One medium-sized can of salmon, one tablespoonful of butter, one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of hot milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a seasoning of paprika, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, three tablespoonfuls of finely chopped pimiento, two eggs, drain the salmon, remove the skin and bones, place the meat in a bowl, and rub it to a paste with a potato masher, place the butter in a saucepan, add the milk, bread crumbs, seasonings, and parsley to it, allow to just heat through, combine with the fish, and lastly add the well-beaten eggs, and pimientoes, butter a baking dish, pour the mixture into it, set in a pan of hot water, cover tightly, and allow to bake, removing the cover for the last few minutes to allow to brown slightly. Serve with the following sauce.

SAUCE

One tablespoonful of butter, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of milk, the liquid from the salmon, a seasoning of salt, and a few grains of cayenne pepper, melt the butter, add the flour, and slowly pour over the hot milk, then add the salmon liquid, and seasonings, and if liked, three tablespoonfuls of capers.

CHEESE BISCUITS

Two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of butter, from three-fourths to one cupful of milk, three-quarters of a cupful of finely grated cheese, sift the dry ingredients together, chop the butter into the flour, gradually stir in the milk, and add the grated cheese, roll out on a board, about one-half an inch thick, cut into rounds, place in an oiled pan, and bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS AND CHESTNUTS

One pound of brussel sprouts, one pound of chestnuts, one-third of a cupful of butter, clean the sprouts, cut off the outside leaves, and boil until tender, place the chestnuts in a saucepan, cover with cold water, bring to the boiling point, and boil for five minutes, then remove the shells and brown skins, cut the brussel sprouts in half, place them in a well-oiled baking dish, season with salt and paprika, then add a layer of the sliced chestnuts, dot with bits of butter, and continue in this way until all have been used, then add a third of a cupful of water place in the oven, and bake for thirty minutes.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

AVIATRICES JOIN CLUB OF WOMEN

Mother Past 80 Years of Age Also New Member

Aeronautical Association in Biltmore Session

Other Distinguished Guests Likewise Introduced

BY MYRA NYE

A significant contrast was presented yesterday at the meeting of the Women's Aeronautical Association when three new members, all pilots, 16, 17 and 18 years of age, and a woman of fourscore years who came across the plains in an ox cart, were introduced. The three girls are Consuelo Willard Seymour, recently from Guatemala City, where she was born, now of Los Angeles; Melba Gorby of Pasadena, and Virginia Blume of Long Beach. The octogenarian is Mrs. E. C. Emmons, mother of Stella Bryant, one of the founders of the club.

Mrs. Dora Stearns, who is chief executive of the thriving modern organization numbering 300 air-minded women, presided at the meeting conducted in the Biltmore, and introduced other distinguished guests. Among them were Col. and Mrs. W. E. Eastwood of Dallas, Tex., the former chief speaker of the luncheon hour; Miss Bobbie Trout, Mrs. M. E. Ridenour, chairman of the division of pilots who presented the young pilots, and C. H. Moore, a Seattle aviator, who was associated with Joe and Marvel Crosson in promoting a flight to Alaska.

DELIGHTFUL FEATURE

To art lovers of Los Angeles, a delightful feature and a matter of pride to California was the presentation by two California women of a program featuring the premiere of "Starbound," a scintillating song of the air indicating the influence of aviation upon art in its brevity and directness. It was composed by Emels Wendel, who accompanied Esther Thiselton-Walker at the piano.

The first public performance of this original composition created a small sensation. The music had the sweep, breadth and deep rhythm suggested by vast airpaths traveled by daring men and women aboard airships. Miss Thiselton-Walker, a soprano from Riverside, also was accompanied by a clarinet obbligato played by Vincent Donatelli. The prologuist who read the lines interpolating the music, was Ben Mier Helph.

Col. Eastwood, who is stopping at the Biltmore en route from Honolulu to Dallas, announced that there soon will be another trans-Pacific flight to Honolulu and later to Hongkong.

AS TO SEA FLIGHTS

"Ocean flights mean as much to the United States government as to any other country," said Col. Eastwood, who said that England had placed in a London bank £500 for a flight from London to New York; France an equivalent of $25,000 in a Paris bank for a flight from Paris to New York; Berlin, a similar sum for a German flight to the United States; Mexico City to Spain, and in a seattle bank is a sum of money for a flight from that city to Tokio.

Among several other organizations meeting at the Biltmore at the same hour were: The Shubert-Wa Wan Club, Mrs. Ralph Waldo Bucknam, president; the Matinee Musical Club, Mrs. Mae Shuman Enderly, president, and featuring a musical program by Mrs. Guy Bush, and the League of Women Voters, presided over by Mrs. Frances Noel.

At the latter meeting D. M. Kitzmiller, deputy City Attorney, spoke in behalf of the new city department devoted to forestry or the uniform planting of trees on the streets of Los Angeles.

The speaker said that the law as it now stands empowers the park department to aid the forestry department. This they refer the City Charter by amendment is priation for carrying on the work of city tree planting. A change in the city charter by amendment is necessary to make the work of the latter department effective, he said.

Bride Honored

In compliment to Mrs. E. S. Cooper Hunt, a charter member and past president of the Reciprocity Club, whose marriage was an event of the Christmas holidays, a musical program was given yesterday by the organization, following luncheon in the Windsor Tea Room. Mrs. Arthur J. Kerr presided.

The program comprising a group of such favorite love songs as "Oh, Promise Me," and "Love's Old Sweet Song," was given by Gertrude Brick, who sang overseas during the World War. She also sang a Russian number, "Over the Steppes," and Mrs. Blanche Springer Gibson, concert pianist, played two of her original compositions, "The Nightingale," a Chinese serenade, and "We Two."

Following an after-luncheon lecture given by Mrs. W. W. Green, past State president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, a reception honoring Mrs. Hunt took place.

Husbands Included

La Camarada Club members will entertain their husbands or escorts at the Los Angeles Country Club, tomorrow evening. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m., after which the evening will be devoted to cards, dancing and games.

Canadian Women's Club

Presenting as guest speakers Miss Pauline Curzon, first vice-commander of the Canadian Legion post in the Peace River country, Canada, which she was instrumental in establishing, and Dr. Frederick Roman, the Canadian Women's Club will give its monthly luncheon at 1 p.m. today in the Arcady. Mrs. J. C. McIver will preside.

Canadian and British visitors in the Southland are invited.

The New in Stores & Homes

Novelties, Ideas, and Suggestions

By OLIVE GRAY

The glorious rain! In addition to affording opportunity for disporting our new raintogs, opens the season for planting trees, shrubs and bulbs. Even though you may have room in your grounds for but a single tree, plant your favorite fruit, and you will reap many-fold in satisfaction. It is to marvel, the amount that may be yielded by a single, well-cared-for tree. I know of one little Damson which has filled the shelves of the jam closet with delicious jam, jelly and conserves year after year since the season of its planting. And, whether it be imagination or fact, the product of one's own garden seems more flavorful than any other.

Our Own

And, after perusing carefully many foreign catalogues filled with offerings, both tried and novel, investigation will prove that our own florists and seedsmen, nurserymen and agriculturists possess the latest and best of all kinds. Prices here are naturally less than in the East where cold weather requires much expenditure for fuel and protection. Also, let us not forget that our climatic conditions are better understood by our own producers, and hence that which we plant is more likely to thrive, when from native stock. California for California products, every time! And now is the time to plant!

I Wonder If—

I wonder how much we are influenced by the appearance of the figurines in store windows? Clothes displayed upon these inanimates attract us and perhaps, unconsciously, we envision ourselves with their appearance. If so, how inane must become the modish expression, with mere slits for eyes, features quite flat and devoid of thought—the new ultramodernistic art in figurines. I have wondered, heretofore, if we would, ultimately, powder black, in their similitude; and now, again I wonder if we shall gild our fingernails, following the figurine fashion in fingertips?

My Money

"What fun it is to spend our own Christmas money!" exclaimed Editha as she chose article after article, from a store where post-holiday offerings are rife.

"There were just dozens of things which I hoped for, as I did my Christmas-gift buying, and now I am fairly orgying in buying them! There's double satisfaction, too, in buying now; since I find them for about half what they would have cost on December 24." Her handbags and baskets were as full as on any pre-Christmas shopping tour, and she displayed her treasures pridefully. "My own money!" she exclaimed. "How much more it really buys, than does budget money," and she patted her giftrove and smiled happily.

An Accommodating Season

Another friend is congratulating herself that she deferred purchase of her winter coats, until after Christmas. "The reward of merit," she calls her good fortune. "You see," said she, as I met her on a shopping trip, in one of the larger stores, "I was unselfish in that I expended all my allowance, in gifts for others, putting off my personal wardrobe until after the holidays; and now I can fill all my winter wants, for half or less than half, the pretholiday cost. And," she added, "how kind our season has been, in holding off winter until these sales are on!"

The Lavender Man

I like the sweet garden odor, as one passes the "lavender man," on the downtown sidewalk; and—when Aunt Jane asked us to find the delightful herb, to place in her Christmas packages, I regretted that we had not patronized him more frequently; for it seemed that he had moved away—discouraged, as I feared. But he was at last discovered, and the lavender secured. Aunt Jane, in addition to placing the odoriferous flowers in her gift-packages, sometimes places a tiny bag of them under our pillows; and she always keeps them among the sheets and pillow cases—an old-fashioned custom which we all like.

House-Made Ones

The pajamas—for lounging—sometimes are rather too thin for comfort; but Angela has a way. Her new, winter ones, are made at home, from a lovely flowered cretonne, bright against a black background, making for long wear without laundering. Then, she lined the jacket with French flannel, in the rosy tint of the predominant flowers, and from the same material fashioned the blouse, which peeps from out the front of the coat. Thus, she has a suit warmly cosy and at the same time long-wearable.

"The Machine Age"

In a recent article, in a leading magazine, a celebrated author tackles and slays the ogre of the "Machine Ages," declaring that from earliest times there has been a "machine age"—since the days, when our forebears spun and wove, did all the baking at home, allowing small, if any, leisure for cultural development. The present "machine age," he points out, is for the liberation of women, rather than for enslavement, as formerly, and he predicts that the mechanical period now in effect, is in reality the dawn of an age when women will use their leisure—the gift of mechanical labor devices, for the purpose of raising to unguessed heights the level of education and development for the entire human race. This optimistic view is one well worthy of study with a view to profiting by this outlook, rather than reveling in discouragement. The right use of the leisure bestowed upon women, by the mechanical labor saving, is a question to be earnestly studied.

Food for Beauty Cleaning

An ambitious statistician has discovered that the average woman collects six cupfuls of dirt on her face each year. If all this refuse deposit could be collected at one time, how well we would realize the need for creams and even for brooms and dustpans, to cleanse the visage!

The Cold Radiator

If the radiator is cool even when the furnace is burning hard, there is more than likely some air in it. Turn the valve with a radiator key and hold a cup over the valve. Let it stay on until water comes through, then turf off. The radiator must be full of water and contain no air to do its full duty.

Accumulated Soot

If you suspect the chimney to be clogged a bit with soot, place a piece of zinc on the hot coals in the kitchen stove or furnace. The vapors arising from this will carry off the soot by chemical decomposition.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Keep Their Bobby Clean

Soak colored handkerchiefs in cold water to which one teaspoonful of turpentine has been added to allow them to soak for ten minutes. Then wash in the usual manner. This will prevent the dye from running or fading.

Dull Brass

If the brass bed is beginning to show its age and is dull and tarnished, polish it with a good brass polish. Then go over it with brass lacquer using a fine camel hair brush. Let dry thoroughly before using the bed.

Plenty of Room

When buying pillow or bolster slips, be sure to buy plenty of room. If the pillow has to be forced into its casing it will soon wear out the casing, besides making a hard and uncomfortable pillow.

Once FAT but now SLENDER

You see them daily Ask them why

THIS is to the many slender people who have learned the right way to fight fat. Tell your friends about the method, as someone will, perhaps. It will mean a happiness which no friend denies.

Science has found that common cause of obesity is an under-active gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. When down, too much food goes to fat. Modern physicians combat overweight by restoring the lacking substance.

That is what Marmola does. Its medical laboratory prepares it so that all may easily obtain the right way at small cost. A prescription states the formula and many good results.

Marmola has for 22 years been a remedy, held the top place in public esteem. Millions of boxes have been sold. Many have come in this way to regain youth and beauty, now rejoicing. Others have come in this way to keep their figure circle one can now see how well it prevails.

Now we ask those who have used Marmola to tell others. Ask them to try it. Tell them how quickly it watches results. Tell them that dieting is not necessary, not safe, when Marmola is the right way. Urge them to end overweight the right way.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by druggists all druggists at $1 a box. If your druggist will not supply you, tell us and we will promptly see that you are supplied.

CHATTERER IS LATE

The beautiful are quite apt to find
A limber tongue doth dull the mind.
—Old Mother Nature

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was very much pleased with himself. He had outwitted Farmer Brown's Boy—not once or twice—but several times. He was having a lot of fun.

"Farmer Brown's Boy may be smart, but I am smarter," boasted Chatterer to himself. "I wonder why he should have thought he could catch me in that trap. He knows well enough that I know all about traps of that kind. I suppose he thought I would have forgotten. If he thinks he can keep me out of that cornerib he is mistaken—greatly mistaken."

Of course, Farmer Brown's Boy soon discovered that he couldn't catch Chatterer. So then he decided to try another plan. He would find out how Chatterer got into that cornerib and then stop him. So he began getting up a little earlier in the morning in order to watch, but for several days he didn't get up early enough. Then came a morning when Chatterer overslept. Usually he was over at the cornerib at the very beginning of daylight. Usually the Black Shadows had not yet wholly disappeared when Chatterer started for that cornerib. This morning it was broad daylight.

"I don't know whether to go over there or not," thought Chatterer. "Of course, I don't have to. I've got plenty to eat. I suppose it wouldn't do me any harm to keep away from there for one day."

He had just about made up his mind that this is what he would do, but foolishly ran over to Farmer Brown's dooryard. There were no signs of anybody about. No one was up in Farmer Brown's house. At least, that is what Chatterer thought. He looked over at the clothes post, from which a clothesline led over to a corner of the cornerib. That was his bridge, you know. It was by means of this clothesline that he reached the cornerib. He just couldn't resist the temptation. He darted across the yard, climbed the clothespost and scampered along the clothesline over to the cornerib.

Now, it so happened that Farmer Brown's Boy was getting up a little extra early that morning. He looked out of the window just as Chatterer was halfway across the clothesline. He saw Chatterer and instantly he understood how it was that Chatterer could get into the cornerib. He chuckled aloud.

"So that's the way you do it, you scamp!" he exclaimed.

"So that's the way you do it, you scamp!" he exclaimed. "I guess you deserve all the corn you've had. It certainly was stupid of me not to think of that clothesline. Here I've looked at it every day and never once thought that you might be using it for a bridge. Well, you'd better make the most of today, for tomorrow morning there'll be no bridge there. I certainly am glad to have solved the mystery of how you were getting into that cornerib. Like most mysteries, it is no mystery at all now that I understand it."

Meanwhile Chatterer was busily at work inside the cornerib, without the least suspicion that his secret had been found out. So when later Farmer Brown's Boy came to get the corn to feed the hens, Chatterer watched him from a hiding-place and his eyes snapped and he was filled with satisfaction because he was so smart and was fooling Farmer Brown's Boy. He didn't even wonder what it was that Farmer Brown's Boy was chuckling about.

First Call for Succor Sent Twenty-nine Years Ago

The Times Forum, KHJ, 10:30 a.m., Fred Hogue, staff writer, second talk on "The Mexican Revolution." World-wide News, 12:30, 4:30 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

The first call for succor was sent out by radio over the sea twenty-nine years ago on January 1, 1901, when the bark Medora was reported by wireless as waterlogged and in need of assistance. Since then the radio call of distress, first "CQD" and now "SOS," has been thrown out over the water many times and has been directly responsible for the saving of countless thousands of lives. The sounding of the call and its result here become so commonplace that only in exceptional instances do such stories attain front-page prominence.

"CQD" OF THE REPUBLIC

The Medora call was not directly responsible for the saving of life, but eight years later, on January 23, 1909, the American public was electrified by newspaper dispatches that the steamers Republic and Florida had collided off the Atlantic Coast and that a "CQD" sent out by Jack Binns, radio operator on the former, had brought assistance to the damaged vessels and resulted in the rescue of many people. The collision occurred off Nantucket Lightship during a heavy fog and the Republic, belonging to the White Star Line, went down. Radio, however, had performed its first miracle and although there were several hundred aboard the vessel only six were lost.

In 1913, the steamship Volturno was wrecked by fire and explosion in midocean, but only 135 of the 656 persons on board were lost. And during the ensuing years radio, now compulsory on all passenger vessels of most of the maritime nations, time and time again has proved its value. One of the most recent disasters in which it played a part was the sinking of the British vessel Vestris in November, 1928.

RADIO FEATURES

Almost any dial tuning at 8 o'clock this morning will bring in the celebration to be held at the Breakfast Club from 8 to 10 by the Radio and Music Trades Association of Southern California in honor of the metropolitan newspapers. Twelve stations in all will broadcast the program and KFI is omitted only because of a contract with the National Broadcasting Company, which could not be set aside.

KHJ at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon will bring from New York the last scene from "The Inheritor," now being played at Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theater. In the cast will be Josephine Hutchinson, Robert Ross and Donald Cameron. At 7 o'clock tonight KHJ brings Lois Bennett and John Barclay, singers, in Jerome Kern's charming operetta, "Lamplight." William Artz, conductor of the old Waldorf-Astoria Orchestra, will wield the baton. Following this the Sierra Symphonists, with June Parker, Charlie Wellman and other KHJ favorites, will put on a fast, popular program. From 9:30 to 10 p.m. an excellent dance program with specialties will be presented. Last night Peggy Hamilton entertained at her home, 827 South Crenshaw Boulevard, the winners in a recent contest which was conducted over The Times forum hour.

PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

KFI, for the first time this year, will present the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Artur Rodzinski, at 7:30 tonight in an excellent selection of compositions by Rossini, Mozart and Rimsky-Korsakoff. A unique feature of this symphony hour will be its close alliance with the elementary and advanced symphony lesson, to be given at 11 o'clock this morning over the same station. At 8:30 tonight Arthur Lang, baritone, will be the guest artist of a concert ensemble. From 6 to 7 p.m. the rhythmic beat of tom-toms and tropical beauty of jungles will be pictured in music when the Selbering Singers entertain.

KNX Ensemble and Country Jane will entertain with an hour of music and song at 6 o'clock, while at 7:30 tonight June Pursell, Joe Bishop and Bill Hatch will provide a half-hour of musical interest. The ensemble and KNX Rounders will present a program of fireside songs at 9 p.m., featuring such songs as "Old Dog Tray," "Kathleen Mavourneen," etc.

COMIC STRIP ON AIR

KFWB brings on the comic strip of Cecil and Sally at 12 noon, while from 2 to 3:30 this afternoon the KFWB String Ensemble will play classic selections. At 9 p.m. "The Adventures of Simple Slim" will be the offering of KFWB, to be followed at 8:30 tonight with Bert Butterworth and his circus.

KMTR will experiment with electrical transcription programs with the presentation of "Reveries of a Romantic Bachelor" at 7 tonight. Many old-time song numbers will enhance the value of this musical offering. At 8 p.m. a half-hour of songs from Scotland will be featured.

KTM announces two short one-act plays between 9 and 10:30 tonight, "Through the Window" and "A Court Comedy." Flora Finch, John Bunny's old-time film mate, will have a part in "Through the Window."

AUERSWALD SEEKS SISTER

Mrs. C. Auerswald of Palo Alto has written to The Times in the hope of attracting the attention of her husband's sister, whom she says Auerswald has not seen since the two were children. The missing woman is believed to be in Los Angeles, but it is not known whether she ever married. Mrs. Auerswald's address is Box 32-M, R.F.D., Palo Alto.

LAND FRAGMENTS PURCHASE FAVORED

The City Council yesterday adopted a report recommending that proceedings be instituted looking toward the acquisition of two slivers of land, or islands, which will be left when the new route of Eighth street is cut through. These islands are at Valencia street and Lorraine Boulevard. They will cost $17,500. The remainder of the city's allocation, or $206,585, is to be applied toward the paving and improving of the artery. The report recommended no further action toward acquiring a third island, at Western avenue, which will be formed.

DANCER CLAIMS ESTATE OF CAR CRASH VICTIM

Grace Lee, stage dancer, appeared in Superior Judge Hollzer's court yesterday and claimed the $3000 estate of George E. Strong, broker, killed in an automobile accident near San Diego. According to Attorney Milton Golden, who represents Mrs. Strong, the widow will use her money to continue her dancing.

It is a general characteristic of a mother to feel certain that her child isn't eating any food at all. Such a condition could not exist long without the child's starving to death, so one has to shake one's sense of humor and assure oneself that a happy, active youngster, who shows no signs of illness is certainly getting enough to eat even if that "enough" seems like nothing at all to his mother. Mrs. A. H. says:

"I think you write such interesting articles and I am going to unload my troubles on you. My boy is going on 3 years of age. He weighs thirty-four and one-half pounds with his coat on and doesn't look thin. He has never had any illnesses outside of a few colds. But he has no appetite whatsoever. He could go for weeks and weeks without food and never ask for a thing to eat. (I sincerely doubt it, Mrs. A. H.) Up until last year he ate fairly well, but since, he won't look at food. I worry, too, but it does no good.

"All he likes on is twenty-four ounces of milk a day. He doesn't act sick and he isn't still a minute. He sleeps three hours in the afternoon and eleven hours at night. He drinks lots of water. Do you think from the contents of this letter that he seems sickly?"

CHECK UP ON BETWEEN-MEAL SNATCHES

Far from it. In fact, one couldn't ask for a child to conform any more nearly to normal standards of weight and health habits in general. I am certain that even if he doesn't eat well at meal times, that he is getting a bite here and there that counts up in a way you are ignoring. It wouldn't be possible for a thirty-four and one-half-pound child to live on just twenty-four ounces of milk a day and not show such large and constant losses of weight each week that you would know without a doubt that he was badly fed. So you see he just must be getting food you are not accounting for. If you watch each mouthful he consumes daily you'll understand how he is doing it, without appearing to get hungry enough to ask for food.

Obviously he must be piecing constantly. Perhaps you are helping him do this and excusing yourself on the plea that he has to have something to eat. The trouble is that under those circumstances you never give him a chance to develop an appetite. Hunger arises when the stomach is empty. A piece of cookie, a morsel of bread and jelly, quantities of water just before meal time, all keep the stomach from ever being empty and setting up that "gnawing" feeling which we interpret as hunger.

Maintain at least a four-hour period between every meal and do not permit one bite of food during that time. Water may be given up to an hour before a meal. Give the boy his meals at a small table, small portions attractively served, and don't watch him eat. Give him solid food first and the milk after the plate is empty. If he fails to eat, excuse him from the table and repeat the performance—no food, no talk about it, until the next regular meal time. Don't urge him to eat. Don't plead with or reward him for eating or show your concern about his not eating. He'll soon discover that unless he wants to be distressingly hungry he had better hustle and eat when food is before him. Are you strong enough to do this?

DEATH OF NAVAL FLYERS QUIZZED

Authorities Begin Inquiry on Amphibian Crash

Examination of Wreck Yields Little Data on Cause

Body of One Victim Will be Interred at Arlington

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 8.—Investigation of a crash of a North Island amphibian plane at the lower end of the bay yesterday afternoon, which claimed the lives of Lieut. Eugene Field Burkett, 33 years of age, Coronado, and Ensign John DeWitt Clark, 24, of this city, was being carried on today by naval authorities here. Burkett and Clark were killed almost instantly, and the plane was demolished after it fell 1500 feet and landed in the shallow waters of San Diego Bay near the Santa Fe Railway shops at National City.

The cause of the crash has not been determined, according to authorities, who declare that the plane is so badly wrecked that examination of it in an attempt to determine why it fell reveals but little. The crash was witnessed by three Santa Fe workmen, who were the first to reach the crumpled plane and extricated the flyers. Both were dead.

Burkett and Clark were attached to Squadron V-J of the aircraft squadrons, United States battle fleet. Each was married. Arrangements are being made to forward Burkett's body to the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., for interment. Burial arrangements for Clark have not been announced.

Perris Chamber Opposes Change in Justice Court

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 8.—Asserting that a consolidation of the Perris Justice Court district with other townships will work a hardship upon the residents of the valley in that they will be compelled to travel long distances to the court, the Perris Valley Chamber of Commerce today filed a written protest against the grand jury's proposal for combining of several west-end townships into one with its headquarters at Elsinore.

As an alternative, the chamber urges that the expansive territory covered by the Perris Township Court could be enlarged to embrace the surrounding districts with their court seat in Perris. The supervisors' attention was called in the communication to the fact that the court last year collected approximately $1950 in fines and fees. The township at present extends from Box Springs on the west to Moreno and Winchester.

Because no definite action has been taken on the grand jury recommendation, the supervisors filed the letter for reference at the time the matter comes up for a hearing. The board is known to favor a consolidation of the townships but to what extent this will be carried out has not been determined.

Girl Leaves Her Home; Returns for Her Clothes

GLENDALE, Jan. 8.—Nina Pierce, 19-year-old Glendale Junior College student, who disappeared from her home at 606-A East Palmer street on Monday, came back again early this morning to obtain the clothes that she had left behind when she vanished, her mother reported to the police.

The girl is reported to have found employment by which she hopes to make her own way in the world. Mrs. Mary Burtch, her foster mother, stated, but an effort will be made to persuade her to give up her work and return to her classes in the college.

Authorities at the junior college state that the girl's grades were average, but that she had been forced to drop her Spanish classes because her afternoon employment interfered with her studies.

UPLAND SCOUTS TO PLANT DEODAR TREE

UPLAND, Jan. 8.—An impressive ceremony is proposed for Saturday at 11 a.m. by Boy Scout troops of the Upland district, under the leadership of Lex R. Lucas, Chaffey district Scout executive.

The first of what is supposed will be a long line of living deodars will be planted in the parkway of Euclid avenue just north of the statue, "The Madonna of the Trail," at Foothill Boulevard and Euclid avenue.

The Scouts hope to plant several other trees in future, until they extend to the foothills. The tree to be planted Saturday was purchased by popular subscription started by Homer Torrence of Ontario.

AUTO MISHAP HURTS FATAL

REDLANDS, Jan. 8.—Mrs. Glen Hadley of Cypress Park died this morning of injuries received last night on the Mill Creek Road, when a sedan driven by Mr. Hadley turned over three times on a sharp turn. He was not badly hurt. Wayner Saunder, James Cooper and Miss eGrtrude Helding were all in the car, but none were seriously injured.

PLANNING ADVISER NAMED

REDONDO BEACH, Jan. 8.—Hugh R. Pomeroy of Los Angeles has been retained by the City Planning Commission to work in advisory capacity on the master zoning plan now under consideration. The salary fixed by the City Council will be $100 per month.

COLLEGE CHAIRS ENDOWED

President Announces Gifts, Some for Financing Courses in Institution and Others for Scholarships

CLAREMONT, Jan. 8.—Additional endowment for chairs in Pomona College was announced today at convocation by President Charles K. Edmunds, who reported the generosity of Mrs. Florence P. Halstead, the daughter of Henry Kirke White Bent, the first president of the board of trustees, whose name is given to one of these chairs while the other commemorates Mrs. Halstead's deceased husband. Mrs. Halstead, who founded these chairs some years ago, has recently given to Pomona College a valuable tract of land in Artesia consisting of 126 acres, the proceeds from the sale of which will be applied to additional endowment of these two departments.

President Edmunds also announced that through the generosity of the late Henry E. Storrs, Ph.D., of Los Angeles, two open competitive scholarships for men had been established, of $500 each, first awards of which will be made for the next academic year. Dr. Storrs was a graduate of Amherst College and later took the degree of doctor of philosophy at the university of Goettingen. After teaching chemistry for twenty-five years at the University of Illinois, he came to California in the year that Pomona College began its work. He became a charter member of the Congregational Church of Los Angeles. Fortunate investments in real estate yielded him a fortune, which some years ago he distributed with discriminating care, reserving only the income to provide for the simple wants of himself and his aged sister, who died last November. Dr. Storrs himself died in May at the age of 87 years.

The appointment of three additional members to the board of trustees was also announced. One of these is Mrs. Warren Olney, wife of Judge Warren Olney, Jr., of Berkeley, graduate of the University of California, who in the year '26-'29 was dean of women at Pomona College, and has for many years served the National Y.W.C.A., having, in fact, been president of the national association for one term. Another appointee is Robert J. Wig of South Pasadena, graduate of the Lewis Institute of Technology, Chicago, 1907, who, after some years of service with the National Geological survey and the Bureau of Standards in Washington, was associated with the Shipping Board during the war. For the last ten years he has been a consulting engineer in Southern California. His daughter Helen is a member of the present sophomore class.

By action of the board of trustees at their last meeting the president of the Alumni Association has been made an ex-officio member of the board of trustees. This office is at present held by Charles E. Bent of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Frankish in Another Defeat

ONTARIO, Jan. 8.—Another legal setback was on the books of San Bernardino County Superior Court today, against Mrs. Sari B. Frankish, estranged wife of Charles Frankish, local pioneer whose whereabouts are not known to the public.

Mrs. Frankish has made a long, stubborn fight to gain the deeds to the Frankish homestead, one of the landmarks here, and six lots. She has been denied title to the property, not only by Superior Judge Charles L. Allison, but also in an opinion written by Associate Justice E. J. Marks of the Fourth District Court of Appeals, and concurred in by Presiding Justice W. A. Sloane and Associate Justice Charles R. Barnard. The opinion upholds Judge Allison's decision denying Mrs. Frankish the title.

Frankish Company denies any deed was ever given her by the company for the property. Mrs. Frankish appealed the case when Judge Allison denied her judgment, and her appeal was declared lost today in the ruling of the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

SAN FERNANDO GIRL GETS EPHEBIAN RING

SAN FERNANDO, Jan. 8.—Katherine Kinzie yesterday was chosen a member of the Ephebian Society from the winter graduation class of the San Fernando High School. Runners-up for the honor were Phillip La Berge and Jack Street.

The honor of receiving the Ephebian ring in the Los Angeles public school system is conferred upon one out of every forty in each graduation class. The honor usually goes to the most popular student personally, coupled with his or her high rank in scholarship, during the four years in high school.

TWENTY-FIVE AUTO TOLL FOR VALLEY

VAN NUYS, Jan. 8.—Twenty-five persons met their deaths and 472 were injured as a result of traffic accidents in San Fernando Valley during 1929, according to a report issued today by Capt. C. A. Hodson, commanding the San Fernando Valley division of police, who also declared that traffic fatalities and casualties were the leading problem of his department, the same as they are in all parts of the country. The report shows also that six persons lost their lives in airplane accidents. Only six automobiles were stolen by thieves during the past year, Capt. Hodson said today.

DOCTOR INTERRED BY LEGION POST

CHATSWORTH, Jan. 8.—Funeral services were conducted for Dr. A. C. Pratt, well-known San Fernando Valley physician. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery, Los Angeles. At time of death, Dr. Pratt was president of the Chatsworth Chamber of Commerce, a director of the associated chambers of the valley and a member of various other civic and service organizations. The funeral rites were conducted by members of the Owensmouth post of the American Legion.

Mutual Citrus Association Has Its Best Year

TUSTIN, Jan. 8.—Total net returns of $251,417 to growers of the Santa Ana-Tustin Mutual Citrus Association were announced at the group's annual meeting today by A. J. Theis, manager. This return was for all grades of fruit, including culls, picked during the season, and represents net income from 311 carloads of fruit with 400 boxes to the car.

Theis declared that the 1929 season was by far the most progressive in the five-year life of the concern. As one evidence of this progress, a refund of $34,895.46 was distributed at the meeting to growers affiliated with the association.

This refund was made possible, Theis explained, by the fact that the packing-house is now entirely free from debt. The sum rebated to growers represents the revolving funds of 1925 and 1926 and a refund of 20 cents per packed box on the cost of operation.

Maricopa Road to be Part of Forest Highway

VENTURA, Jan. 8. — The seventeen-mile strip of the Maricopa Road extending from the summit of Ortega Hill to Matilija Springs, located within the Federal Forest Reserve, will be made part of the California Forest highway system, it was decided by the Forest Highways Board at its meeting December 20, last, according to information received today from C. H. Sweetser, district engineer of the United States Bureau of Public Works.

The Forest Highway Board recommended, first, that an allotment be made for a survey of the strip of road, and, second, that an allotment of between $100,000 and $250,000 (depending upon the size of the next Federal appropriation) for construction become available upon the completion of the survey.

Preliminary work, preparatory to issuing a call for bids, on Section D of the Maricopa road, an eight-mile stretch from the summit of Pine Mountain to the top of Ortega Hill, was ordered started by the Tricounty Highway Board, at its monthly meeting here today.

The preparatory work will consist of surveying and making plans for preparing to let the contract on the stretch. The additional portion of the artery will be started as soon as money is available.

Bar Association Holds Election

GLENDALE, Jan. 8.—The Glendale Bar Association, meeting last night at Oakmont Country Club, elected Justice Charles R. Dyer of La Crescenta township, president of the association. Judge Dyer will assume office at the next regular meeting in February. Other officers elected were: C. H. Hasbrouck, senior vice-president; Aubrey Irwin, secretary and treasurer, and Bert P. Woodard, trustee. Joseph L. Lewinson, member of the constitutional rights committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association, the principal speaker, attacked the use of third-degree methods by police, citing several examples in which he asserted that innocent men had been arrested and subjected to physical torture to compel them to confess to crimes that they had not committed.

HORSE LAUGH SAID TO BE ON PADDOCK

PASADENA, Jan. 8.—If Charley Paddock, former "world's fastest human," lost his legs, it would be news, but what is it when he loses his horse? Whatever it is, it will cost Charley $7 for extra rent for "losing" his horse in his own backyard instead of riding it the entire route of the Tournament of Roses parade, New Year's Day. The former sprinter, as an aide to the parade, rode his horse, rented for the occasion, as far as Lake avenue, where he excused himself, and riding down a side street, tethered his steed in his back yard on South Madison avenue, so he could rush back uptown to broadcast a description of the pageant. In the meantime, the owner of the horse had reported the horse lost and billed the Tournament Association for $750 "for one missing horse ridden by Charley." After returning the horse, the bill was reduced to $7 for extra rent.

LA HABRA TO VOTE BONDS

LA HABRA, Jan. 8.—When La Habrans go to the polls April 14, next, to ballot on city office candidates they also will be asked to vote a bond issue to provide an adequate fire department, it was decided last evening by the City Council. Lower fire rates have been promised if a suitable department is maintained, the Council was informed.

NEW TYPE OF AIRSHIP MAY CRUISE SKY

Combined Lighter-than-air and Heavier-than-air Craft Planned by Corporation

SANTA ANA, Jan. 8. — Orange county may become the home of a new aviation industry, it was made known here today when it was learned that Capt. H. H. Hammer, well-known San Clemente man, former companion of Capt. Roald Amundsen, Arctic explorer, is one of the directors of a newly-formed corporation which will build a combined lighter-than-air and heavier-than-air airship, which, it is believed, will revolutionize commercial flying.

Capt. Hammer, it was learned, will exert all his influence to have the company locate in Orange county. He is associated with Rex B. Goodcell, Los Angeles attorney and former collector of internal revenue in that city; Frank D. Williams, Los Angeles inventor; George Williams, Gustav Mox, R. C. Klepper and C. Casler, Los Angeles capitalists, in the new corporation, which is to be known as the Williams Patent Corporation, Ltd.

The purpose of the corporation, as outlined in papers on file with the State Corporation Commission, shows that it "pertains to an airship, which is said to be a combination of an airplane and two Zeppelin-type balloons, the applicant to become a licensee of said patents."

Negotiations on Water Progress

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 8.—Negotiations with the Mexican Federal government for allocation of waters in the Marron drainage basin have progressed to a point where Mexico has agreed to separate the question of water rights from the Rio Grande and the Colorado river issues now before the International River Commission, according to information sent to the Common Council by Hydraulic Engineer H. N. Savage today.

When the people voted bond money last June an item for Marron Valley development was included. Part of this reservoir basin lies within the Mexican side of the international boundary and it is required that negotiations with that government be carried on for a divisional allocation of the waters of Cottonwood Creek which crosses the boundary into Mexico at Marron.

The Mexican government has now instructed Senor Jose L. Flavela to come to San Diego and co-operate with Engineer Savage in making the proper allocation.

New Station or Rainshed Urged

PASADENA, Jan. 8.—Requesting that the Santa Fe Railroad Company be ordered, either to erect new depots in this city and Los Angeles, or to build sheds to protect passengers from rain, Joseph Scott, local attorney, forwarded a letter to the State Railroad Commission today.

"There is not a bit of difference," asserted Scott, "between the Santa Fe depots of today, and those I saw when I arrived here in 1893."

"These depots are without a sign of comfort for the visitor, and women in dainty shoes are forced to trudge through pools of water during rainy weather, and are unprotected from rain when they get off trains."

A motion-picture director who was taking "shots" at the local Santa Fe station this morning, declared, when informed of Scott's letter, "I hope they don't tear down this depot, as it is the only one within miles which we can use to take pictures of small-town stations on the Kansas prairie." Joan Crawford and other stars were "on location" at the "old landmark" today.

CHAMBER ELECTS FELLOWS

POMONA, Jan. 8.—Merrill E. Fellows, local druggist, was today named to the presidency of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, succeeding A. T. Richardson, local newspaper publisher.

DEATH CANCELS NEXT GAME

Max Gold, Victim of Film Planes Wreck, and Warren Slater, Hurt in Auto Crash, Had Handball Date

GLENDALE, Jan. 8.—Plans of Max Gold, assistant director of the Fox studios, to resume his handball contest with Warren Slater, physical director of the Glendale Y.M.C.A., were canceled when Gold met his death in the airplane wreck off Point Vicente last Thursday. Gold and Slater had played on the handball courts of the Hollywood Athletic Club a week ago, and had agreed to resume their battle this week. On his way home after the match Slater's car figured in a collision at St. George street and Griffith Park in which the machine was demolished and Slater received a number of lacerations and bruises, escaping death by inches when the car turned over several times. Within forty-eight hours Gold met death in the airplane crash.

Slater has started 1930 with his fingers crossed to ward off bad fortune, following a hectic twelve months in 1929. Last spring he was held up by two bandits and forced at the point of a gun to drive them from San Bernardino to Los Angeles; a few months later he fell in the gymnasium and shattered the bones in one arm. Shortly after his arm healed he was arrested in a neighboring city for asserted violation of a traffic law and when the judge refused to accept his statements that he was connected with the Y. M. C. A., he was lodged in jail until he could obtain funds with which to bail himself out, and the end of the year saw his escape from death in the automobile wreck.

Disabled Men's National Leader Back From Tour

SANTA ANA, Jan. 8.—Back in this city after a trip to the Northwest, William J. Murphy, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, today laid plans to leave before the end of the week on a trip through the South and Southwest in the interests of his organization.

Murphy plans to stop in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, on his way to Washington, after which he will tour Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Georgia, to inspect State homes and other institutions where disabled veterans are domiciled.

On his last trip, on which he visited the new $5,000,000 government hospital at Portland, Murphy was greeted by the governors of Oregon and Washington, by the Mayors of Seattle and Portland, and by large delegations of service men.

Masonic Bodies Install Heads

WHITTIER, Jan. 8. — The two Masonic lodges of this city held a joint installation at their annual meeting, when the officers of Whittier Lodge No. 323, and Greenleaf Lodge, No. 670, F. and A. M., were inducted into office.

Ceremonies were held at the Masonic Temple and were largely attended. An interesting entertainment of music and readings preceded the installation and the speaker for the occasion was Dr. Edwin T. Lewis, pastor of St. Matthias Episcopal Church of this city.

Whittier Lodge installed Alonzo Jones as Master; Clarence S. Cole, Senior Warden; Albert E. Lee, Junior Warden; Charles Milliken, Chaplain; Harold Southhurst, Treasurer; Earl C. Brooks, Secretary; Eugene W. Cary, Marshal; Bernard Weil, Senior Deacon; Don Scott, Junior Deacon; Frank Eldred, Senior Steward; Dan E. Strub, Junior Steward; O. K. Flood, Organist, and Lewis Johnson, Tiler.

Greenleaf Lodge installed Edmund B. Skinner, Master; Ray E. Berry, Senior Warden; Delbert H. Pemberton, Junior Warden; William A. Wood, Chaplain; Arthur W. Macneill, Treasurer; Hugh M. Topping, Secretary; Forest N. Veley, Marshal; C. O. Kennedy, Senior Deacon; Charles McCasey, Junior Deacon; J. Nye Ernst, Senior Steward; R. Sidney Johnson, Junior Steward; Lee McWilliams, Organist, and William L. Moore, Tiler.

AGED WOMAN SUCCUMBS

VENTURA, Jan. 8.—Mrs. Priscilla M. Coe, 92 years of age, mother-in-law of Dave Morrill, died last night at the Morrill home here. Mrs. Coe was a resident of Ventura county for twenty-five years. Funeral rites will be conducted tomorrow afternoon.

"NOW YOU TELL ONE"

Orange County Officers Trail 'Aliso Wild Man,' With 'Stone Age' Tendencies and Tremendous Stride

SANTA ANA, Jan. 8.—Fear of a "wild man," a huge creature who lives on dead fish and whose barefoot tracks measure ten feet apart, today gripped residents in the Aliso district near Laguna Beach.

The "Aliso wild man," who is known to have decided prehistoric tendencies, such as were "au fait" in the Stone Age, has thus far eluded arrest, but officers believe that he will soon be captured and the mystery of his bewildering mode of living revealed.

Deputy Sheriffs Jess Buckles and Harry Carter and Constable Jesse Eliott joined Chief of Police Abe Johnson of Laguna Beach in a hunt for the "wild man," but after trailing the imprints of his naked feet for ten miles over the rough, cactus-scarred terrain back of Laguna Beach, returned to reveal startling characteristics of the "cave dweller" as revealed in their chase.

The fact that the foot prints are ten feet apart indicates that the man has a towering physique, the officers said. The fact that he has been seen to eat dead fish thrown up on the strand by the waves indicates his carnivorous appetite. The fact that he scales the rocky cliffs which mark the shore line without leaving a trace of blood indicates the toughness of his skin, hardened by a prolonged existence in the caves and arroyos surrounding the aesthetic artist colony, it was pointed out.

Trappers interviewed by the officers said they had seen the "wild man" eating animals snared in their traps; they had seen his fleeting form go skimming over the horizon, the cactus and the shore rocks being taken in splendid hurdling form.

When the "stone age" cave dweller can find no decaying fish, dead birds or animals held fast in traps to appease his appetite, he does not hesitate to dip his huge paws into the garbage cans that dot the alleys back of the costly homes of internationally known artists, the report of the officers showed. The "Aliso animal," however, really much prefers dead fish to household refuse, it was added.

The recent activities of the "wild man" recalled the experience of a young woman about a year ago. She asserted that a "cave man," utterly nude, sprang from a Laguna Beach ocean front cave, attacked her and then ran off into the darkness, never to be captured.

So far the "wild man" has attacked no one, officers said reassuringly, and they hope to trap him within a few days and learn the answer to the riddle of his stone age tendencies.

Palermo Lemons May Lessen New York Quotations

REDLANDS, Jan. 8.—A market of $7 to $8 a box for lemons in New York will probably not hold forth but a few days, according to advice received today by radiogram from the government at Washington by C. P. Early, manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors. The advice is that Palermo (Italy) lemons are quoted at $2.50 in New York, including cost, insurance and freight. The European market is weak, the sent to New York for December totaled 117,444 cases, or approximately 300 cars. This is four times the quantity for December of the year previous.

"The figures do not mean a whole lot," remarked Early. "They indicate, of course, a rather heavy importation, but the amount is not sufficient to affect the market for a great length of time. In fact, they may be going into storage and not into immediate competition with our fruit."

The orange market during the week has been rather sluggish, but shippers are not worrying much about the future. Cold weather has had its effect upon sales. The spring market, however, promises to be unusually good, with high quality fruit; and not much of it.

KIWANIANS INSTALL NEW OFFICIAL BOARD

SAN FERNANDO, Jan. 8.—Charles W. Waite was inducted into office as president of the Kiwanis Club at the annual installation ceremonies of the club held at the Porter Hotel here.

Other 1930 officers installed were: Jack Culbertson, vice-president; Jack Keeley, treasurer; P. W. Willman, secretary; Harry Gillmor, district trustee, and the following new members of the board: Harrie Caldwell; H. C. Claimpitt, J. D. Merriwether, Dr. P. W. Wilmot. Other members of the board are Keeley, Gillmor and Culbertson.

Carroll Parcher of the Tujunga Kiwanis Club, lieutenant-governor of this district, conducted the installation ceremony in an impressive manner. The installation followed a dinner at which wives of the members and other guests were present.

HARBOR CHAMBER TO SEAT ITS OFFICERS

SOUTH GATE, Jan. 8.—The Harbor District Chambers of Commerce will hold the annual installation of officers' meeting tomorrow night at the Dudley Auditorium in the Home Gardens annexation to this city. The officers as announced are: A. E. Henning of Los Angeles, member of the City Council, president; Frank F. Merriam, State Senator, first vice-president; Fred C. Finkle, second vice-president; E. M. Mansur, third vice-president; Loren Howe, fourth vice-president; Carl L. Hyde, secretary, and Frank L. Walton, treasurer. Samuel M. Dudleszt, president of the Firestone Park State Bank, residing in South Gate, is the retiring president of the association. The program for the evening will be in charge of Louis A. Griley and Harold Pomeroy. The usual business meeting will be held at 5 p.m., followed by a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

LIVING CHRISTMAS TREES AWARD MADE

SOUTH PASADENA, Jan. 8.—Grand sweepstakes for the best illuminated and decorated living Christmas tree in this city, Pasadena, South Pasadena, San Marino and Altadena, was won this year by Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Speik of 1835 South Fair Oaks avenue, it is announced today by Mrs. Albert Sherman Hoyt, sponsor of the annual contest. Four persons were tied for first place in the adult class in Pasadena and Altadena. Because the judges could not agree, first prizes were awarded to Mrs. F. W. Kellogg, Mrs. Florina Sherman, Charles E. Smith, and Mrs. A. S. Sheldon.

PLYMOUTH COUNTY'S PICNIC ANNOUNCED

The fourth annual picnic of the Plymouth County (Iowa) Picnic Association will be held in Brookside Park, Pasadena, on Saturday, the 18th inst. Coffee will be served free. If the 18th is a stormy day the picnic will be postponed to Saturday, the 25th inst.

RELIEF CORPS INSTALLS

SOUTH GATE, Jan. 8.—Roosevelt Woman's Relief Corps installed new officers at Bennett's Hall last night. Those installed were: Edna Empson, president; Lillian Smith, senior vice-president; Helen Talley, junior vice-president; Mary Wright, chaplain; Florence Buell, conductor; Eller Lantry, guard; Gladys Bartlett, treasurer, and Mertie Vanderhoof, secretary.

PERMIT FOR SCHOOL GIVEN

CAHUENGA PARK, Jan. 8.—A permit for the erection of an $84,000 Class B brick school building addition to the Dickens-street school was issued yesterday. W. L. Risley is the architect in charge. The new school is needed to take care of increased enrollments in this section of the Santa Monica foothills, south of the Van Nuys district.

INDIAN RULE OF BRITAIN HELD BEST

Redlands Speaker Avers Its Withdrawal Would be Followed by Chaos

REDLANDS, Jan. 8.—Abrupt withdrawal of British control from India would mean utter chaos, bloodshed and the eventual return through demand of an outraged humanity, in the belief of F. E. Manly, speaker today during the luncheon hour of the Knights of the Round Table. Within the short space of half an hour Manley gave a vivid picture of the vast and seething masses which make India and of the conflicting religions, classes and races with which Britain must deal.

"British rule has been without question as to honesty. The integrity of its officials is tradition. Surely British rule in India should be an everlasting example for other nations in dealing with other peoples under their mandate," the speaker declared.

The declaration of independence of the "Indian National Council," he stated, comes not from the Indian people themselves but from a revolutionary body which is tolerated only because of the sporting instinct of the British. It is avowedly organized to overthrow the functioning government and would not be tolerated in America, he said. With 198 languages, with 1,000,000 people for each; seven great religions, and each religion with an infinite number of subclasses, the problem for conference is almost unbelievable, it was emphasized. The British, however, have promised a dominion status as soon as these conflicting peoples can get together for a common purpose.

The Youth Congress members have set themselves for a principle unique in history, a national patriotism which would seem impossible among so many diverging interests. The Indian possession, fourfifths of the British Empire, ruled wisely as it has been by the British, is an achievement never equaled by any other nation with colonial possessions, said the speaker.

Two Bond Issues to be Voted On

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 8.—An ordinance providing for a bond election was adopted last night at a meeting of the City Council. The date, to be set for sometime in February, will be decided upon at a called meeting next Monday night. Two bond issues will be voted on, one for $60,000 for repairs on the Municipal pier and the other for $62,000 for the extension of the pier 500 feet into the ocean. The pier is now 1400 feet in length.

The City Treasurer's report for December showed a cash on hand of $264,989.45. Of this amount, $255,280.53 is in the general fund. Balance on hand in the music and promotion fund is $17,209. The bond fund is $53,994.22. The balance is in miscellaneous funds.

Contracts were let to Tovatt's Hardware Company and to Warner's Hardware Company for 600 feet of hose to be used by the Huntington Beach Fire Department.

Manufacturing of asphalt within the city has been discontinued since complaint was made of the disagreeable odors, is the report of the County Health Board.

YOUTH GIVEN LONG TERM FOR ROBBERY

ONTARIO, Jan. 8.—For his part in the robbery of a Shell Oil Company office safe in West Ontario, November 26, last, Julian Hacker, Pomona youth, must serve from one to fifteen years in prison. This penalty was imposed on Hacker today by Superior Judge Charles L. Allison. The youth sought to free his companion, Grant Goodwin, also of Pomona, of implication in the robbery by pleading guilty, but his effort was fruitless, and tomorrow Goodwin will be sentenced. He was found guilty of second-degree burglary by a jury.

The safe from the Shell oil station office was removed to a wash near Claremont and broken open and the contents stolen. Footprints at the scene of the robbery were those of Goodwin, the prosecution contended.

RITES FOLLOW DEATH IN POLICE STATION

VAN NUYS, Jan. 8. — Funeral services were conducted at the Van Nuys funeral parlor chapel for Joseph Kooima, 53 years of age, of 7050 Van Nuys Boulevard. Interment was in Forest Lawn, Glendale. Kooima died in the local police station after he had been found unconscious in a taxicab by the police. According to the police report, Kooima had hailed the taxicab in Los Angeles and asked the driver, B. W. Morris, to drive him to his Van Nuys home. When he arrived here Morris found Kooima unconscious and local police took charge. A widow, Mrs. Stella Kooima, and a son survive.

L. S. McNEAL QUITS J. C. PENNEY COMPANY

VAN NUYS, Jan. 8.—Luther S. McNeal, manager of the Van Nuys J. C. Penney Store, has resigned after ten years' service with the Penney company and wil be succeeded by S. E. Weaver, who comes from Pocatello, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. McNea will leave here for the Isle of Pines, Cuba, where Mr. McNeal will engage in business on his own hook. He will retain his interests as a stockholder in the Penney company. Before leaving Van Nuys Mr. McNeal will be given a farewell party by the local Kiwanis Club, in which he has been an active member for a number of years.

GIFT OF SUPER-HAT MADE TO OFFICER

Capt. A. W. Gifford

More hat than he knows what to do with yesterday graced the office of Police Captain A. W. Gifford, second in command of the traffic bureau. The super-headgear is a gift from Efrain Menendez, a governmental official of San Salvador, who has been visiting Los Angeles to obtain data on traffic problems and their solution.

Senor Menendez, who is staying with friends at 833 West Fifty-third street, is planning to return home shortly and yesterday he told Capt. Gifford he wished to present him with a hat. Capt. Gifford accepted with thanks in advance.

Later in the day Senor Menendez returned with a ten-gallon Panama. When fully opened it measured ten feet in circumference, three feet in diameter and fifty inches in height. It is woven of varicolored straws.

Mouthpiece of England Said to Be Its People

"The mouthpiece of England is and always has been the people of England, not the aristocracy of the British Empire," said George Hughes in an address yesterday at the City Club.

Mr. Hughes, who is the son of the late Thomas Hughes, author of "Tom Brown's School Days," spoke of the work of his father in behalf of the United States government during the Civil War.

"Thomas Hughes was one of the best friends of the Union and spent much time and energy in informing the people of England concerning the vital issues of the Civil War," said the speaker. "Although he has passed from the sphere of earthly activities, he still lives in his influence on the lives of all lovers of liberty, both in England and America."

FRAUD LAID TO WIFE IN MATE'S PLEA

Dr. Louis E. Mahoney Says She Misrepresented Her Condition Before Nuptials

Alleging misrepresentation on the part of his wife which resulted in disappointment of his hopes for children, Dr. Louis E. Mahoney of Santa Monica will go before Superior Judge Bishop on the 15th inst. and ask for an annulment of his union with Mrs. Ida Mae Mahoney of Boston. The hearing on the doctor's petition was set for yesterday but was continued for taking depositions of physicians in the East.

Dr. Mahoney and his wife, it is asserted, are socially prominent in Boston where Mrs. Mahoney now is living. She also has a home at Mousam Lake near Sanford, Me.

The plea in the annulment action is one of the most unusual on record here. Dr. Mahoney accuses his wife of obtaining her marriage to him by misrepresenting her physical condition. The doctor further states that she told him she was 35 years of age when in fact she was 42 at the time of their marriage on December 16, 1927.

A letter, written by Mrs. Mahoney to the doctor, who is residing at the Miramar Hotel, Santa Monica, has been filed with his complaint. It reads:

"Dear Louis:

"I have tried to go about, but no use.

"I am just a nervous wreck and you are in my thoughts night and day.

"I am heartbroken to think that you think of me as you really do. Brother told me of your conversation.

"I will do whatever I can that you may be happy with another and, I sincerely trust, have children.

"I love you, Louis, and always will, but you would never be happy with me, thinking that I am so very bad.

"I am going to the Elliott Hospital for a few days as I am quite sick.

"Will write you later and will do whatever I can that you may be happy. IDA MAE."

The letter was written by Mrs. Mahoney at Copley Plaza, Boston, and received here a few days ago.

Depositions of several prominent Boston doctors are expected to figure in the hearing of the case. Dr. Mahoney is represented by Attorney J. J. McCarthy.

SUSPECT IN HIT-AND-RUN CASE TAKEN

Chauffeur Arrested After Traffic Crash Resulting in Injury to Two

John Inman, 32 years of age, chauffeur, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of failing to stop and render aid after an accident. Within a short time after being taken in custody by Officers Sims and Killeen he was released on his own recognizance by order of Superior Judge Wilson.

Inman, according to the report of Officers Sims and Killeen, drove an automobile belonging to the Petroleum Securities Corporation of Beverly Hills into another car in which Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williams of Newhall were riding.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams were cut and bruised when the force of the collision caused their car to turn over, police stated. The accident, it was reported, occured at Third street and La Cienega Boulevard.

Inman drove on, the officers reported, for several blocks before a locked brake caused him to stop. He then was taken in custody. He gave his home address as 321 South Beaudry avenue.

"Playing tag" with traffic buttons along First street was responsible for the arrest of Ralph W. Metcalf, 47, of 6211 Hollotrepe avenue, Bell, according to the arresting officers. They declared their attention was called to Metcalf by citizens who had observed him carefully weaving around the buttons at First and Soto streets. When police surgeons reported he had been drinking and he pleaded guilty to reckless driving, Judge Bush sent him to jail for five days.

Ray Biver, 18, of 132 Pine avenue, Long Beach, also drew a five-day sentence from Judge Bush. He admitted having a few drinks before hitting another automobile at Eighty-fifth and San Pedro streets on the 1st inst. and also pleaded guilty to reckless driving.

CRANDALL SUED FOR DIVORCE

Wife of Chamber's Head Asks $2000 Per Month and Share of $500,000

Shannon Crandall, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and president of the California Hardware Company, yesterday was sued for divorce by Mrs. Katherine W. Crandall, to whom he has been married for twenty-eight years.

Mrs. Crandall asserted that her husband refused to spend his time on Sundays with her, preferring instead to sleep or play golf. He refused to take her on Chamber of Commerce trade trips, and other trips, she says, because he told her she was "too puritanical."

The Crandalls live at 173 Las Palmas avenue. They were married in San Francisco, in 1901, and separated November 21, 1929. They have two adult children, a son and a daughter. Crandall is a member of the California Club, the Midwick Club and the Beach Club.

The complaint was prepared by Chester E. Cleveland, Jr., who asks $10,000 attorney's fees. Mrs. Crandall demands $2000 a month allmony, and a share of $500,000 community property.

ELECTION ORDER WON BY VOTERS

Judge Directs Mandate in Hawthorne Fight

Councilmen Overruled on Recall Stand

Effort to Oust Three Began Last March

The voters of Hawthorne may now have an opportunity to decide for themselves whether they want three of their City Councilmen to get out of office or to remain on the job.

This was indicated yesterday when the District Court of Appeal upheld the action of Superior Court Judge Baird in directing that a peremptory writ of mandate be issued to the City Council of Hawthorne, commanding them to set a date for a recall election.

The recall, aimed at Councilmen Robert C. Ramage, Frank L. Fraser and Frank J. Breen, was launched last March when a petition was filed by Hawthorne citizens with their City Clerk. Although the latter certified to the legality and sufficiency of the recall petition, the City Council, composed of the three named and two others, declined to call the sought-for election.

A writ of mandate was sought by Benjamin F. Brown in Judge Baird's court and was issued. An appeal was taken by the City Council from this order on the ground that the original recall petition was insufficient. The Appellate Court held otherwise in an opinion handed down by Justice Craig.

Religious Sect Gets Blame in Marital Rift

"Religion affects some persons in a queer way," Superior Judge Yankwich dryly remarked as he signed a decree of divorce for Benhart J. Anderson yesterday, after the husband had testified that his wife, Mrs. Margaret A. Anderson, got converted and then refused to live with him.

"Her father and mother took her to church one day," Anderson testified. "She was converted. When she came home she said she had been saved and would not live with me."

"What sort of religion is this which encourages separation between a husband and wife?" asked the judge.

Anderson named an evangelical sect, which, he said, his wife had joined.

Anderson, who is a business man in Long Beach, said he and Mrs. Anderson were married on October 29, 1927, and separated on May 5, 1928.

Son of Coyle to Be Buried Here

The body of Robert Coyle, about 21 years of age, son of Dr. Campbell Coyle who for ten years was pastor of Highland Park Presbyterian Church, will arrive at 9:15 a.m. today for burial here. Young Coyle died in Denver Monday following an operation for appendicitis. He was a graduate of the University of Colorado and Franklin High School here.

The parents and a younger son will be in the funeral party. The body will be taken to Cresse's mortuary. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Little Church of the Flowers and burial will follow in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Vernon Company Gets Award of $1 in Oil Suit

Holding that no actual damages were proven, the Vernon Oil Refining Company was awarded a judgment of $1 by Superior Judge Westover yesterday in the action brought against the Signal Hill Gasoline Corporation for $150,000 damages for asserted breach of contract.

The action followed a dispute between the companies over an asserted contract whereby the Signal Hill Gasoline Corporation was to furnish the Vernon concern with 2000 gallons of gasoline daily at an agreed price per gallon.

OWNER OF SERVICE STATION FOUND DEAD

Believed to have succumbed to natural causes, Charles Webber, proprietor of a service station, yesterday was found dead in his home at 200 Cook avenue, Lamanda Park, according to a Sheriff's office report. The body was discovered by Arthur Mallon and A. C. Musgrove, neighbors, who forced an entrance through a rear door and then notified Pasadena police, who in turn summoned deputy sheriffs. Webber was slumped down in a chair.

Deputy Sheriffs Gompert and Croushorn, who investigated, said they learned Webber had complained of feeling ill Tuesday evening, when he was last seen alive. The dead man's service station is at 209 North Santa Anita avenue, Lamanda Park.

POLITICIAN ORDERED TO TURN IN SHIELD

On motion of Commissioner Drake the Police Commission yesterday ordered Charles Olivier, asserted political boss in the Central-avenue district, to turn in a police badge reputed to be in his possession. The action was taken on complaint of L. R. Foster, who stated that Olivier threatened him, and exhibited a police badge, following an argument several days ago near the entrance to the City Hall. Inspector Longuevan, who was detailed to investigate, said that Olivier possessed a police badge assertedly given him by a former Chief of Police. Olivier holds a State license as private detective and investigator, he said.

SEITER WILL DIRECT MUSICAL

John McCormack Finishes Film—Will Play in Another; William Wyler Directs "The Storm" for Universal; Dorothy Revier Wins Lead in "Sin Flood"

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

During the interval William B. Seiter has been spending on vacation in Mexico City, he has been milling over plans for the transfer of the old Victor Herbert musical comedy, "Mlle. Modiste," to the screen.

For Seiter is definitely to direct this picture for First National, we learned yesterday.

So far it is by no means certain as to who will play the name part, although both Corinne Griffith and Billie Dove have been mentioned. However, as the role is a heavy singing part, it is possible that some notable songbird will be chosen. Indeed there is a rumor that Seiter may discover some one in Mexico, that land of musicians, who would fit into the part.

Seiter has been away for several weeks on vacation. He is returning home within two weeks.

McCORMACK PLANS ANOTHER FILM PLAY

It looks as though John McCormack, beloved singer, will continue right along with his picture career.

JOHN McCORMACK

He will finish his current Fox picture, not yet titled, on the 18th inst., according to present plans.

After that his film fate is in the hands of the gods. In less poetic, but more definite language McCormack may appear in another picture for Fox, or he may accept an offer made to him by British International to star in a picture to be produced in London and Ireland.

In any case, he doesn't intend to work in pictures again until October. In the meantime he is leaving shortly for Rome, with his wife and daughter Gwendolyn. There he will, I understand, fulfill a concert engagement. After that he will repair to his Irish estate for a rest.

Winfield Sheehan, head of the Fox organization, is now in the East, but will return within a few weeks, when he will view the McCormack picture, and it seems quite likely, judging from the reports on the singer's picture as thus far completed, that he and McCormack will get together on a new contract.

Wyler to Direct "Storm"

The storm that threatened to brew over "The Storm" out at Universal, between Carl Laemmle, Jr., and William Wyler, has all been cleared away, and it is at last definite decided that the latter is to direct the picture.

"The Storm" is to be remade as a talker. It was made as a silent picture about eight years ago, with House Peters in the star role.

So far no actor has been assigned the part, but it is known that Universal has no one under contract for the part, and so a search is to be made for the best available actor.

Dorothy Revier Chosen

Dorothy Revier, it happens, is to play the leading feminine role in First National's "The Sin Flood."

DOROTHY REVIER

The actress is borrowed from Columbia for the role, which is an exacting one. The part in the former version made by Goldwyn some ten years ago, was played by Helene Chadwick, and it was a very splendid performance.

Miss Revier has lately been giving an excellent account of herself in various Columbia and other pictures, and was chosen by First National after many tests of leading actresses had been made.

Famous Nine Depart

Their work completed, several of the nine famous stars who appear in the old-time numbers of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new revue, "The March of Time," are scattering to the well-known four winds.

Joe Weber and wife are preparing to go to Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Lew Fields are en route to New York, where Fields is to produce a musical version of "Huckleberry Finn." Mr. and Mrs. De Wolf Hopper are in Oakland, paying a visit to Mrs. Hopper's mother.

Julian Johnson Leaving

Julian Johnson, head of the editing and title department at Paramount Hollywood studios, leaves town tonight on the Santa Fe Chief for New York on a combined vacation and busines trip. He will be in the East for three weeks.

During the ten days he will spend in New York, Johnson plans to see the current Broadway shows and confer with executives at Paramount's home offices.

Frank Tuttle Directs

Frank Tuttle, motion-picture director, yesterday was assigned by Paramount to direct "The Benson Murder Case," S. S. Van Dine's entertaining detective mystery tale, which will present William Powell in his familiar Phil Vance characterization. Powell, you remember, previously played that character in "The Canary Murder Case" and "The Greene Murder Case."

Eastern Player Here

Dwight Frye, favorite of the New York stage, is among the recent arrivals in the film colony, though whether or not he will play in pictures could not be learned last night. Frye's work in such stage pieces as "A Man's Man," the Patrick Kearney drama, Robert Sherwood's "The Queen's Husband" and as second lead to Lenore Ulric in the Belasco spectacle, "Mima," has won him a large following in the East.

'HAMLET' DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE

Stratford-on-Avon Offering Notable Attraction

George Hayes Presents Fervid Portrayal of Prince

Wilfrid Walter, Joyce Bland, Others Prominent

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

"Hamlet," Shakespeare's symphonic super-tragedy, drew a near-capacity attendance last evening at the Belasco Theater. A performance colorful, and unusually sweeping in its interest, was given by the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company of this emotional and magnificent classic masterpiece, that despite its multiple deaths, seems always to fascinate its audience.

"Hamlet" succeeded "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Midsummer Night's Dream," the last named being given as a matinee yesterday. It was a work of heavy demands to follow as the afternoon production and perhaps the brilliant edge that was visible in the presentation last year—one of the best—was somewhat missing.

However, no performance of this work by the Stratford company could be aught but sterling appeal in the quality of its art, and the vivid revelations of literary beauty. Lines are always read with an admirable intelligence by the members of this organization. They all but outdo themselves in their rendition of the many familiar phases in which this play abounds. Its cumulative power, owing to the parlance in the combined interpretations, is also remarkable.

FERVID HAMLET

George Hayes was notably outstanding as he should be in the title role. He imbues this portrayal with fervor and feeling at every stage that especially reaches the heights in the more dramatic moments. The scenes with the Ghost, with Ophelia, with the Queen Mother and with Laertes he invests with a fiery intensity. The soliloquies he makes more incidental, though the one following the departure of the the players, "O! what a rogue and peasant slave am I," is of a dazzling effectiveness.

What Hayes lacks in this role is something of subtlety and of irony. He could act it with more restraint and more deft changes of mood. In these respects I feel that his interpretation last season was perhaps worthier.

However, his Hamlet never fails to be theatrically potent and interesting, and is particularly remarkable in its sustained esprit. What role after all requires so much of the actor!

CLAUDIUS DISTINCTIVE

The Claudius, impersonated by Wilfrid Walter, was a dominant figure. There is brawn, sinew and humanness to the character as he presents it. And how often in other performances is it hideously wooden.

Kenneth Wickstead attains a summit of characterization as Polonius. He delighted the audience with his clear-cut reading of the advice to Laertes, and his skillful pointing of the humor elsewhere.

Beauteous and enchanting is Joyce Bland's Ophelia. The Mad Scene is exquisite in its delicate abstractions as she interprets it. Throughout she charmed the eye by her presence.

Fabia Drake lends a dynamic meaning to the Queen, being especially fine in the clash with Hamlet.

Erik Lee merits praise for his Laertes.

Oliver Crombie as the First Player, Roy Byford as the Gravedigger, Eric Maxon were others to be duly credited for adding materially to the performance's interest. Of these Byford drew much attention, despite his necessarily belated entrance into the play's action.

"Hamlet," like all the productions of the Stratford-Upon-Avon Company, is authoritative and competent. Even despite the long early portion without intermission, it seemingly held the audience enthralled.

ROTH QUARTET IS PERFECT ENSEMBLE

Europeans Play Concert Before Capacity Audience at Library

BY I.M.J.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge presented the Roth Quartet from Budapest in a concert at the Public Library last night and thereby gave Los Angeles one of the rare treats of its musical life. The program was a Mozart in G major, the Debussy and the Schumann quartet in A minor. We have not had such an exquisitely balanced, sensitive toned quartet playing in this city for a very long time. Taste, refinement, poetry and a one-pointed idealism characterized the performance.

Mrs. Coolidge, with her customary discrimination and beneficence, has again "discovered" a fine chamber-music group for America.

These Hungarian string players seem quite young, but surely they have played together much to have reached the point of perfection they have. I hope their career in this country will be long and include many concerts in Los Angeles. The concert at the library is the only one they have given except the one in Pasadena last Sunday.

The Mozart quartet, which opened the concert, reached a poetic ideal. Four instruments were blended both in quality and quantity of tone and the phrasing, intonation and true Mozart style left one breathless for more. Debussy's precious quartet had an unforgettable performance. Certain moods were slower than we usually hear it and the pianissimi were so delicate and yet so vibrant that they haunted the air after the bows left the strings.

Another concert made it impossible to hear the Schumann, but with such players, it could not have been other than beautiful.

BURLESQUE PLEASES

The Burbank Theater is presenting "Girls from Paris" this week. Specialties and a versatile chorus make up a good production. "Girls from Paris" has several comedy scenes, which have not been seen locally, handled by Charlie Fritcher and Billy Mossey.

Actress Displays Versatility

Ruth Chatterton

Combines dramatic ability and subtle comedy in "The Laughing Lady," a film starting at the Paramount Theater today. Clive Brook is seen in a leading role.

PRODUCER WILL RETIRE

Planning soon to terminate almost a year of continuous producing activity at the Vine-street Theater, Franklin Pangborn has decided not to renew his lease on the Hollywood house.

Announcement of this decision indicated, however, that Pangborn plans to retire from the producing field only temporarily, and that in the fall he hopes to resume activities in his own theater.

"The Rear Car," now entering its third week at the Vine-street, according to Pangborn, has been the most successful production he has staged. Box-office worth of the current production was indicated the opening week when it established a new record for Pangborn Vine-street presentations. Essaying the leading role in "The Rear Car" himself, Pangborn has in his support Betty Pierce, Clay Seabrook, Rex Lease, William Lawrence, William Wagner, Harry von Meter, Greta Granstedt, Warburton Guilbert and John DeWeese.

Three Players to Appear on R.-K.-O. Stage

June Clyde, Sally Blane and Arthur Lake, prominent members of the cast of "Tanned Legs," opening at the R.-K.-O. Theater today, will be seen on the stage in person tonight.

The picture tells the story of joy-bewildered youth enmeshed in the jazz-mad vogue of the hour. Five original song numbers were written for the production, including "With Me, With You," and "You're Responsible."

Also included in the all-star cast are Ann Pennington, Albert Gran, Edmund Burns, Dorothy Revier, Allen Kearns, Nella Walker and Lincoln Stedman. Marshall Neilan directed.

The Kelso Brothers' new musical revue, "Cuttin' Capers," makes up the R.-K.-O. vaudeville stage show.

TANSMAN TO PLAY OWN COMPOSITIONS

Alexander Tansman, Polish composer, will be presented in an afternoon recital at the Women's Athletic Club tomorrow. He will be remembered by members of the Los Angeles chapter of Pro-Musica as his concert here two years ago created much favorable comment. Mrs. Nora Puterbaugh has been instrumental in bringing Mr. Tansman to Los Angeles for a concert of his own works which is being anticipated with keen interest.

The program is:

Sonata Rustica—(a) Allegro. (b) Cantilena. (c) Danza Festiva.
Six Mazurkas.
Two Impromptus: Berceuse and burlesque.
Andante and Scherzo from the Symphony in A Minor.

Sally Starr

"So This Is College," a campus comedy, directed by Sam Wood, starts a week's engagement today at the Fox Palace Theater. In the featured roles are four popular young screen juveniles, Sally Starr, Elliott Nugent, Robert Montgomery and Phyllis Crane. Cliff Edwards also has a leading part.

Ten songs were composed especially for this collegiate feature. In addition, the Palace offers a short comedy, "Social Sinners" and a newsreel.

NOVARRO STARS IN NEW FILM

"Devil May Care" Booked Into Carthay Circle on 29th Inst.

"Rio Rita" will end its run at the Carthay Circle Theater on the 29th inst. The following night the Circle will present Ramon Novarro in "Devil May Care," as predicted recently in The Times. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer attraction is Novarro's first talking picture. In it he sings six songs which are said to have scored highly in the East.

"Devil May Care" is described as a real triumph for the young star, showmen declaring that he is another Valentino. Some critics have said that Novarro is now the king of light comedians on the current screen.

A strong supporting cast will be seen in support of the leading player, including Marion Harris, former noted vaudeville artist. Dorothy Jordan, a newcomer to the films, reveals an engaging manner and winsome voice, it is claimed. Other members of the cast are John Miljan, William Humphrey, George Davis and Clifford Bruce.

Outdoor Talkie Starts Run at Fox Boulevard

"Romance of Rio Grande," the latest outdoor talking picture with Warner Baxter in a similar role to the one he portrayed in "Old Arizona," starts today at the Boulevard Theater.

Warner Baxter again gives a whimsical yet forceful characterization, it is said. His accent is the same and yet he is provided with a more romantic role.

The supporting cast includes Mary Duncan, Antonio Moreno, Mona Maris, Robert Edison and Agostino Borgato. Alfred Santell directed.

ACTORS' THEATER TO OFFER "PANIC"

"Panic," a comedy written by George Hunter, will be presented, starting Wednesday night at the Actors' Theater.

The cast of the stage piece includes several screen names such as Lane Chandler, Betty Boyd, Shirley Ann Claire, Kit Guard and others.

VIVACITY STRIKING IN PLAY

Stratford Players Endow "Midsummer Night's Dream" With Rich Humor

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

This amazing troupe of Shakespeare players of the Stratford-Upon-Avon company presented "A Midsummer Night's Dream" yesterday afternoon with such sparkling vivacity and such rich humor that the old piece fairly crackled with vitality.

Put down as the star of the presentation, the third of this year's repertoire at the Belasco Theater, the jovial and rotund Roy Byford in the person of the preposterous Bottom. Put down as another shining performer Geoffrey Wilkinson, as the cackling, cynical Puck who dares to twist the destiny of mortals in love.

For that matter, put down every member of the cast as a personable star in his or her own right. As demonstrated before in performances by the company, each and every role is filled with distinction.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is, of course, one of the favored and oft-repeated plays of Shakespeare. Light, merry and farcical romance it is yet full of the essence of human truths and frailties. It is the piece, as you may remember, in which cynical Puck sighs sadly, "Alas, what fools these mortals be."

Moving swiftly and lithesomely through the various scenes and situations, the Stratford players attain a delightful mood of reality and charm. These characters of a bygone day live and breathe, are happy and make love, even as folk of today.

One high point comes in the ludicrous caperings of the amateur performers, the carpenter, Quince; the joiner, Snug; the weaver, Bottom; the Bellows mender, Flute; the tinker, Snout, and the tailor, Starveling—in their rehearsal and presentation of "Pyramus and Thisbee," the love scenes in which Eric Maxon, R. Eric Lee, Dorothy Francis and Joyce Bland participate are beautifully and exquisitely done.

Miss Bland and Miss Francis give performances of rare skill. It is unusual to find the roles of Shakespearean woman characters filled so deftly and so sympathetically. Maxon and Lee cut excellent figures as the ardent suitors.

The fairy scenes in the wood are carried out delightfully with Miss Mary Holder presiding as Titania, queen of the fairies. Of course, although every player need not be mentioned by name, there must be no overlooking of the work done by Wilfrid Walter as the noble and upstanding Duke of Athens.

SKILL OF HOROWITZ DISPLAYED

Russian Pianist Takes Audience Back to Former Period

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The young Vladimir Horowitz played a recital last evening that took his audience back to the nineties when sensational piano virtuosi began their first pilgrimages across the land of the dollar. In Bach, Brahms, Chopin and Liszt he displayed an amazing skill and dexterity. Two numbers by Prokofieff and a smart and clever arrangement of the principal themes from "Carmen," were the only numbers of his own age that he chose to give and they were delightfully amusing.

The audience stood and cheered at the end of the concert and the young virtuoso responded with encore after encore. It was an interesting audience with most of the prominent members of the Los Angeles music profession present and a loge party by John MacCormack to add especial luster. Horowitz stirs thousands to a high pitch of enthusiasm—and I envy them. The glitter of his marvelous ability leaves me quite cold.

Two Intermezzi and the F minor Scherzo of Brahms might better have been left for some one who has loved Brahms longer time to play.

The Chopin Mazurkas in C sharp minor won my admiration. These characteristic Polish dances are not often played and few play them better. The Ballade in F, the Etude in F and the Scherzo in B minor gave further evidence of Horowitz's remarkable talent and crystalline tone.

Prokofieff's little Gavotte sounded like an impertinent little gamin in this distinguished company and his Suggestions Diaboliques were grotesque and clever.

The Sonetta del Petrarca was reported on the program as No. 123 but proved to be No. 104 and Liszt would have been delighted with the manner in which it was played.

The Virtuoso Variations on Two Themes of "Carmen" were jazz hits decorated with all the attractive frankness and assurance of modern youth.

JURY STUDIES SLAYING SCENE

Bolton Trial Session Held at Place of Killing

Lonely Spot on Roosevelt Highway Visited

Former Dance-Hall Operator Accused of Murder

At a lonely spot on the Roosevelt Highway north of Santa Monica, Superior Judge Wilson's court convened yesterday and conducted a session of the trial of John Dewey Bolton, Jr., former dance hall operator charged with first-degree murder in connection with the shooting November 9, last, of his wife, Lucille Grace Bolton.

Judge, jury, attorneys, defendant and court attaches traveled to the scene of the slaying and viewed the premises where the State charges Bolton killed his wife in order to collect insurance on her life in the sum of $10,000.

The State asserts Bolton shot his wife and then wounded himself as they sat in their automobile on the highway. Bolton told police officers at the time of the shooting that his wife had been killed and he wounded by bandits who held them up. It is the contention of the State that Bolton intentionally shot himself to distract suspicion.

The court and jury were at the scene of the shooting during the afternoon session. Testimony will be resumed in the courtroom today.

Dep. Dis.-Attys. Crail and Curtis are prosecuting the case, while Bolton is being defended by Attorney Newton J. Kendall.

JEWISH WOMEN GATHER

Pacific Coast and Canadian Delegates at Opening of Council Sessions Here

Delegates from all sections of the Pacific Coast and Canada gathered last night at Council House, 214 Loma Drive, for the opening session of the fifth western interstate conference for the National Council of Jewish Women. The meeting was the beginning of a two-day session which precedes the twelfth triennial conference of the national council.

Mrs. Joseph Friend, president of the national council, made the chief address, in which the relation of the national and interstate sections and their needs were discussed. She presented briefly an outline of the work in various parts of the country, and declared that the Jewish women should take a more active part in legislative affairs.

"The thirteen-month calendar is a matter which should interest every Jewish woman, since it affects our religion, as it is to every member of the Seventh Day Adventist group," Mrs. Friend said. "This is but one subject to which I call your attention. You should all join the national council in protesting against that bill.

"It also seems to me that presidents of State conferences should have some representation on the national board. I also want you to guard against too much machinery in interstate conferences."

Judge Hollzer discussed a man's point of view in relation to the new freedom and activity of women. He especially stressed the important part women should play in obtaining world peace, since it is the woman who bears the heaviest burden in time of war.

A speaking contest of regional presidents, with a silver loving cup awarded to Mrs. L. Rosenberg, Fresno, concluded the program. Those who took part in the contest were Mrs. Milton P. Weil, Seattle; Mrs. Charles Lowenstein, San Diego; Mrs. Henry Hill, Oakland; Mrs. H. J. Metzger, Portland; Mrs. Theodore Feist, Tacoma; Mrs. Harry Gebelle, San Francisco; Mrs. David Chudnow, Long Beach, and Mrs. Harold Blumenthal, Los Angeles.

Mrs. S. M. Blumauer, Portland, Or., addressed the delegates on the value of the inter-State conference.

Mrs. Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, inter-State president and president of the Los Angeles Council, and a prospective nominee for national president, was in charge of the program. Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin delivered the invocation.

CHIROPRACTORS WILL REOPEN TESTS TODAY

Preliminary judging in the baby show and children's health contest at the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic the 18th and 19th inst. will be resumed today. Dr. Charles H. Wood, president, said yesterday nearly fifty entries have been made, many of them representing the best types of infantile health. Free health clinics for mothers and babies will be conducted. The contest recently was postponed one week.

T. C. PALMER MERCHANTS' NEW LEADER

Retail Dry Goods Men Conduct Annual Election of Association Officers

At the annual meeting of the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association at its offices in the Sun Building yesterday, T. C. Palmer was elected president, succeeding John G. Bullock, whose term expired. Other officers elected were Tom May, vice-president and manager of the May Company, first vice-president; Malcolm MacNaghten, president, Broadway Department Store, second vice-president; George L. Binder, general manager, Coulters Dry Goods Company, treasurer, and directors, in addition to the above officers, John G. Bullock, president of Bullocks; Clarence Barker, president of Barker Brothers; Leo Jacoby, president of Jacoby Brothers; C. A. Parmalee, Jr., vice-president, Dohrmann Commercial Company; Bernal Dyas, president, B. H. Dyas Company, and Myer Seigel, president, Myer Seigel Company.

Mr. Palmer is vice-president and manager of Walker's, Inc., and has been associated with the retail business in Los Angeles more than twenty-five years. He has been active in the affairs of the association for some time and feels that it has a very important work ahead.

The Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association was formed twenty years ago by the late Arthur Letts, who became its first president. Its object is to bring about a better understanding among the merchants and to raise the standards of practice in retailing.

The annual business of the stores represented if grouped together amounts to more than $130,000,000. These same stores employ 30,000 people.

The association was one of the leading factors in the recent Christmas festival program and has accomplished many things toward furnishing Southern California with a metropolitan merchandise service the equal of any city in the country.

Mr. Eugene C. Mitchell, the secretary of the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association, is widely known in California as an aggressive leader in civic affairs.

to Weber's inquiry as to the establishment of a crusher and heavy trucking in Santa Ynez Canyon that "it is not our intention in any respect to increase the activity of the district unless for some project such as a breakwater. Such a project, of course, would be very interesting and would justify the temporary haulage of rock from the canyon. Even this is something that can be thought of rather than realised, at least for the present."

A few weeks later the application for the permit was filed. Later this application was withdrawn and the present application filed.

This afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock, there will be a public hearing before the City Council. Five hours have been given the attorneys representing the Bell interests and the objectors, to be evenly divided between the two. It will be difficult to predict what will follow, according to Councilmen. A vote may be taken immediately afterward or there may be a night session.

PROTESTERS' CHANCE

Again, it was intimated yesterday the vote may be postponed for a week to give property owners who object to the coming of the crusher industry to the beautiful Palisades region another opportunity to voice their protests.

The matter officially comes before the Council in the form of a majority report by the Planning Commission recommending the granting of the permit. This conclusion was arrived at by the commission following a nine months' hearing. The vote favoring the granting of the permit was 3 to 2.

Councilmen Jacobson, Randall, Williams, Cook, Burns, McAlister, Henning and Sanborn made the inspection trip yesterday.

INSPECTION STARTED

The inspection started at Beverly Boulevard and Stonehaven streets, the most easterly portion affected by the coming of the rock crusher. The Councilmen were shown the new site and buildings of St. Mary's College in the hills and the proposed site for Occidental College.

The inspection then continued up Bristol avenue to Brentwood Park, where the grounds of H. C. Oakley and A. M. Chaffee, the latter president of the California Bank, were viewed. Then the Botanical Gardens and Vaughn's Rivera were gone over and the Councilmen were shown the Will Rogers home and the new reservoir and then were taken to Huntington Palisades.

Here in the midst of beauty of land and sea, with the blue of the Pacific in the distance and stately eucalypti shading beautiful homes, the Councilmen were shown the site of the proposed quarry in the mountains and were told that it will lie 500 feet down the farther slope but that the limestone formation continues on both sides of the ridge and that it is the belief of residents that it will be impossible to refrain from using the rock in sight. Then the bus took the party to Pacific Palisades and Temescal Canyon, where the Methodist Chautauqua grounds, built to accommodate 5000 persons, are located.

Up Paseo Miramar into the Miramar Estates the party was taken and there was shown the exact site of the proposed quarry without intervening hills. All about were wonderfully built homes. George W. Ley, agent for the Mirimar Estates, and H. C. Legg, engineer, explained to the Councilmen that all the territory about had been subdivided and that already the Mirimar company had spent $600,000 for roads and that the project was supposed to yield close to $16,000,000.

ANTAGONIZING CREDITOR

Legg said that his company owed the Bell interests $1,400,000, but in spite of this it was fighting the quarry. Mr. Ley told the Councilmen that sales had almost ceased following the proposed quarry establishment. Finally the spacious home of Leon Kauffman, facing the Pacific, near the Arch Rock on Santa Monica Bay, was visited. They were told here that the owners had been guaranteed before buying that the neighborhood never would be other than residential.

The inspection trip lasted the greater part of the afternoon.

Roadside Death of Harbor Man Laid to Suicide

Investigation into the death of Charles G. Holmberg, San Pedro ship yard worker, whose body was found yesterday in his automobile at the Palos Verdes Estates, disclosed that the man had taken his own life by firing a bullet through his heart, deputy sheriffs reported.

Slumped over in the seat of the automobile, the body of Holmberg, who was 53 years of age and lived at 622 West Fourth street, San Pedro, was found yesterday morning by Ray Haalam and J. W. Corrigan, both of Lomita, according to a report made by deputies of the Vermont substation who first investigated.

That Holmberg intended to commit suicide is borne out by the fact that the previous day he mailed a letter to a close friend, Ed Hanson of San Pedro, in which he is asserted to have made disposition of his effects and said good-by, according to investigating officers. The first report to the effect that the gun found on the floor of the car was fully loaded for a time admitted of the possibility of murder. The bullet which killed Holmberg had been fired from the chamber of the gun, according to Deputy Sheriffs Vejar and Weyright.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Stone & Myers, Torrance.

THIEVES CAUSE BABY TO CRY

But Occupants of Home Fail to Realize Until Later What it Means

A baby's cry may mean a lot of things, deputy sheriffs opined yesterday following the report of James R. Walker, 1018 South Ditman street, that his house had been burglarized Tuesday night. In this particular instance it apparently meant burglars.

Walker reported to the Sheriff's office that the infant, belonging to visiting friends, was asleep in an adjoining bedroom when it began to cry suddenly and was taken into another room to be quieted. It was not until some time later that it was learned that the bedroom had been ransacked and two purses containing a total of $13 stolen, according to the report.

prove of inestimable value to our community.

"The present Federal Building has been entirely inadequate for many years, and as a large amount of money has been set aside by the government to produce new and adequate Federal buildings in many parts of the country, it is believed that within the next year a Federal Building commensurate with the dignity of Los Angeles will be constructed or at least started.

"We hope that every obstacle that now prevents the erection of the State Building will be swept away and that within a very few months the State Building will be commenced.

"The stimulation of our greatest industry—construction—is very vital at this time.

"It is felt that the citizens of Los Angeles should at this time particularly acquaint themselves with the product of local industry and by this we mean those items manufactured locally or carried in stock here for local distribution. This will serve greatly to stimulate local employment.

"Confidence in the future of our community was never more firmly justified than at present."

OTHERS ELECTED

Following are the remaining members of the chamber's board of directors elected yesterday, together with the positions they will hold as chairmen of the various committees:

Domestic trade, Ludwig Schiff; agriculture, horticulture and live stock, B. R. Holloway; manufacturing and industries, Robert Linton; harbor, foreign commerce and shipping, Eugene Overton; water and power resources, Henry O. Wheeler; legal and Federal affairs, A. J. Hill; exploitation and expositions, Harry L. Harper; governmental affairs, State, county and municipal, W. W. Mines; civic development and real estate, Harold Janss; finance and building, Walter Braunschweiger; construction industries, William A. Simpson; membership, P. H. O'Neil; education, art and public health, Byron C. Hanna; conventions, George L. Eastman; forestry, fire prevention, safety, W. S. Rosecrans; transportation, H. G. Miller, and aviation, military and naval affairs, Harry W. Wetsel.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND POSED AS FILM STAR

Mrs. Virginia L. Denny yesterday sued her husband, Willard L. Denny, for an annulment of her marriage to him, asserting she was defrauded into marrying him. He told her, she said, that he was a relative of Reginald Denny, film star, and that he was about to become a "big shot" in the films. The complaint was filed by Attorney Paul H. Bruns.

ILLINOIS SESSION CALLED

A rally of Illinois folk was announced yesterday for next Monday evening at Veterans' Hall, 346 South Hill street. Henry J. Brubaker, president of the Illinois State Society, stated that plans for the annual picnic of the 18th inst. at Sycamore Grove will be announced at the meeting.

CONTRACTORS TO FILE HERE

Branch State Office Opened in Los Angeles for Acceptance of License Applications

Contractors in Southern California need no longer mail applications for their State licenses to Sacramento, it was announced here yesterday by James F. Collins, registrar of the Contractors Bureau of the State. Branch offices have been established here and a clerical staff has been installed by Director Collins to handle applications, he announced.

Under the new State law, effective August 14, last, every person, company or partnership engaged in a general contracting business where the amount involved is $200 or more, is required to register his business with the State and to make application for an annual license, the fee for which is $5. There are several thousand such contractors and contracting company in California, and since the majority of them are located in the southern half of the State, the establishment of a branch office of the registrar in Los Angeles was found advisable, Mr. Collins explained.

The address of the Los Angeles office is 1012 Associated Realty Building, Sixth and Olive streets.

Mr. Collins called attention to the fact that the new law carries severe penalties for contractors who fail to comply with its provisions.

PSYCHOLOGICAL SPEECH CLINIC WILL OPEN TODAY

The new psychological clinic of the University of Southern California, believed to be the first organized speech clinic to be established by a university on the Pacific Coast, will be opened officially at the university today at 1:30 p.m.

The clinic is under the joint direction of Dean Ray K. Immel of the school of speech, Dr. George Haines Mount, chairman of the department of psychology, and Dr. Milton Metfessel, professor of psychology.

For the present the work of the clinic will be confined to stuttering and stammering, with other forms of speech defects to be diagnosed and treated psychologically in the near future, as additional facilities are added.

Located at Thirty-fifth Place and Hoover streets, the clinic will be open Tuesdays and Thuradays from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. More than forty persons already have applied for the service of the clinic, according to Dr. Metfessel, who has charge of the thirty diagnostic tests which will be used to determine the reason and nature of speech abnormalities. The work of the clinic is entirely in the field of psychology and not medical in its nature.

COLOR-FILM UNIT TO OPEN

New Fox Laboratory Costing $1,000,000 Soon Will be Ready to Aid Great Production Program

Supplementing the $20,000,000 program of the Fox Film Corporation for 1930 and part of 1931, announced in New York by Winfield Sheehan, general manager, Sol M. Wurtzel, general superintendent of the company's West Coast studios, said yesterday the most important development here will be the opening of the nearly completed $1,000,000 color-film laboratory.

The laboratory, constructed on the company's property at Sunset Boulevard and Western avenue, has been under construction for several months. It will incorporate in its production the use of a score of special color process patents.

The first productions scheduled to be made under the new color processes will be "The London Revue" and "The Fox-Movietone Follies of 1930."

Three years have been spent in developing the color processes and it is probable that within a year every Fox-Movietone production will include color, Wurtzel stated.

Nearly 20,000 extras will be employed in scenes of a talking version of Francis Parkman's "The Oregon Trail," to be produced at a cost of more than $1,000,000.

Other outstanding features of the Fox schedule call for a Hollywood production unit to be sent to the South Seas, two units to Europe, one to Norway and another to Austria.

Presence of Fox-Movietone news units in these foreign lands will facilitate the work of the local units through the former's acquaintance with the languages and customs of the residents.

Drab Existence Recited by Wife

Life was drab and dreary with Leo F. Duff, owner of a Los Angeles machine shop, according to his wife, Mrs. Susanna W. Duff, who went before Superior Judge Yankwich yesterday seeking a divorce.

"My husband seldom spoke to me. He never took me anywhere. What is worse, he never supported me. He lived in my uncle's house," Mrs. Duff declared under the questioning of her attorney, C. L. Bagley.

The couple married on March 16, 1918, and separated on January 16, 1927.

RELATIVES LOSE IN MICKLEY WILL FIGHT

A jury in Superior Judge Archbald's court yesterday decided that the will of Edgar J. Mickley, devising a $200,000 estate to his brother's widow, Mrs. Wylma Mickley, is legal.

The will was contested by Albert J. Mickley, brother of the decedent, and Marion Mickley of Sawtelle, a niece. A third of the estate was left to a home for incurables in Philadelphia, and the widow will receive an income for life from the residue.

Flying Barred to Stutterers by Uncle Sam

If you lose your temper easily, stammer, are unable to relax, wear glasses, have fits or walk in your sleep you will have a hard time convincing the United States Department of Commerce medical examiners that you are a fit person to fly an airplane.

That was the warning sounded last night by Dr. Charles H. Gowan of Glendale, an examiner, duging the meeting of the aviation division of the Junior City Club.

Dr. Gowan also related a series of more serious ailments that will keep aspiring aviators from being granted a permit to fly. These include rheumatism, asthma, sleeping sickness, too high or low pulse rate or blood pressure, enlarged heart, poor reflexes and poor sense of balance.

Vera Dawn Walker, smallest transport pilot in the world, representative of locally manufactured Panther airplane motors, announced that a Panther motor will be installed in a plane at Los Angeles Municipal Airport on the 18th inst., and from the time it is started local pilots will be welcome to fly the plane in four-hour shifts until the motor stops.

Bob Lloyd, president of the City Club aviation group, presided at last night's meeting, introducing Roy Harding of the aviation department of the Union Oil Company, who told of the welcome aviation is being accorded in Mexico, and Baron Keyes and Frank Gage, musical entertainers.

Pastor's Widow Becomes Wife of ex-Businessman

Allen K. Carrell and Mrs. Dora E. Roberts were married last night at the home of the bride's daughter at 1746 North Kingsley Drive. Municipal Judge Willis performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and Mrs. Willis. Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Carrell left for San Francisco on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Carrell is the widow of Rev. Loyd Roberts of New York City. Mr. Carrell is a relative by marriage of King C. Gillette, and of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Storm of Los Angeles. He is a retired business man of Cleveland where he maintains a summer home and where he met his bride. She has lived for several years with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hubbell of 1746 North Kingsley Drive. Charles Gaines of Los Angeles, brother-in-law of the groom, also was present at the ceremony.

FORMER SOUTHLAND ACTRESS PAYS VISIT

Helen Freeman

Helen Freeman, well known here on the stage several years ago, and who lately has made a success in Shakespearean roles in New York and Chicago, is a visitor in Southern California. She is the guest of Mrs. Chauncey D. Clarke at her Happy Date Gardens at Indio.

Mrs. Clarke is a director of the Pilgrimage Play Association, and Miss Freeman played the role of Mary Magdalene in the production six years ago. Recently, Miss Freeman played opposite Fritz Leiber during a season of Shakespeare at the Civic Theater in Chicago. Miss Freeman also is known for her portrayal in Eugene O'Neill plays.

DAMAGES SOUGHT FOR FALSE ARREST

Assertions that he was forced to spend two days in jail on a petty theft charge of which he was acquitted later, are made by Jack Sarkisian in a suit for $11,270 damages brought against S. A. Sarkisian, which went to trial yesterday before Superior Judge Mahon and continued to give the plaintiff time to amend his complaint. The litigants both bear the same name but are not related.

'THREAT' BRIDE GRANTED MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

Gertrude K. Leahy won an annulment of her marriage with John D. Leahy yesterday in the court of Superior Judge Jamison when she testified that she was terrorized into the union by Leahy flourishing a gun and threatening to kill her if she did not accompany him to the marriage license bureau and then, after obtaining the license, if she refused to wed him. The ceremony was performed at Los Angeles on October 7, 1929.

The plaintiff declared she first met Leahy at Sacramento in 1926; that she came to Los Angeles and Leahy followed her. From here she went to San Francisco. Leahy followed, she said, forcing his attentions on her. She escaped for a few months by going East, but when she came back and went in hiding in Oakland, he found her and again kept insisting that she marry him, she testified.

"It does not matter what you want. It's what I want and I am going to have what I want," Leahy is asserted to have told her when she refused to marry him.

The wife declared she then went to San Diego and Leahy again followed her. At San Diego he threatened to kill her and throw her body over a cliff, she declared. Then she came back to Los Angeles. Leahy came after her. On October 2, 1929, she said, he forced her to go to the marriage license bureau and file a notice of intention to wed and then for five days kept her in a siege of terror until she went through with the wedding.

Following the wedding, Mrs. Leahy testified, Leahy placed her in an apartment and kept her there, virtually a prisoner. During the time she was there, she said, he beat her and threatened to take her life. She escaped on November 15, last, she declared.

Mrs. Leahy was represented by Attorneys Seccombe and Bledsoe.

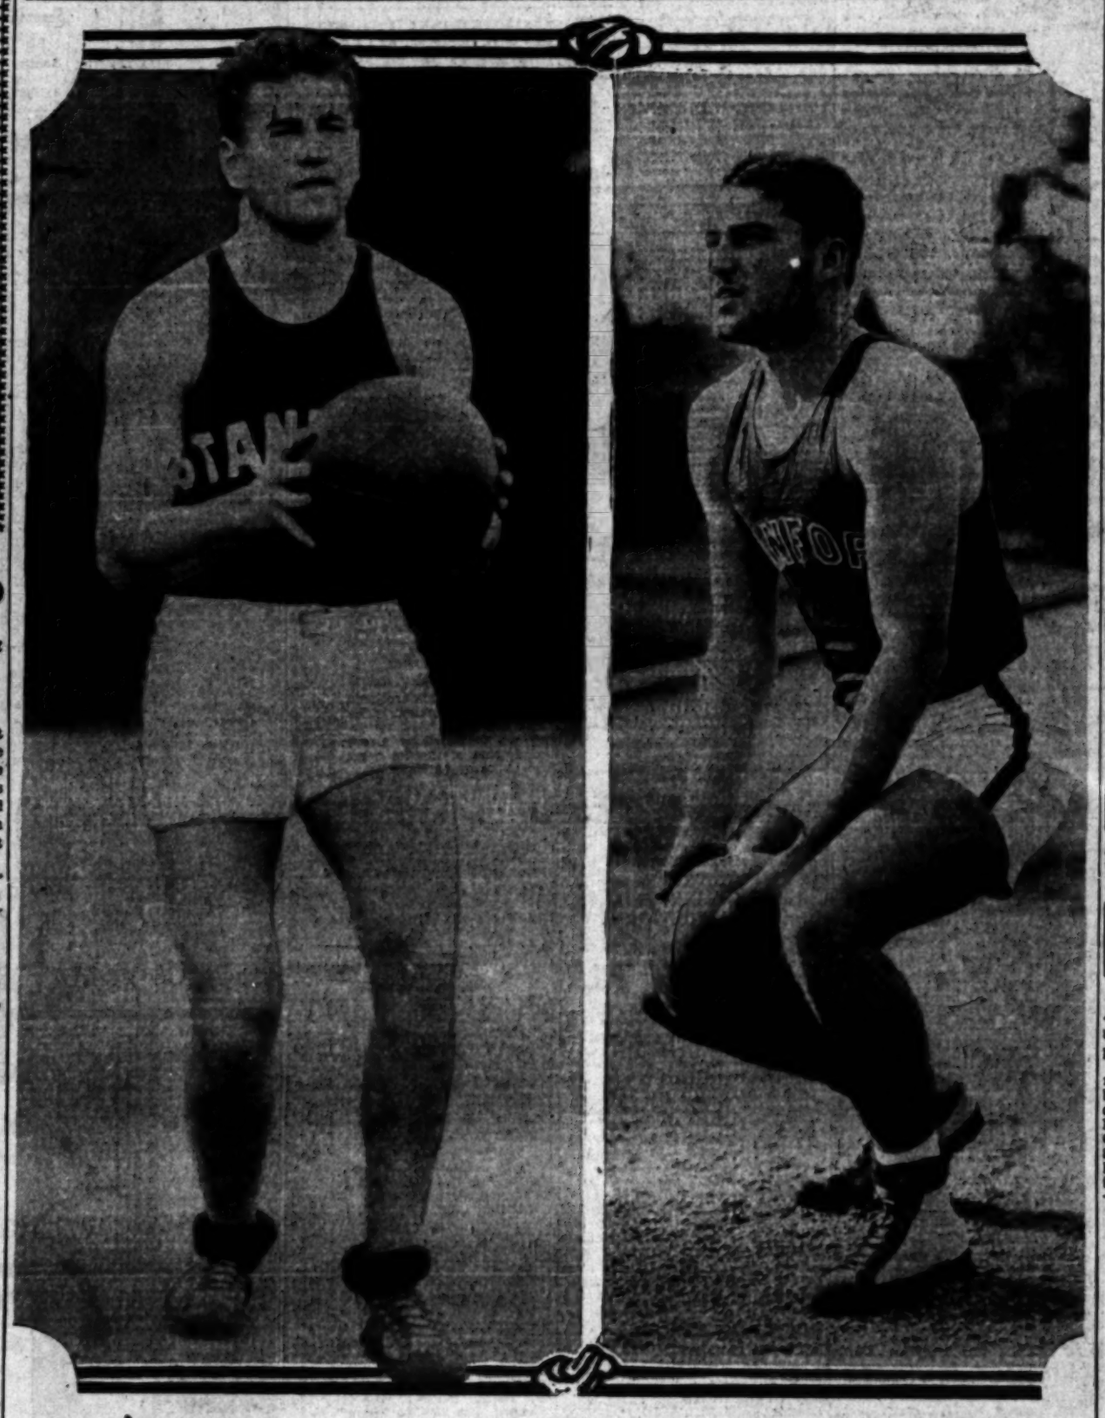
TWO CAGE STARS FROM STANFORD

Introducing John McCandless and Vance Fawcett, a couple of familiar faces to local basketball fans, who come south with the Stanford quintet that faces the U.C.L.A. Bruins Saturday night at the Olympic Auditorium in the first local Coast Conference game of the cage season. McCandless, who hails from Inglewood High, plays center for the Cardinals, while Fawcett, who, like Samson, evidently believes in whiskers there is strength, formerly starred as a forward at Hollywood High.



Ray Tandy to Captain Card Grid Eleven

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Ray Tandy, veteran Stanford tackle, was named captain of the 1930 Cardinal football varsity today at a meeting of his team-mates. He will succeed Donald (Mush) Muller, Stanford's stellar wing man, who led the Warner eleven through its 1929 schedule. Tandy, a member of El Campo Club, is registered in Stanford from Alta Loma and made his gridiron debut several years ago as a member of the Long Beach High School eleven. Chuck Smalling, Stanford's steam-roller halfback, was also honored at the football meeting today when he received the Glenn S. (Pop) Warner annual award to the player who has proved the most valuable to the team in point of character and playing ability.

FIELD OF 86 ENTERS FIRST ROUND PLAY TOMORROW

Brentwood Professional Leads at Hollywood With 143; Turnesa, Guest Also Make Grade

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Smiling Irish Johnny Farrell, the raven-locked young professional from St. Augustine, Fla., returned to the form that carried him to the United States open championship in 1928, when he smashed out scores of 71-72—143 over the Lakeside Country Club course yesterday to qualify handily for the fifth annual Los Angeles $10,000 open.

With but few casualties to mar the day, favored amateurs and professionals played brilliantly to enter the select group of eighty-six qualifiers who will tee off tomorrow morning at Riviera for the first eighteen holes of the seventy-two-hole open championship. Adding the names of forty-three golfers who finished among the low thirty in either the national or Los Angeles opens of 1929, a field of 129 will play in the Los Angeles golfing classic.

CHARLIE GUEST

Olin Dutra of the Brentwood Country Club, leading money winner for the winter season, and ranked among Southern California's three best bets at Riviera, duplicated Farrell's score over the Hollywood Country Club with scores of 72-71—143.

SHIRES EXONERATED BY ILLINOIS BOXING BODY

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Charles Arthur Shires, the great man, won another battle today—one of complete vindication.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission completely exonerated the babbling baseball-pugilist of charges of engaging in a "fixed" fight with Dangerous Dan Daly at the White City arena, December 9, in which Shires knocked out his opponent in his first professional contest, in twenty-one seconds.

Daly, who claimed he took a "dive" for Shires, was suspended for life in Illinois, for making false affidavits to the commission in regard to his name, age, and various contests in which he appeared. The commission expressed the belief that Daly's statement to a Columbus (O.) newspaper, that he had been compelled to lay down to Shires, were as false as his statements

BRUIN FIVE PREPARING FOR CARDS

Local Quintet Will Open Conference Schedule in Saturday Contest

Preparing to enter their third season in the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference, Coach Caddy Works and his Bruin basketeers from U.C.L.A. will hold final practices tonight and tomorrow night in the University High School gymnasium in Sawtelle. With a record of eight victories in ten practice games, the Westwood team is hoping to create quite a stir in local basketball circles Saturday night in the opening game against Stanford in the Olympic Auditorium.

CAPT. LARRY WILDS

The Bruin five rang up its last victory last Tuesday night at Whittier College, downing the Poet team by a 34-to-14 score. Capt. Larry Wilds, forward, and Carl Knowles, center, the Bruin scoring threats, are beginning to get into stride, and should ring the bell with a number of baskets Saturday night against "Husky" Hunt's Cardinal cagers.

The record of the team throughout the season is as follows: U.C.L.A., 37—La Verne,

TULSA CAGERS TRIUMPH

L.A.A.C. Quintet Completely Outplayed and Drops 35-24 Game to Visiting Oklahomans

BY BOB RAY

Dominating the play throughout and keeping possession of the ball during almost three-quarters of the game, the Tulsa Athletic Club quintet handed the L.A.A.C. basketballers a 35-to-24 thumping last night at the Mercury gym.

The Mercuries, who made such a splendid showing against the Henry Clothiers of Wichita Monday night, appeared dead on their feet last night and the visiting Oklahoma cagers did just about as they pleased. It seemed that the Eagles got possession of the ball after nearly every tip-off, followed in to recover most of their own tosses and invariably got the casaba off the backboard after the Mercuries had shot. In fact the Tulsa outfit simply outclassed the L.A.A.C. outfit and that's all there was to it.

The Eagles used only five men during the game, with "Slip" Jerome, a forward, and Leon Thomas, guard, tying for high-scoring honors with 10 points apiece. Thomas bagged eight of his digits in the opening period to help the Tulsans lead, 19 to 12, at half-time.

As usual, Rags Wilcox, elongated ex-Iowa center, was high-point man for the Mercuries, with 8 tallies, but Pop Failing prevented the L.A.A.C. pivot man from rolling up his customary high score by some efficient guarding. Failing followed Wilcox like a shadow and Rags experienced a tough evening.

The Mercuries started the second half by ringing up a field goal and a free throw to get within four points of the visitors, but the Eagles began passing rings around the locals at that point and soon ran up a comfortable lead to cinch the struggle. Jerome, particularly, was responsible for the spurt that iced the game for the Eagles, accounting for five points.

With the score 31-17 against them the Mercuries hooped in seven points to stage a belated rally, but the Eagles stopped it by playing keep-away with the ball and then passing in under the basket to sink two more goals before the game ended.

MARSHALL WINS OVER MALCEWICZ

Ex-Cougar Wrestler Beats Pole in Straight Falls at Daro's Olympic Show

Everett Marshall, former Washington State collegian, proved last night that he is headed for the top in the wrestling game by decisively drubbing Joe Malcewicz, the so-called Utica Panther, in straight falls at the Olympic Auditorium.

EVERETT MARSHALL

Both of Marshall's falls were airplane spins, the first one coming after twenty minutes and thirty-seven seconds of action, while the second and deciding fall was over in four minutes and twenty-one seconds.

An airplane spin, for the uninitiated, consists of picking up one's opponent, twirling him rapidly around in the air, until very dizzy, and then throwing him on the floor and jumping on him, at the same time pinning the fallen one's shoulders to the mat.

Marshall seemed to be an old-hand at the airplane hold, using it like a veteran.

Although local mat fans considered Malcewicz fast, Marshall was so speedy that he made the Panther look slow.

California Cagers, Weakened by Loss of Ten Eyck, Fear Trojans

FIVES TANGLE IN TWO TILTS

Bears to Tackle S.C. Squad Tomorrow and Saturday

Coach Price Has Dearth of Veteran Cage Material

Local Basketballers Leave for Oakland Tonight

BERKELEY, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Champions of the Pacific Coast Conference last season, the University of California's basketball varsity awaits with quivering knees its two-game series with the University of Southern California quintet in the Oakland Auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings. It was two years ago when the Bears got off to a late start that the Trojans wrested the Pacific Coast title away from them. This year, after losing three straight games to the University of Kansas, the prospects are indeed gloomy for Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price's Bears.

NIBS PRICE.

Price has been playing in hard luck so far this year. First of all he lost his star guard, Joel Coffield, through a leg injury. Coffield was not well enough to start the Kansas games. He will open the contest Friday night against the Trojans. This may make something of a difference, if Coffield has recovered sufficiently from his hurts, in the Bears' play.

The big shock to the California team, of course, is the loss of Capt. Perry Ten Eyck. The Bear leader was counted upon to take the place of Verne Corbin, the versatile center, who had led the Coast Conference in scoring for the past three consecutive seasons. Ten Eyck was the most experienced man on the team. He is out of the line-up on account of scholastic troubles. He did not play at Kansas and his absence was distinctly felt. Ten Eyck will take re-examinations at the outset of next week, when school reopens. If he is successful with them the Bears will regain their leader. If not, Price will have to be content to let the curtain fall.

As matters rest, Price has to play two entirely new men in his starting line-up against the Trojan five. His guards, Davis and Vendt, are both without former experience at California. Davis played freshman basketball two seasons back. Vendt is a new man in California basketball. Kent Parrett, understudy to Corbin last year, will play center. Wilson Tripp will operate at one forward and Coffield will do duty at the other. Coffield's regular post is guard, but in order to have tall men in the line-up Price has revamped him for a new job.

This lack of veteran material is a condition without precedent at California for the past six years. The local fans are beginning to shudder in apprehension of a basketball season similar to the lean football year of 1926, when the Bears did not win a single conference game and even lost outside the conference.

TROJAN CAGERS GO NORTH TONIGHT TO FACE BEARS

Eleven Trojan basketballers, led by Coach Sam Barry, leave tonight for the bay section, where they will open the Pacific Coast Conference cage season against the California Bears in games tomorrow and Saturday night at the Oakland Auditorium.

The Trojans, who have won all but two of their practice games, are not taking those tales of woe emanating from Berkeley about the weakness of the California five this year and are expecting a couple of tough battles. They'll be satisfied if they break even, for they will be playing minus the services of Jesse Mortensen, star center and forward, who injured a shoulder in the Trojan-Pittsburgh New Year's grid game.

Coach Barry expects to start the same line-up that has been in for the opening toss-up in all of the Trojan practice clashes. That means Gardner and Pierce will be the forwards, Smith the center and Capt. Lehners and Caldwell, guards.

Following is the list of athletes and coaches departing tonight: Jack Gardner, Bill Pierce, Henry Cano, Arron Nibley, Herman Hirdler, forwards; Frank Smith and Hank Walbot, centers; Capt. Johnny Lehners, Bill Caldwell, Ray Harris and Cliff Capps, guards; Coach Barry, Assistant Coach Forrest Twogood, Bill Hunter, director of athletics, and two student managers.

STAGG TO TALK AT CHAMBER LUNCHEON

Amos Alonzo Stagg, football coach of the University of Chicago, will be the featured speaker today at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon. Tomorrow Stagg will be the guest of honor at the Southern California Chicago Alumni Association banquet at the University Club. The famous Maroon mentor is here on the Coast for a vacation.

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Jan. 8. (AP)—Tom Conley of Philadelphia tonight was elected captain of the 1930 University of Notre Dame football team, succeeding John Law. naments, qualified at Lakeside with 76-75—151. Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur, also entered the select circle over the North Hollywood course with 76-76—152. Johnny played better golf than his scores would indicate.

Charles Guest of Hollywood, Southern California and California professional champion, who, with Dutra and Fred Morrison of Midwick, forms the chief hope of the Southland, was third low qualifier over the difficult herth course of the Los Angeles Country Club with 76-70—146.

Last, but far from least of the "golfing greats," who were forced to qualify, William Mehlhorn of New York played at Rancho to come in with 73-71—144.

Among those of national reputation who failed to qualify are Larry Nabholtz of Houston, Tex.; Clarence Hubby of Waco, Tex., and Fred McLead, veteran Washington (D. C.) pro, who had a disastrous first round of 87 at Lakeside.

FARRELL PLAYS WELL

Despite the fact that Lakeside was stretched to championship length, and the cups placed on tricky undulations of the greens, Farrell played consistently well. He was seldom over par, and made up for his few missteps by scoring six birdies, two of them coming on the short, 105-yard, sixth hole. In the afternoon, Farrell missed a hole-in-one by two inches on that green.

Turnesa, who has not played up to standard in Southland tournaments so far this year, was still battling a balky putter yesterday. He three-putted several greens after playing well through the fairway.

Dawson played some spectacular golf, but his card was marred by two sevens and two sixes. Starting out in the morning, he scored three consecutive birdies on the fourth, fifth, and sixth holes. On the same holes in the afternoon he was three over par, a difference of six strokes.

The cards:

victory to their cage triumphs in Southern California last night by trimming the strong Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, 32-22, in a fast game played in the club gym.

The Coast cagers took an early lead, having the midwestern five on the short end of a 5-2 count before the game was five minutes old. However, the Henry's found the basket and it was all over for the Coast five. The score at half was 15-5 in favor of the invaders.

Billiards

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Equaling the world's high run tournament record of seventeen, Gus Copules of Detroit tonight tossed the national three-cushion billiard tournament into a three-way tie as he defeated Otto Reisett of Philadelphia, 50 to 45, in forty-five innings. Reisett's defeat threw him into a deadlock with Champion Johnny Layton and Louis Kleckhefer, each of whom has dropped one game.

The fraction of an inch, which separated Austin Kinsfather of Chicago from victory or elimination from the current tournament, came in his battle today with Charlie Jordan of Los Angeles. Kleckhefer won the block, 50 to 49, in seventy-two innings.

In a brilliant defensive game, Johnny Layton of St. Louis remained in the battle for his title by turning back the youthful Allan Hall of St. Louis tonight, 50 to 39, in fifty-five innings. It was Layton's fifth win in six starts. Otto Reisett of Philadelphia is his only remaining opponent. Hall dropped out of the race, as it was his second defeat.

In the day's opener Tiff Denton of Kansas City hung up his second victory of the tournament, whipping Harry Schuler of New York his sixth defeat. The score was 50 to 25 in fifty innings.

Basketball

Bob Jonasen, former Manual Arts High basketball star, last night led the E. F. Hutton quintet to its fifth consecutive win in the Bulls division of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange Institute Basketball League. The Hutton basketballers triumphed over the H. O. Hagh basketeers by a one-sided score, 45-13. The former Polley star was the outstanding man on the floor as well as the high-point man for the encounter, accounting for 21 of his teams' digits.

In two other games which were held on the John C. Burroughs Junior High basketball court, the Jones Hubbard & Donnell cagers tripped the Wilcox Drake five by a 30-14 score after staging a second-half rally which netted the winning team 16 points. The basketballers representing the American Investment Company five defeated the Banks Huntley cagers, 22-12, in the third game.

WHITTIER HIGH FIVE WINS OVER MONROVIA

Whittier High's basketball squad got off to an auspicious start in the Foothill League cage race last night by downing Monrovia Wildcats, 32 to 17, in the Quakers' gym. Arrambide, Whittier forward, was high scorer of the evening with 10 points to his credit, while Van Vleit, who registered seven counters, led the Wildcats in hitting the hoop.

In the preliminary game the Whittier Class C quintet, after trailing 11-3 at half-time, rallied in the final period to eke out a 15-14 win over the Monrovia midgets.

GREENBERG STOPS CARMEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (AP)—Charley Greenberg, Los Angeles lightweight, sent over a smashing right hand to the chin to knock out Young Carmen, veteran San Jose boxer, tonight in the second round of their ten-round bout at National Hall.

LA BARBA TO STAY ON RANCH

Will Continue Training Grind at Sopers for Bout With Ignacio Fernandez at Olympic

Fidel La Barba switched training plans yesterday and decided to remain at Soper's ranch for the remainder of his training for the Ignacio Fernandez bout at the Olympic next Tuesday night.

George Blake believes that the outdoor life Fidel has lived for the last three months has built him up stronger than he has ever been.

Their 1930 campaign will be the most strenuous yet attempted, Blake said. They will take several fights here and then go into New York for the Kid Chocolate rematch.

Blake is also considering another tour of Europe. He has offers from every fight center in the old world. Both Paris and London want a rematch with Kid Francis.

Fidel is in line to fight for two titles—the bantam and featherweight. He will be a little heavy for Fernandez. The match was made at 125 pounds.

Fernandez is being sought to meet Al Singer in a rematch. Blake and La Barba saw Fernandez knock Singer out in New York. It was the most sensational fight the Filipino has had in this country.

The Olympic yesterday booked Bert Colima and Jose Peregrina to box on the 21st inst. The bout will be for the Mexican middleweight championship. The weight is 160 pounds. It will be Colima's first showing here in six months.

Ernie Owens and Dynamite Jackson were signed to box ten rounds on the same card with the Mexican middleweights. The semi for the La Barba-Fernandez card will be a rematch between Paul Delaney and Sammy Jackson.

BRUINS LABOR FOR CARD TILT

After getting off to a poor start, the Stanford team is now a potent aggregation, according to reports from the north. Capt. Harlow Rothert was kept busy in football until the last of December, and the team was dormant without him. Vance Fawcett, a former Hollywood High School star, is one of the scoring aces of the Card pack.

CARDS PICKED FOR JOURNEY SOUTH

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 8. (Exclusive)—Ten men were chosen this afternoon by Coach Husky Hunt to form the Cardinal basketball squad which he will escort southward Friday evening, to attack the Bruins of U. C. L. A. in Stanford's first conference clash.

Card hoop men selected for the invasion of Westwood are: Berg, Fawcett, Weaver and Tyler, forwards; Hawkins, McCandless and Doub, centers; and Capt. Rothert, Mears and Rowley, guards.

Hunt and Manager Charles Fox are the only officials who are to accompany the squad.

After last night's slaughter of the visiting Bengals from College of the Pacific, the Cardinal team is in a fine fettle except for Capt. Rothert, who still is bothered slightly by a sprained ankle. Last night's encounter did no further damage to the injured member, however, so Stanford's man of all sports is expected to be in good form for the Bruins.

Clothiers and Elks to Clash

In their final debut in Southern California, the Henry Clothiers basketball team of Wichita, Kan., will play the fast Los Angeles Elks No. 99 quintet at the Olympic Auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Possessing an unblemished record up to date on their western sojourn, the Henrys are out to make a clean sweep of Southern California, and the Elks, with their fine record, are expected to give them the hardest battle they have yet encountered. The antlered herd has played seventeen games to date and have dropped but two contests. The victories include a 42-to-32 win over the Los Angeles Athletic Club's squad who gave the easterners quite a scare in their recent encounter.

A special rate of 50 cents will be made high school students wishing to see the game.

KENNEDY DATE HERE IS DENIED

through his manager, Tom Maloney, has flatly refused an offer of $6500—more than twice as much as he ever received before—to meet Kennedy.

Secondly, Kennedy visited a doctor yesterday and learned that he must have a bone removed in his nose, an operation that will lay him up indefinitely.

Thirdly, Wadhams has practically completed plans to show Armando Santiago, the boy who knocked out Joey Sangor in Chicago, on the 28th inst.

At any rate Wadhams is through with the Campbell menage, he declared.

"A few months ago Campbell and his manager were around with hats in their hands begging for fights," said Wadhams. "Now they're riding their high horses and dictating terms. I gave them plenty of chumps to fight. Now let 'em try somebody a little tougher.

"When Kennedy recovers from his operation I will match him with Young Scribling, the Georgia heavyweight who fought Jack Sharkey at Miami last February."

In answer to Wadhams's ultimatum, Maloney said that when Campbell sought a fight with Kennedy at Hollywood several months ago Kennedy turned him down cold.

"Campbell is the card now," said Maloney, and he's going to put the money in the box office—not Kennedy. We want ours and when we get it we'll fight Kennedy."

Unperturbed by Maloney's line of talk, Wadhams went ahead yesterday with plans for his next shows, which include the following cards:

January 14—Fidel La Barba and Ignacio Fernandez.
January 21—Bert Colima and Joe Peregrina.
January 28—Armando Santiago and Cecil Payne (tentative.)
February 4—Eddie Mack and Cowboy Eddie Anderson.

The La Barba-Fernandez match was signed early last month, but the Colima-Peregrina bout was concluded only yesterday. It marks the return to a local ring of Colima after more than a six months' absence.

SHARKEY, SCOTT GO IS SIGNED

rival here. Sharkey already has set up headquarters in the southern playground.

The contracts signed today brought the heavyweight division a full step closer to a successor to Champion Gene Tunney, who retired from the ring in the summer of 1928. Both gladiators gave the Garden an option on their services for the remainder of this year. The winner probably will be matched with Max Schmeling, the German schlager, for the title next September in one of the big New York ball parks.

With the opponent definitely chosen for Sharkey, who opened the southern series last winter by outpointing Young Stribling in the last match made by the late Tex Rickard, the "On to Miami" move began almost immediately. Frank Bruen, general manager of the Garden, announced that he would leave Saturday for the south to put the finishing touches to the Garden's new and permanent stadium in Miami, seating 65,000.

John Buckley, manager of the Boxer Belter, will head southward about the 20th inst. The heavyweights will start serious training about the first of February.

The task of building a supporting card was started as soon as the principals signed for the main bout. Present plans call for two American heavyweights, probably Tuffy Griffith and Tommy Loughran, to oppose the best pair of foreign Goliaths available in two ten-round matches. Vittorio Campolo, who arrived here today from Argentina, is expected to get one assignment and either Otto Von Porat or Paulino Uzcudun, the other.

GREAT SHIRES IS VINDICATED

to the Illinois Boxing Commission, as to his name and age.

Daly, in his affidavit to the commission for a license to box, said his real name was Dan Daly, whereas, evidence produced at the hearing showed he is James Gary and that he is only 19 years of age, instead of 22, as he claimed.

Shires, in telling the commission of what he knew of the fight, declared with emphasis, that he never had taken part in anything dishonest in his life, and had never asked for favors in any of his athletic endeavors, and that his knockout of Daly was absolutely on the level.

Shires and his manager left tonight for Lansing, Mich., to appear before the Wolverine Boxing Commission tomorow to clear themselves of charges that they attempted to frame a fight between Shires and a heavyweight named Battling Criss at Detroit last week.

Cagers Avoid Short Pass

BY SOL METZGER

I hear it was Vic Hanson who doped out this defense for the fine out-of-bounds play that Princeton developed. Vic is one of the keenest athletes ever graduated from Syracuse. That he knows how to use the old bean is evident when you look over this masterpiece of defensive basketball strategy.

You see when there are three men in line facing their basket with the ball out-of-bounds at the end line of the court, a defense has to be on its toes or take the consequences—2 points by the opponents.

Syracuse is on its toes with this defense for any sort of play that may be worked from this combination. As the opponents move, players B and C merely drop back to avoid being checked out of the play, each covering the man who happens to advance into his zone of activity.

This move permits A to follow No. 1 to the rear. B and C, in short, are not worried about the opponents getting a long pass in. That's O. K. But they are worried about one of these opponents receiving a short pass in near the basket. Their moves rearward practically prevent this and also put them in position to cover man-to-man in case of a long pass.

Mystery Car Draws Notice at Speedway

With preparations going on at a rapid pace for Sunday afternoon's premiere of the racing season at the American Legion Speedway, the subject of Mel Kenealy's new "mystery car" is causing more than a little comment among the drivers and mechanics along Gasoline Alley.

Kenealy, who won the 1929 championship of the Southwest after one of the most sensational winning streaks in local dirt-track history, has announced that he will introduce a different car Sunday afternoon but he has refused to give details.

Kenealy, always rated as formidable, will be mixed up in a fast field in the 100-lap Durant Cup race Sunday. This event, which is headlining the initial program of the year, will attract the best of the dirt-track pilots competing in this part of the country at the present time. And that list includes Babe Stapp, Fred Quinn, "Stubby" Cantlon, Francis Quinn, "Stubby" Stubblefield, Johnny Krieger, and many others who are heavy enough on the throttle.

Cliff Durant, the multhillionaire sportsman and driver, will direct and referee this week's premiere. The 100-lap affair occupies the main event position, with the Italian Helmet dash, twenty-four-lap consolation race and the exhibition of daring motorcycle riding to be given by the Mexican Police Cossacks.

BRUIN PUGS COMPETE IN RING TOURNAMENT

The first annual boxing tournament of the University of California at Los Angeles will take place today on the Westwood campus between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. A ring has been constructed in the temporary gymnasium for the bouts.

Coach Pat Malone, Bruin boxing mentor, is directing the tournament and will use the bouts to get a line on his team material. The leading bouts scheduled are as follows:

119 pounds—Eddie Pearson vs. Al Cantor; David Tepper vs. Henry Nightengale. 129 pounds—Keen vs. J. Gilbertson; Malcolm Stewart vs. Bill Thurman. Also a distance man in track. 139 pounds—Manuel Rollins vs. B. Kleinrock. 149 pounds—Victor Terry vs. Joe Hizgley. 165 pounds—Capt. Bill Miller vs. Rosenbertaum. 175 pounds—Harvey (Swede) Matson, favored to win title. Unlimited division—Norman Duncan favored to win title. Duncan and Nelson are both football men.

GILMORE LIONS IN ICE HOCKEY VICTORY

The Gilmore Lions ice hockey squad won a 3-to-1 victory over the Sunfreze Bears last night at the Winter Garden rink. The Bears were the first to score when they tallied in the first period. The Lions came back strong in the second and third periods to score three times and ultimately walk off with the victory.

Deplorable shooting on the part of the Sunfreze team cost them the victory.

INJURED SOCCERITES IN SUNDAY'S LINE-UP

With the injured stars once more back in the line-up, the Magyar soccer football club of the City League is regarded as the most dangerous opponent for the league-leading Hollywood eleven in the remainder of league play. The Magyars meet the Vikings at Loyola Field at 1 o'clock Sunday in their first game for three weeks. Manager Paul Dosa's men started out as one of the strongest combinations in the league but injuries ruined the team in the first round of play.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

FERTILE EASTERN MINDS

THERE is one thing we of the Pacific Coast must credit eastern football writers with in the future. They have the world cheated for fertile minds.

Those who labored under the belief that the boys used up all the alibis in explaining the defeats of New York U. and Army by Oregon State and Stanford in the East's back yard last year can now consider themselves sadly deluded.

The eastern scribes have some brand new points which they are putting into circulation this glad new year in revealing the real reasons why Army and Pitt were trampled under foot so humiliatingly by Stanford and Southern California.

Here's the prise:

"The soft turf that carpets Pacific Coast gridirons is absolutely fatal to the boys. Given a hard playing surface eastern legs might have responded for a longer period, but that mushy rich California grass wore out already tired legs in jig time."

Having collapsed under the odium of this one your correspondent has referred the matter to Mr. Al Masters, graduate manager at Stanford, and the gentlemen who created the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Perhaps Mr. Zack Farmer should also be dragged into the picture, as it was at the Coliseum that Carnegie Tech met the same fate as befell Army and Pitt in other western stadiums.

And then there is one for the experts to dissect:

"Army's defense against Stanford's clever aerial game was alert and intelligent; conversely, Pitt was duck soup for Southern California's shrewdly masked passes. Army's smartly conceived diamond defense would probably have smeared those U.S.C. tosses."

Uh-huh. Well, then why didn't Army conceive a smart defense for Smalling, who made three touchdowns and knocked off 163 yards all by himself, averaging over five yards per crack?

And why didn't Pitt, which changed from a box defense to a diamond defense in the second half, stop the long passes of a second-string Trojan line-up against the Panthers and their all-Americans?

Oh, well, what's the use?

EASY COAST READING

HOWEVER, here's something from a Texas paper under the by-line of Jinx Tucker which will be more palatable for Coast readers and particularly those with local affiliations:

"The grade of football, as a whole, may not be best on the Pacific Coast, but year in and year out, we do not believe any conference can select three of its members the equal of Leland Stanford, Southern California and California.

"Of course when an eastern team makes the trip to California it is handicapped by the climate. It is usually exceptionally warm at Pasadena on New Year's day. Pitt, accustomed to playing in weather around the freezing point, probably played against Southern California as the temperature hovered around the 80 mark, but that's not alibi enough to overcome a total of 47 points, and Southern California was making points before Pitt had had time to get tired.

"On the other hand, it is noted that when southern teams have gone to the Coast, they have given the Coast representatives all kinds of trouble. The climate there is similar to the climate in which the southern games are staged. Alabama has been out there twice. They won from the champion Washington team by a lone point, and they tied Stanford. Georgia Tech has been out there once, and Tech won by a point from the University of California.

"But back to the California side of the question, it is only fair for us to state that the Tournament of Roses game of Wednesday was the first in quite a while in which the greatest team of the Coast was represented. Southern California had the best team last year, and also the year before, but the Trojans did not win the title either year, nor did they lose it. This Stanford team, coached by Pop Warner, has always been doing the unexpected. To beat Pop Warner and his crew, especially when Pop primes for a game, a coach must have his team forget everything else. The Trojans, tired of being defeated by Stanford, laid for Stanford this year and last year, and defeated Pop's team, but after doing so, were not ready for California. The Trojans lost to the University of California, and then the Golden Bears were humbled by Stanford."

GOOD BALLYHOO

THE second meeting of Goldie Hess and Cecil Payne—the boys with the tough fighting names—was even hotter than their first clash.

But there was a difference. Payne won the first skirmish hands down. He also won the second, but not so handily.

And he didn't even do that in the opinion of Benny Whitman, who called the torrid affair a draw.

Some of the boys are accusing Benny of having blind staggers as the result of the skid he took on his tail bone in the eighth round, but Benny was embarrassed enough as it was without rubbing it in. fourth round the margin of difference.

Your correspondent believes Payne did win the bout, but it was close enough to make the knockdown of Hess over the ropes in the fourth roun dthe margin of difference.

Although there was considerable perturbation in Payne's corner over the verdict your correspondent imagines that it was a veiled outburst which cloaked the knowledge another and third meeting will only result in a bigger and better "gate," and after al lthat's what the boys are most interested in these days.

FULLERTON WINS CAGE GAME FROM WILSON

The Fullerton High School basketeers won a 25-to-16 victory on their home court yesterday over the Woodrow Wilson High cagers of Long Beach. Pickens, forward, led the scoring for the victors with thirteen points, while Brand, Wilson forward, scored nine digits to lead the visitors. The Fullerton team staged a second half rally to win, trailing the Wilson outfit by a 10-to-7 score at half time.

The Class B team of Woodrow Wilson High School defeated Anaheim by a score of 15 to 11 at Long Beach, and the Class C team also registered a 16-to-9 win over the Anaheim Cees, but the visiting D team conquered the Wilson Dees, 8 to 4.

The varsity line-ups:

Fullerton		Wilson
Pickens (13)	F.	Brand (9)

UPLIFTERS POLO TILT LISTED FOR SUNDAY

Postponed a week because of the recent rains, the opening of the Uplifters' Club polo season is slated for next Sunday. Two well-matched low-goal squads will match mallets and mounts in the first of a weekly series of games to be staged at Rustic Canyon field.

Led by Will Rogers, the ranch horsemen will take 'on the Santa Monica Blues captained by Clair Brunsox in a contest that should provide plenty of thrills for the fans. The Rogers squad has been working out on Will's private polo field and are reported in fine shape. Brunson has utilized the Uplifters' practice arena for his conditioning. Ponies are said to be rounding into good form after their four months' rest in near-by pastures. The toss-in is at 2:30.

Rip Rap Wins Another Race

AGUA CALIENTE (Mex.) Jan. 8. Rip Rap, acquired by C. B. Irwin, the big turfman from Wyoming last season and claimed from him recently by R. Gelletly, scored his third straight triumph here this afternoon when he won the Point Loma handicap a mile and one-sixteenth affair. Taking command by coming around on the outside at the stretch turn, Rip Rap gained a length advantage which he held to the wire in the heavy going. Algernon, owned by William R. Coe, though in trouble rounding the stretch turn, got up for the place with Lillian T., getting the show. Time for the distance was 1:52 1-5. Results:

First race, five furlongs—Easter Seth (Hedding) won; Phil K. (Richardson) second; Son of Volta (Greo) third. Time, 1m. 3 4-5s.

Second race, six furlongs—Windjammer (Baird) won; Arcadian Flag (Richardson) second; Kamuela (Jones) third. Time, 1m. 17 1-5s.

Third race, five and one-half furlongs—Sandy Man (Schutte) won; Shasta Rose (Richardson) second; Homewood (Cleverley) third. Time, 1m. 9 4-5s.

Fourth race, six furlongs—Henry Horner (Moran) won; Ritter (Richardson) second; Hong King (Teasdale) third. Time, 1m. 13 2-5s.

Fifth race, one and one-sixteen mile—Rip Rap (Wolverton) won; Algernon (Inselona) second; Lillian T. (Morrison) third. Time, 1m. 52 1-5s.

Sixth race, seven furlongs—Thrace (Hedding) won; Geo. Groom (Greco) second; Star Mistress (Lonsdon) third. Time, 1h. 30 2-5s.

Seventh race, one and one-sixteenth mile—Pontmet (Keiser) won; Queen Olivia (Ashley) second; Cocuina (Hedding) third. Time, 1m. 50s.

OPENING DATE SET FOR HOLLYWOOD POLO

The opening date of the Hollywood polo grounds located on Ventura Boulevard was announced today by club officials. The 19th inst. was the day selected. The original opening was scheduled for last Sunday, but rain caused the postponement. The feature event on a huge program arranged, will be a polo game between the Rangers and the Valley Brook four.

Play Putts With Wrists

ARC CLUBHEAD FOLLOWS IN CHIP SHOT—NOTE LOW FOLLOW THROUGH—BELOW IS WAY TO PLAY THE SHOT
WRISTS DO HITTING DOWN TO POINT WHERE CLUB MEETS BALL—THEN—BOTH HANDS AND ARMS GO FORWARD WITH CLUB AFTER BALL IS STRUCK—THUS CLUB FOLLOWS LOW

BY SOL METZGER

Putts and chips are played entirely with the wrists and arms. But if you play them entirely with the wrists you'll scoop the ball and not do well. The big idea, so Bobby Jones's game proves, is to follow through low. The sketches above show exactly how this result is obtained. Tomorrow—Glenna Collett's chip shot.

The action of the knees, the hips, the arms on the backswing and at time of impact is well described in Sol Metzger's leaflet on The Pivot. He will send it to any reader requesting it. Address Sol Metzger, in care of The Times, and inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Legion Arena Sold Out for Campbell Go

Hollywood will play to its first full house this year tomorrow night. The Legion Stadium has Frankie Campbell and Jack Beasley billed to fight ten rounds or less and that's the answer. To be more specific Campbell is the answer for the sell-out house which Manager Tom Gallery already has despite the fact that the fight is still a day away. Campbell ,the latest magnet of the crowds, is the reigning heavyweight on the Coast's roster at the present time. He has kayoed his last nine opponents and he rules a heavy favorite to turn the trick again when he faces Beasley.

The power of Campbell's sock has made an idol of him within a six months' period. In Beasley he is meeting a tough heavyweight who also carries a mean wallop, and who some of the fistic wiseacres claim may make a good deal of trouble for Campbell. Beasley had Bearcat Wright, one of the leading negro heavyweights, on the floor twelve times before he was stopped by the dusky warrior. Wright is the boy who beat Tom Hawkins recently.

Charley Sullivan of Bakersfield is fighting Eddie Lowe in the semi-wind-up. Lowe is from Philadelphia and is said to be a good little fighter. Clayton Gouyd tackles Tommy McGough in the special event. McGough made a big hit with Legion fans in his last start. Two four-rounders complete the card.

STATION PUCKSTERS MEET VALLEY TEAM

Hector Proulx's fast-skating Van Fleet-Durkee ice hockey team, which was declared to have had an "off night" when they were trounced by the Shell Oilers Monday, will encounter Dave Patrick's Arrowhead Valley Club at the Palais De Glace rink tonight.

The Arrowheads, who loom as prospective winners of the second half of the league play, have been hitting a stride lately that rates them as favorites tonight. Bert Clark Johnny Curran and Don Wells have been doing some rifle-like shooting lately, while Patrick's all-around stick handling has been a revelation to fans who follow the amateurs.

SLUGGERS TOP CARD AT PASADENA ARENA

Pasadena Arena fans who have been chiefly looking at boxers of late, are to see a pair of sluggers tomorrow night in the ten-round main event. Jack Haywood, Monrovia negro, will return to the arena after a considerable absence, to take on Ernie Owens.

What the main event may or may not lack in science will be made up by a pair of clever lightweights in the six-round semifinal, when Young Peter Jackson, another colored hope, will fight Cliff Burrier. Four-round special event will be: Pastor Calope vs. Ray Molina, 124 pounds. There will also be two good four-round preliminaries.

FAVORITES WIN IN BILLIARDS TOURNEY

Favorites won as expected in the first round of the Pacific-Southwest three-cushion billiards tourney yesterday being held at Stevens's Billiard Parlor. Joe Hall of San Francisco, defeated Paul Evans of Hollywood, 50-47. Jack Nelson of Los Angeles, defeated J. W. Horsman of San Francisco, 50-47. The third match of the day went to Harold Engle, who beat Bob Harber, 50-33.

KETCHELL WHIPS DIXON

OAKLAND, Jan. 8. (AP)—Wesley Ketchell, southpaw middleweight from Portland, Or., was awarded the decision over Young George Dixon, negro, also from Portland, in a nip-and-tuck ten-round bout at Arcadia pavilion here tonight.

SANDWINA BEATS CORRI

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP) — Ted Sandwina, German heavyweight, outpointed Pietro Corri of Italy in the ten-round final bout at the Coliseum tonight.

OILER PUCKS FACE TIGERS

Richfield Sextet Begins Crucial Series Over Winter Garden Ice Palace Rink Tonight

In the thick of the hottest fight for the title that has been the lot of teams in the California Hockey League, the up and coming Los Angeles Richfields tangle with the formidable San Francisco Tigers tonight at the Winter Garden Ice Palace in the first of a series of crucial games.

Any team in the league is within striking distance of the top, while the Oilers and Tigers, in particular, are waging a war on each other to see which one is to displace the champion Oakland Sheiks as the lead team.

It's getting so that to lose a game means to lose a high place in the standings. To date the Tigers have had a bit of a bulge on the Oilers. This has not been due to any proficiency on the part of the Tigers in handling the Oilers, but rather to the lead which San Francisco built up earlier in the season.

In fact, the more recent games played by the Oilers and Tigers have been distinct triumphs for the Oil men.

Richfield climaxed its drive on the San Francisco position only Sunday when it gave the Tigers a beating up north, 3 to 1. That was just too much for Lloyd Cook and the other Bengals for it was their second straight setback at the hands of the well pullers. The other time was on the Garden ice, when Los Angeles won, 2 to 0. Thus in two games the Oilers have counted five goals to one for the Tigers—far from a good record.

Given new confidence by the way they handled Arthur Guy Empey's Hollywood Millionaires, 3 to 2, Monday night, the Tigers are visioning a championship and they feel that there is no more psychological moment to start said drive than against Richfield.

The Oilers have the excellent chance in their next two games to build up their championship status at the expense of the two hated northern teams and they can start the ball rolling with a win tonight. And don't forget that Manager Tommy Murray has been stressing just that thing in talking up a victory.

San Francisco has the leading scorer of the league in Art Giroux, the player who broke Hollywood's heart Monday night with a goal just thirteen seconds before the final bell. Giroux likewise should prove troublesome to the Oiler defense, along with Danton (Scotty) Scott, always one of the league's point-getters, Lloyd Cook and Duke Riley.

Line-ups:

San Francisco		Los Angeles
Broadbent	goal	Murray
Lloyd Cook	defense	Irving
Kwasney	defense	Brandon
Scott	wing	Poole
Giroux	wing	Lawrence
Riley	wing	Nichols
McLennan	wing	Reed
McDonald	wing	Larkin
Ellis	wing	Wilson
Lee Cook	wing

CITY NET PLAY STARTS SUNDAY

Entries Continue to Pour in for Tennis Tilts

Doubles entries for the fourth annual Los Angeles open tennis championships have been pouring into the offices of the City Playground and Recreation Department and Chairman Paul McClish of the Harvard Tennis Club. The city meet opens Sunday at Griffith Park playground, located at Los Feliz and Riverside Drive.

The two outstanding combinations entered to date are representing the Los Angeles Athletic Club. They are Ben Gorchakoff and Ellsworth Vines, and Sidney Wood and Lester Steefen. Art Kussman and Gorchakoff, intercollegiate national champions, will not defend their laurels. Gorchakoff, former Oxy College star, is now flying the Mercury colors, while Kussman transferred to U.S.C.

The men's and women's singles events comprise the entire schedule of play for this Sunday, including some forty-five men's contests and thirty-two women's tilts. The doubles in the men's and women's and mixed doubles will be made next Thursday evening, the 16th inst., by Chairman Paul McClish and his assistants. Play in these events will be staged along with second-round singles next week-end.
